New Internal Revenue Dept. Probe Sought

Sen. Williams Says Bureau Has 'Stooges'

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del) roused Senate demands for a new shake-up of the Internal Revenue Bureau today with a speech accusing the old Truman administration of packing the bureau with its "pet stooges."

Denouncing former President Truman's re-organization of the once scandal-plagued tax bureau as a "dismal failure," Williams called for new legislation to correct abuses which he said have grown up since Congress approved the Truman plan last year.

Loaded With "Stooges"

The Delaware senator told the Senate that far from taking the tax system out of politics, the Democratic administration loaded the bureau with "political stooges" before leaving office on Jan. 20.

As an alternative to congressional action, Williams suggested that President Eisenhower submit still another re-organization plan to replace the Truman program.

The senator said that instead of a five - man selection board approving candidates for life - time jobs in the bureau, an all-powerful Truman administration "triumvirate" headed by the former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder actually hand-picked their own favorites for the posts.

Williams' blast prompted immediate calls for a fresh overhauling of the tax service.

Sen. Long (D-La) said the Senate Finance Committee was told at a recent closed - door session that the Truman re-organization plan has cost taxpayers more than 500 million dollars.

Long said the loss resulted from failure to collect taxes due because of the shift of officials and from higher salaries paid to tax collectors.

Violated Their Promise

Williams told the Senate that former Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and other key Democratic officials "violated their promise" to fill the bureau's top posts through competitive civil service examinations.

Instead of carrying out that pledge, he said, the Snyder group ignored test ratings—passing up candidates who got high marks—and gave the jobs to favorites, including some "discredited" officials.

The Delaware senator named Snyder, former Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap and former Chairman Robert B. Ramspeck of the Civil Service Commission as the "administration triumvirate" which he said handpicked its choices for jobs in the bureau.

Ike Talks To Bohlen Before Envoy Departs

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower had a final talk today with Charles E. Bohlen before the departure of the new ambassador to Soviet Russia for his Moscow post.

Secretary of State Dulles joined in the 22-minute conference at the White House. Presumably they talked over Moscow's current "peace offensive."

Accepts Invitation

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower today accepted an invitation to attend the annual spring dinner of the Gridiron Club April 11 at the Statler Hotel.

Rescue Baby From Car

David Lawrence Johnston, 6½ months old, is rescued from an overturned car, apparently unhurt, by workmen who rushed to help after the auto in which the baby and his mother, Mrs. Frances Johnston, Colorado Springs, Colo., were riding collided with another car in Washington and did a complete flopover, landing upside down. The baby was removed through the rear window. The mother suffered only a slight scratch.

New Defense Office Urged By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—An entirely new Office of Defense Mobilization was proposed by President Eisenhower today to take over the functions of the present office of that name plus those of the National Security Resources Board.

In a message to Congress, Eisenhower said the reorganization would "help to achieve the maximum degree of mobilization readiness at the least possible cost."

Moreover, he said it would "correct the present undesirable confusion of responsibilities" in connection with the stockpiling of strategic and critical materials.

Asserting the NSRB is charged with planning for the future while the ODM, a temporary agency, is charged with programs of the present, Eisenhower said:

"The progress of the current mobilization effort has made plain how artificial is the present separation of these functions."

The NSRB would be abolished and the new ODM given permanent status under the plan.

Arthur S. Flemming is acting head of ODM at present, but the White House declined to say whether he would be nominated to direct the new setup. Associates reported he would be agreeable to the assignment.

The reorganization, designed to create a single, central defense mobilization office, will go into effect automatically in 60 days unless either the Senate or House vetoes it, or unless both houses vote to put it into effect earlier.

Makes A Difference!

SILVER SPRING, Md., April 2 (AP)—Secrecy made the difference—women can't join the Silver Spring board of trade.

The board approved admission of women last night by a voice vote.

Then an opponent asked for an official ballot.

Maryland Student Begins 2,200-Mile Voyage In Sloop

LEWES, Del., April 2 (AP)—Paul Anderton, 24-year-old University of Maryland student, left today for a 2,200-mile voyage to the Azore Islands in a 20-foot sloop.

Anderton, captain and crew of the tiny craft, said he expects to make the trip in six weeks. He has food supplies to last six months and 35 gallons of fresh water.

Before leaving port, Anderton, a junior in college, said his only fear is being washed overboard. He'll try to prevent that, he said, with a stout line, one end tied around his waist, the other fastened to the sloop's masthead.

Queen Performs Maundy Rites

LONDON, April 2 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II performed the annual and traditional royal Maundy ceremony today, in a setting of pomp and circumstance at St. Paul's Cathedral, distributing alms to 54 aged men and women.

Symbolically, she washed their feet and, again symbolically, she dried them with the towel which the lord high almoner, Dr. E. M. Gresford Jones, the bishop of St. Albans, had tied around the waist of his priestly garments.

But there was nothing symbolical about the money she distributed. Each woman of the 27 got a green purse containing one pound 15 shillings ($4.90) and each of the 27 men got two pounds five shillings ($6.30) in a white purse. It was the theory, when the royal almsgiving ceremony started years ago, that men should have more because they eat more and their clothes cost more.

Actually the coins the oldsters received are worth more than their face value, should they care to sell them. The coins are specially minted Maundy pieces, bearing an image of the Queen's head. There were 27 men and 27 women because the number is determined by the sovereign's age in years, counting to the nearest birthday. The Queen will be 27 April 21.

NATO Leaders Warn Against Easing Guard

PARIS, April 2 (AP) — Two top leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization warned the West today against letting down its guard just because Russia is talking sweetly.

The warnings were voiced by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the supreme commander, and Gen. Lord Ismay, the secretary general who was Prime Minister Churchill's chief of staff in World War II.

At a ceremony marking the start of the third year of SHAPE (supreme headquarters, Allied powers in Europe), Ridgway said Russian military strength "has not diminished one iota."

Later, Lord Ismay told reporters that "to alter our policy just because some kites are being flown would be madness."

"Until we see some practical results from peace talks," he added, "it would be absolute folly to relax or alter the policy we have been following."

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Ridgway's chief of staff, was quoted as telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington yesterday that Russia's aim was to drive a wedge between the United States and her Western allies and her recent peace talk needs careful evaluation.

"We may be facing a period now that will make the hardships and sacrifices of the last two years look easy," Gruenther was quoted.

Declaring that Russia's military capacity has "increased and continues to increase," Ridgway made a strong appeal for France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy to ratify the European Army Treaty that West Germany's lower house already has approved. The treaty would bring 500,000 German soldiers into a six-nation army of two million men.

Russians Ease Cold War Tactics In Berlin, Lift Traffic Controls

Ike Would Take Red Peace Plans At Face Value

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today this country should take at its face value every peace offer the Communists may make until such offers prove unworthy of consideration.

That was his comment when he was asked at a news conference what he thought of the Russian-backed Chinese Communist proposals to resume truce talks in the Korean War.

Eisenhower said he is hopeful there will be a quick exchange of sick and wounded war prisoners.

This, he went on, would be a clear indication that deeds rather than words have come into fashion in Russia's dealings with the West.

The United States, Eisenhower said, initiated months ago the truce proposals which the Chinese Communists now are talking of accepting. He added that we must never forget the history of past dealings with the Reds.

But, firmly and earnestly, the President said this country stands prepared to meet every honest advance from the other side of the Iron Curtain.

He declined to say whether he gave Charles E. Bohlen, the new ambassador to Russia, any personal message for Premier Malenkov when Bohlen and Secretary of State Dulles called on him this afternoon. Bohlen is leaving for Moscow immediately.

At another point, Eisenhower said that while he intends to cut waste from the armed forces he holds himself personally responsible for seeing that the United States maintains what George Washington called "a respectable posture" of defense.

Peace prospects shared the spotlight with the recent activities of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) at this first afternoon news conference Eisenhower has held since taking office.

Eisenhower grinned when McCarthy's name was first mentioned by a reporter and he plainly wanted to avoid any appearance of a controversy over the Wisconsin

Chinese Attack Central Front

SEOUL, Friday, April 2 (AP)—The Chinese Communists broke a three-day lull in Korea Thursday with a 750-man onslaught on the Central Front which cost them nearly one-fifth of their attacking force.

The Reds overwhelmed forward positions of the South Korean Capitol Division, but were ripped by artillery and bullets as they swept up to barbed wire entanglements guarding the heavily defended main line.

Repulsed after 40 minutes of combat, the Communists left 53 dead and another 75 were estimated wounded, the U. S. Eighth Army said.

It was the first battle of that size since U. S. Marines recaptured Vegas Hill on the far Western Front last Sunday.

The 155-mile front was quiet elsewhere except for two light enemy probes on the Eastern Front and the usual clash of patrols.

Fifth Air Force warplanes, hampered by bad weather, darted through haze and overcast and pounded Red troops and supply areas.

AWAITS SENTENCE—E. Merl Young, former RFC examiner, awaits sentencing April 30 on conviction on four counts of perjury growing out of the "mink coat" scandal of the last administration. He was convicted of falsely denying he accepted fees from firms doing business with RFC.

Two Are Slain, Three Wounded In Gun Battle

ARNOLD, Pa., April 2 (AP) — A hail of machine-gun bullets killed a beserk millworker today after he shot one policeman to death and wounded three others in a grim gun battle.

The early morning duel pitted policemen armed with riot and machine guns against Virgil Backus. Many citizens of this industrial community 35 miles northeast of Pittsburgh were on their way to work and stopped to watch in a pouring rain.

A state policeman climbed to a third story ledge and fired the fatal shots into Backus, 41-year-old father of six children who was known in the town as a hunter and sportsman.

Backus barricaded himself on the back porch of his home and held police at bay for nearly an hour with a 30-30 rifle. They were called to the Backus home by an unidentified person who said Backus had threatened his wife and children.

The dead policeman was Sgt. Ernest Johnson, 48 father of four children. He was hit while firing his machine gun.

Wounded were Arnold Police Chief Mike Peltz, 39, and Patrolmen Edward Bollinger, 49, and Mike Barto.

Backus died in the hospital after a Catholic priest heard his confession. He told the priest:

"I am really sorry."

Barto was sent to the Backus home after the report of a threat. Barto said he was shoved away from a door and a bullet splintered his arm before he was aware of the danger. Police reinforcements were summoned.

Backus set up a hurried barricade on the back porch and began firing at police as soon as they appeared.

Sues Patrolmen

BALTIMORE, April 2 (AP)—Mrs. Bernice Wilkins, whose arrest precipitated a Police Department investigation last month, sued the two patrolmen who arrested her for $35,000 today.

Defendants in the suit were Sgt. John Thomas Dunn and Patrolman Bernard A. Zilinski, who arrested Mrs. Wilkins on a disorderly conduct charge March 3.

Ask France, U. S. To Join Talks On German Air Safety

BERLIN, April 2 (AP)—The Russians, beaming good will, sharply eased controls on traffic between troubled Berlin and West Germany today and set the stage for Big Four talks on air safety over Germany.

In rapid succession, the Russians:

1. Invited the United States and France to join in air safety talks initiated by Russia and Britain earlier this week, an invitation the Americans and the French accepted promptly.

2. Lifted the harassing customs check on the 100-mile section of the Autobahn linking Berlin and West Germany across Soviet zone territory, permitting cars and trucks to cross the frontier at unprecedented speed.

3. Removed time consuming obstacles in the granting of trade permits for West Berlin goods consigned by rail, road and barge to West Germany.

It looked like an Easter week thaw in the cold war.

Astute Berliners pondered whether Moscow is bent on including the German question in a world-wide package deal to ease tension and enable Prime Minister Malenkov to shore up his young government on the home front.

In Bonn, capital of the West German republic, German leaders said the thaw might mean that the Kremlin will extend its peace campaign to Germany with a proposal for four occupying powers to meet on a peace treaty, all-German elections and creation of a unified government.

The attitude in West Berlin, after years of harassment and Red squeeze tactics, was "wait and see." But Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter's City Hall buzzed with optimism. Allied officials took a bright view also from the evidence of the past 24 hours.

The air safety talks between the Russians and the British were temporarily suspended because Moscow had suggested they be expanded to include the Americans and French. There was little doubt, however, that they will be resumed quickly on the four-power level as soon as the acknowledgments make their technical journeys from Bonn to East Berlin to Moscow and back.

Air safety was the key the Russians used two weeks ago to show a new attitude toward the West. The Soviet commander in Germany, Gen. Vassily Chuikov, expressed regret that Communist jet fighters killed seven British fliers in shooting down a British Lincoln bomber and suggested a parley to avoid such incidents in the future.

The Autobahn traffic development was a surprise. Truckers arriving in West Berlin reported that the frontier guards had dropped all controls except for perfunctory glances at cargo papers.

Six top Russians illustrated early this week that they had new orders from Moscow by attending a private party in West Berlin of Western officers from the Potsdam military mission. This had not happened since before the 1948-49 blockade.

The West Berlin City Senate reported with exultation that applications for trade permits, once the vehicle for Soviet "little blockade" tactics, were moving through the East zone bureucracy and hurtling back to West Berlin with a stamp of approval almost before the ink was dry.

POW Meeting May Result In Truce Plans

Liaison Officers Set Conference Monday

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, April 3 (AP) — Allied and Communist authorities Thursday agreed to a preliminary meeting at Panmunjom Monday which could clear the way for an armistice in Korea.

The meeting of liaison officers will be devoted to arranging a pre-armistice exchange of sick and wounded prisoners. But it shaped up as a prelude to a renewal of truce negotiations broken off by the Allies last October 8.

The Communists agreed Thursday at Panmunjom to Gen. Mark Clark's proposal to discuss the transfer of disabled prisoners as a first order of business. They also proposed that the liaison officers set a date for resuming the armistice talks.

Hopes Are Raised

The Communist officers also officially handed over the new plan for an armistice settlement advanced last Monday on Peiping radio by Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China.

The latest Communist move and its surprisingly conciliatory tone generated an upsurge in hopes here that a settlement could be reached on the over-all exchange of prisoners of war—the only issue blocking a truce.

Allied officers and observers at this advance truce camp agreed "this may be it" but they tempered their optimism with caution. Mindful of the nearly two years of bickering for an armistice, these officers studied the new Communist peace overtures for a "gimmick."

Some thought the "gimmick" might be the well-worn effort by Red China to use Panmunjom negotiations to gain a seat at the United Nations in New York.

Others felt it would be part of another peace offensive by Russian - led communism to wreck NATO, the European army plan, and cut down rearmament in the West.

Whatever the motive, the Moscow-backed proposal by Chou on prisoner exchange appeared on its face nearer to United Nations demands than any previous Red approach.

Proposal In Letter

Chou proposed to settle the prisoner dispute by having each side send back those prisoners who "insist" on returning to their homelands and to turn over to a "neutral state" those prisoners who resist repatriation.

The Allies estimate there are 51,000 prisoners who do not want to return to Red rule. Allied refusal to repatriate such prisoners forcibly stalled the armistice talks.

The Communist reply to Clark was in the form of a letter to the Far East Commander from the two top Communist commanders in Korea, North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Tehhuai, commander of the Chinese forces.

Slayer Is Sentenced

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—John W. Shute, 24, was sentenced today to from three to 15 years in prison for the slaying of his brother, Ralph Shute, 20, after hearing his wife say she had been intimate with Ralph.

Shute insisted that a revolver in his hand was discharged accidentally in a struggle with his brother.

Faiths Of Three Continents Hold Maundy Thursday Rites

JERUSALEM, April 2 (AP) — Churches whose spiritual centers lie in three continents today reenacted Christ's washing of his disciples' feet in Jerusalem's old walled city.

Greek Orthodox church members and Roman Catholics of Europe, the Syrians and Armenians of Asia and the Copts and Ethiopians of Africa represented world Christendom in ceremonies that differed in language but stressed alike Christ's great act of humility the night before his crucifixion.

The languages included the Aramaic of the Syrians, the ancient Egyptian of the Copts and the Latin of the Catholics.

Because of calendar differences, the Eastern and Western churches ordinarily celebrate Holy Week at different times, but this year all Easters fall together.

The Eastern churches still follow the obsolete Julian calendar, now 13 days behind the Western Gregorian calendar. Roughly once in five years the Easters fall on the same day.

Thousands packed the courtyard in front of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, rooftops, balconies and even minarets as the Orthodox church opened Maundy Thursday with an open-air washing service.

A Latin service was held inside a church in front of the holy sepulcher in the afternoon. Others held ceremonies in their own chapels.

Christ's agony in Gethsemane was commemorated in the evening by Catholics and Protestants in the vicinity of the Garden of Gethsemane. Lying on a hillside opposite Jerusalem, the garden contains twisted old olive trees several feet in diameter — old enough to be the trees beneath which Christ prayed. Catholics, Anglicans and Lutherans held services there.

Record State Budget Approved After Hasty Conferences

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP) — The brakes came off Maryland's budget today and once it took flight the Legislature steered its 193 million dollars of appropriations for 1953-54 into law.

A conference among Gov. McKeldin and leaders of both parties sped the record state spending bill on its way after many days of sputtering between the House and Senate.

No sooner had the measure been adopted than the House Ways and Means Committee shoved out the administration's bond program for buildings with more than $400,000 removed from the original $15,200,000.

And a long-range roads program, second only to the budget in administration favor, was ready to be turned loose after weeks of idleness.

The scope of budget cuts effected by the House and accepted almost wholly by the Senate means property owners next year will pay the lowest real estate tax in state history. Budget Director Rennie, after poring over the figures, said it would amount to just about the 5 2-3 cents on each $100 valuation that the House committee had set as its goal.

Precise budget totals had yet to be determined. But Rennie said they would add out to approximately $193,500,000 for the 12 months beginning July 1. Thus it will cost about 17½ millions more to run the state than this year.

Apparently trapped in disagreement between the Senate and House, and snarled worse by contention among senators, the appropriations bill burst out with unexpected speed this afternoon.

Hastily called meetings of the Ways and Means Committee and a rush trip across the Statehouse to bring in Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) preceded rapid adoption by the Senate and equally fast consent to revisions by the House.

The fast pace followed an unannounced gathering in the governor's office. With McKeldin were Della, Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) and House Majority Leader Logan (D-Caroline). Logan had led the Ways and Means Committee in its cuts that ran close to two million dollars.

McKeldin had been acutely interested in the roads program. He also had been openly cold toward a Senate-passed measure that would do away with the surplus financing which has enabled governors to balance budgets in recent years.

The surplus bill, which would have snatched away excess revenues each year in order to reduce real estate and income taxes the following year, apparently was dead tonight.

McKeldin said he told the conferees the budget wasn't wholly to his satisfaction after its knocks in the Legislature but that he couldn't expect it to be.

"Let's push it through," he said.

Downstairs later, Logan and his top committee aides advised Della restorations proposed by the Senate Finance Committee would be acceptable, but no more. That launched a series of parliamentary maneuvers which suspended rules and made the budget law within two hours.

The net reduction in McKeldin's spending plan amounted to $1,161,000, taking into account the $182,000 replaced by the Senate in the measure first adopted by the House.

Man Amputates Arm With Knife After Auto Accident

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 2 (AP)—A 26-year-old New Augusta, Miss., mechanic cut off his left arm with a pocket knife yesterday to free himself from the wreckage of his automobile.

Carl Creel, in good condition today at a hospital here, explained calmly:

"I didn't figure there was anything else I could do."

Creel said his car hit a hole in the road and flipped over on its side. His arm was pinned outside the door between the car and the asphalt highway.

"The blood was jetting out more than a foot," he related. "I was afraid the car would catch on fire, so I got my knife out of my pocket and went to work.

"The skin was not too hard to cut," he said, "but every time I chopped through a tendon, I felt a jerk in the nerves of my neck.

"The cutting I did was made a little easier by the fact the bones in the arm were broken clean through. I just followed the line of the break with the blade of my knife," he said.

"Then I began walking for help, holding my left arm tight above the elbow to stop the bleeding."

The car overturned three miles from New Augusta. Creel walked about one mile after amputating the arm midway between the wrist and the elbow.

He reached the home of the Claud Mixon family where Mrs. Mixon and her daughter, with Creel's help, managed to make a tourniquet and a sheathing with a bath towel.

Creel asked them if they could drive him to New Augusta. Neither of the women knew how to drive, so he drove with the women beside him.

At New Augusta he was transferred to the automobile of his brother-in-law and started for Hattiesburg, about 20 miles away.

Perry County Sheriff Dee Hammett said it was two hours from the time of the accident until Creel finally reached the hospital in Hattiesburg.

But, firmly and earnestly, the President said this country stands prepared to meet every honest advance from the other side of the Iron Curtain.

He declined to say whether he gave Charles E. Bohlen, the new ambassador to Russia, any personal message for Premier Malenkov when Bohlen and Secretary of State Dulles called on him this afternoon. Bohlen is leaving for Moscow immediately.

At another point, Eisenhower said that while he intends to cut waste from the armed forces he holds himself personally responsible for seeing that the United States maintains what George Washington called "a respectable posture" of defense.

Peace prospects shared the spotlight with the recent activities of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) at this first afternoon news conference Eisenhower has held since taking office.

Eisenhower grinned when McCarthy's name was first mentioned by a reporter and he plainly wanted to avoid any appearance of a controversy over the Wisconsin

Chinese Attack Central Front

SEOUL, Friday, April 2 (AP)—The Chinese Communists broke a three-day lull in Korea Thursday with a 750-man onslaught on the Central Front which cost them nearly one-fifth of their attacking force.

The Reds overwhelmed forward positions of the South Korean Capitol Division, but were ripped by artillery and bullets as they swept up to barbed wire entanglements guarding the heavily defended main line.

Repulsed after 40 minutes of combat, the Communists left 53 dead and another 75 were estimated wounded, the U. S. Eighth Army said.

It was the first battle of that size since U. S. Marines recaptured Vegas Hill on the far Western Front last Sunday.

The 155-mile front was quiet elsewhere except for two light enemy probes on the Eastern Front and the usual clash of patrols.

Fifth Air Force warplanes, hampered by bad weather, darted through haze and overcast and pounded Red troops and supply areas.

AWAITS SENTENCE—E. Merl Young, former RFC examiner, awaits sentencing April 30 on conviction on four counts of perjury growing out of the "mink coat" scandal of the last administration. He was convicted of falsely denying he accepted fees from firms doing business with RFC.

Two Are Slain, Three Wounded In Gun Battle

ARNOLD, Pa., April 2 (AP) — A hail of machine-gun bullets killed a beserk millworker today after he shot one policeman to death and wounded three others in a grim gun battle.

The early morning duel pitted policemen armed with riot and machine guns against Virgil Backus. Many citizens of this industrial community 35 miles northeast of Pittsburgh were on their way to work and stopped to watch in a pouring rain.

A state policeman climbed to a third story ledge and fired the fatal shots into Backus, 41-year-old father of six children who was known in the town as a hunter and sportsman.

Backus barricaded himself on the back porch of his home and held police at bay for nearly an hour with a 30-30 rifle. They were called to the Backus home by an unidentified person who said Backus had threatened his wife and children.

The dead policeman was Sgt. Ernest Johnson, 48 father of four children. He was hit while firing his machine gun.

Wounded were Arnold Police Chief Mike Peltz, 39, and Patrolmen Edward Böllinger, 49, and Mike Barto.

Backus died in the hospital after a Catholic priest heard his confession. He told the priest:

"I am really sorry."

Barto was sent to the Backus home after the report of a threat. Barto said he was shoved away from a door and a bullet splintered his arm before he was aware of the danger. Police reinforcements were summoned.

Backus set up a hurried barricade on the back porch and began firing at police as soon as they appeared.

Sues Patrolmen

BALTIMORE, April 2 (AP)—Mrs. Bernice Wilkins, whose arrest precipitated a Police Department investigation last month, sued the two patrolmen who arrested her for $35,000 today.

Defendants in the suit were Sgt. John Thomas Dunn and Patrolman Bernard A. Zilinski, who arrested Mrs. Wilkins on a disorderly conduct charge March 3.

Ask France, U. S. To Join Talks On German Air Safety

BERLIN, April 2 (AP)—The Russians, beaming good will, sharply eased controls on traffic between troubled Berlin and West Germany today and set the stage for Big Four talks on air safety over Germany.

In rapid succession, the Russians:

1. Invited the United States and France to join in air safety talks initiated by Russia and Britain earlier this week, an invitation the Americans and the French accepted promptly.

2. Lifted the harassing customs check on the 100-mile section of the Autobahn linking Berlin and West Germany across Soviet zone territory, permitting cars and trucks to cross the frontier at unprecedented speed.

3. Removed time consuming obstacles in the granting of trade permits for West Berlin goods consigned by rail, road and barge to West Germany.

It looked like an Easter week thaw in the cold war.

Astute Berliners pondered whether Moscow is bent on including the German question in a world-wide package deal to ease tension and enable Prime Minister Malenkov to shore up his young government on the home front.

In Bonn, capital of the West German republic, German leaders said the thaw might mean that the Kremlin will extend its peace campaign to Germany with a proposal for four occupying powers to meet on a peace treaty, all-German elections and creation of a unified government.

The attitude in West Berlin, after years of harassment and Red squeeze tactics, was "wait and see." But Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter's City Hall buzzed with optimism. Allied officials took a bright view also from the evidence of the past 24 hours.

The air safety talks between the Russians and the British were temporarily suspended because Moscow had suggested they be expanded to include the Americans and French. There was little doubt, however, that they will be resumed quickly on the four-power level as soon as the acknowledgments make their technical journeys from Bonn to East Berlin to Moscow and back.

Air safety was the key the Russians used two weeks ago to show a new attitude toward the West. The Soviet commander in Germany, Gen. Vassily Chuikov, expressed regret that Communist jet fighters killed seven British fliers in shooting down a British Lincoln bomber and suggested a parley to avoid such incidents in the future.

The Autobahn traffic development was a surprise. Truckers arriving in West Berlin reported that the frontier guards had dropped all controls except for perfunctory glances at cargo papers.

Six top Russians illustrated early this week that they had new orders from Moscow by attending a private party in West Berlin of Western officers from the Potsdam military mission. This had not happened since before the 1948-49 blockade.

The West Berlin City Senate reported with exultation that applications for trade permits, once the vehicle for Soviet "little blockade" tactics, were moving through the East zone bureucracy and hurtling back to West Berlin with a stamp of approval almost before the ink was dry.

POW Meeting May Result In Truce Plans

Liaison Officers Set Conference Monday

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, April 3 (AP) — Allied and Communist authorities Thursday agreed to a preliminary meeting at Panmunjom Monday which could clear the way for an armistice in Korea.

The meeting of liaison officers will be devoted to arranging a pre-armistice exchange of sick and wounded prisoners. But it shaped up as a prelude to a renewal of truce negotiations broken off by the Allies last October 8.

The Communists agreed Thursday at Panmunjom to Gen. Mark Clark's proposal to discuss the transfer of disabled prisoners as a first order of business. They also proposed that the liaison officers set a date for resuming the armistice talks.

Hopes Are Raised

The Communist officers also officially handed over the new plan for an armistice settlement advanced last Monday on Peiping radio by Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China.

The latest Communist move and its surprisingly conciliatory tone generated an upsurge in hopes here that a settlement could be reached on the over-all exchange of prisoners of war—the only issue blocking a truce.

Allied officers and observers at this advance truce camp agreed "this may be it" but they tempered their optimism with caution. Mindful of the nearly two years of bickering for an armistice, these officers studied the new Communist peace overtures for a "gimmick."

Some thought the "gimmick" might be the well-worn effort by Red China to use Panmunjom negotiations to gain a seat at the United Nations in New York.

Others felt it would be part of another peace offensive by Russian - led communism to wreck NATO, the European army plan, and cut down rearmament in the West.

Whatever the motive, the Moscow-backed proposal by Chou on prisoner exchange appeared on its face nearer to United Nations demands than any previous Red approach.

Proposal In Letter

Chou proposed to settle the prisoner dispute by having each side send back those prisoners who "insist" on returning to their homelands and to turn over to a "neutral state" those prisoners who resist repatriation.

The Allies estimate there are 51,000 prisoners who do not want to return to Red rule. Allied refusal to repatriate such prisoners forcibly stalled the armistice talks.

The Communist reply to Clark was in the form of a letter to the Far East Commander from the two top Communist commanders in Korea, North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Tehhuai, commander of the Chinese forces.

Slayer Is Sentenced

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—John W. Shute, 24, was sentenced today to from three to 15 years in prison for the slaying of his brother, Ralph Shute, 20, after hearing his wife say she had been intimate with Ralph.

Shute insisted that a revolver in his hand was discharged accidentally in a struggle with his brother.

Man Amputates Arm With Knife After Auto Accident

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 2 (AP)—A 26-year-old New Augusta, Miss., mechanic cut off his left arm with a pocket knife yesterday to free himself from the wreckage of his automobile.

Carl Creel, in good condition today at a hospital here, explained calmly:

"I didn't figure there was anything else I could do."

Creel said his car hit a hole in the road and flipped over on its side. His arm was pinned outside the door between the car and the asphalt highway.

"The blood was jetting out more than a foot," he related. "I was afraid the car would catch on fire, so I got my knife out of my pocket and went to work.

"The skin was not too hard to cut," he said, "but every time I chopped through a tendon, I felt a jerk in the nerves of my neck.

"The cutting I did was made a little easier by the fact the bones in the arm were broken clean through. I just followed the line of the break with the blade of my knife," he said.

"Then I began walking for help, holding my left arm tight above the elbow to stop the bleeding."

The car overturned three miles from New Augusta. Creel walked about one mile after amputating the arm midway between the wrist and the elbow.

He reached the home of the Claud Mixon family where Mrs. Mixon and her daughter, with Creel's help, managed to make a tourniquet and a sheathing with a bath towel.

Creel asked them if they could drive him to New Augusta. Neither of the women knew how to drive, so he drove with the women beside him.

At New Augusta he was transferred to the automobile of his brother-in-law and started for Hattiesburg, about 20 miles away.

Perry County Sheriff Dee Hammett said it was two hours from the time of the accident until Creel finally reached the hospital in Hattiesburg.

Faiths Of Three Continents Hold Maundy Thursday Rites

JERUSALEM, April 2 (AP) — Churches whose spiritual centers lie in three continents today re-enacted Christ's washing of his disciples' feet in Jerusalem's old walled city.

Greek Orthodox church members and Roman Catholics of Europe, the Syrians and Armenians of Asia and the Copts and Ethiopians of Africa represented world Christendom in ceremonies that differed in language but stressed alike Christ's great act of humility the night before his crucifixion.

The languages included the Aramaic of the Syrians, the ancient Egyptian of the Copts and the Latin of the Catholics.

Because of calendar differences, the Eastern and Western churches ordinarily celebrate Holy Week at different times, but this year all Easters fall together.

The Eastern churches still follow the obsolete Julian calendar, now 13 days behind the Western Gregorian calendar. Roughly once in five years the Easters fall on the same day.

Thousands packed the courtyard in front of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, rooftops, balconies and even minarets as the Orthodox church opened Maundy Thursday with an open-air washing service.

A Latin service was held inside a church in front of the holy sepulcher in the afternoon. Others held ceremonies in their own chapels.

Christ's agony in Gethsemane was commemorated in the evening by Catholics and Protestants in the vicinity of the Garden of Gethsemane. Lying on a hillside opposite Jerusalem, the garden contains twisted old olive trees several feet in diameter — old enough to be the trees beneath which Christ prayed. Catholics, Anglicans and Lutherans held services there.

Record State Budget Approved After Hasty Conferences

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP) — The brakes came off Maryland's budget today and once it took flight the Legislature steered its 193 million dollars of appropriations for 1953-54 into law.

A conference among Gov. McKeldin and leaders of both parties sped the record state spending bill on its way after many days of sputtering between the House and Senate.

No sooner had the measure been adopted than the House Ways and Means Committee shoved out the administration's bond program for buildings with more than $400,000 removed from the original $15,200,000.

And a long-range roads program, second only to the budget in administration favor, was ready to be turned loose after weeks of idleness.

The scope of budget cuts effected by the House and accepted almost wholly by the Senate means property owners next year will pay the lowest real estate tax in state history. Budget Director Rennie, after poring over the figures, said it would amount to just about the 5 2-3 cents on each $100 valuation that the House committee had set as its goal.

Precise budget totals had yet to be determined. But Rennie said they would add out to approximately $193,500,000 for the 12 months beginning July 1. Thus it will cost about 17½ millions more to run the state than this year.

Apparently trapped in disagreement between the Senate and House, and snarled worse by contention among senators, the appropriations bill burst out with unexpected speed this afternoon.

Hastily called meetings of the Ways and Means Committee and a rush trip across the Statehouse to bring in Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) preceded rapid adoption by the Senate and equally fast consent to revisions by the House.

The fast pace followed an unannounced gathering in the governor's office. With McKeldin were Della, Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) and House Majority Leader Logan (D-Caroline). Logan had led the Ways and Means Committee in its cuts that ran close to two million dollars.

McKeldin had been acutely interested in the roads program. He also had been openly cold toward a Senate-passed measure that would do away with the surplus financing which has enabled governors to balance budgets in recent years.

The surplus bill, which would have snatched away excess revenues each year in order to reduce real estate and income taxes the following year, apparently was dead tonight.

McKeldin said he told the conferees the budget wasn't wholly to his satisfaction after its knocks in the Legislature but that he couldn't expect it to be.

"Let's push it through," he said.

Downstairs later, Logan and his top committee aides advised Della restorations proposed by the Senate Finance Committee would be acceptable, but no more. That launched a series of parliamentary maneuvers which suspended rules and made the budget law within two hours.

The net reduction in McKeldin's spending plan amounted to $1,161,000, taking into account the $182,000 replaced by the Senate in the measure first adopted by the House.

Link Mystery Sub To South Africa Election

DURBAN, South Africa, April 2 (AP)—A mysterious submarine which appeared off the coast three weeks ago and the threat of a general strike by non-Whites against racial laws appeared likely today to become involved in South Africa's April 15 general election.

The submarine was spotted four miles off Natal's shore March 12 by a South African coastal patrol plane, but crashdived before the plane could get a good look.

Defense Minister F. C. Erasmus told an audience at Windhoek last night the submarine "appeared to be Russian."

The Afrikaans language newspaper, Dagbreek en Sondagnuus, reported that police had a theory the submarine may have landed agitators to stir up trouble among non-Whites.

J. G. N. Strauss, leader of the opposition United party, declared Prime Minister Daniel Malan's Nationalist party, may be planning to divert the people's minds from the real issues of the election.

Malan's government favors a policy of apartheid, or strict segregation of races, in order to preserve rule by outnumbered Whites. The United party says Malan's policies are stirring up strife, and proposes to return to a policy of consultation with non-Whites.

Non-White leaders of the country's passive resistance movement said today they intend to call a nation-wide strike after the April 15 elections, regardless of which side wins.

Since June about 9,000 Negroes and Indians in the passive resistance movement have been arrested for deliberately marching into White waiting rooms at railway stations, entering forbidden areas without passes or breaking curfew regulations.

Work stoppages in South Africa have had a bloody tradition.

senator's recent dealings with Greek ship owners. McCarthy recently promoted an agreement among owners of 242 ships to refrain from trade with Red China.

Eisenhower said no such dealings—however misguided—could undermine American foreign policy because no one but the President and the secretary of state has the power to negotiate on behalf of this country. Every senator knows that—without exception, he said.

On other matters:

Eisenhower said Gen. James A. Van Fleet has never told him anything about being forbidden to launch an amphibious attack behind Chinese lines in Korea. Van Fleet told Senate investigators yesterday his plan to hit at the enemy was vetoed by the former Far Eastern commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The President said he favors a one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act in pretty much its present form to allow time for a detailed study of what should be done in this field in the future.

Eisenhower said, speaking of farm prices, that butter is pricing itself out of the market. By law, he said, the government now must buy some two million pounds of butter a day at the support price of about 67 2-3 cents a pound. That, declared the President, is too much butter. And he said it's a crime against civilization that some of this butter spoils in storage at a time when there are hungry people who could use it.

Julius Caesar's Roman legionnaires received part of their pay in common salt. The Latin word for salt is "salarium," from which comes the English word "salary."

Police Unravel Few Threads In Man's Mysterious Death

BALTIMORE, April 2 (AP)—A few threads were unraveled today from the bizarre mystery surrounding the death of Bernard Joseph Hess, who was found badly burned in the unburned wreckage of a stolen automobile.

Hess, 35, died in University Hospital here yesterday of head injuries suffered when the car cracked up on Route 30 near Manchester, Carroll County.

Doctors cleared up the mystery of how he was burned over 30 to 40 per cent of his body, even though there was no evidence of fire about the auto wreckage. They said the burns were caused by chemicals in gasoline which apparently had leaked from the wrecked car and saturated his clothing.

Police sent word of Hess' death to his wife in jail. She has been serving a three-year sentence for the embezzlement of $11,589 from a lumber firm where she was a cashier and accountant.

Hess was a co-defendant in the same case but was found innocent. Two months later, he was convicted of forgery and placed on probation.

Investigators found that Hess' death car was stolen from a Baltimore agency by a man posing as a prospective customer who wanted to take a trial spin. When he did not return after several hours, the salesman notified police.

The auto thief had shown credentials bearing the name of Harry C. Johnson, who lives in suburban Catonsville.

Officers said Johnson told them he had loaned Hess a suit and apparently had forgotten to remove a wallet with his papers.

When found, the smashed automobile had license plates of a Pennsylvania car which had been stolen Tuesday, a short time after the Baltimore theft.

Officers said Hess once worked at the same automobile agency where the convertible was stolen.

Stocks Decline To New Low Following Red Peace Offers

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — The Stock Market declined today to another new low for the year.

Most of the credit for the break was laid at the door of the Communist proposals for an exchange of Korean war prisoners and subsequent Red peace moves in various parts of the world.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents at $111.30. The industrial component of the average was down 30 cents, the railroads were down $1.10, while the utilities held unchanged.

Down along with the railroads were the aircrafts, coppers and oils. Most other major divisions were mixed. Steels were largely higher.

Panhandle Oil was the day's most active issue off ½ at 9⅛. It was followed by Pacific Western Oil off 1⅛ at 42⅞, Consolidated Vultee up 1¼ at 21, 20th Century-Fox off ⅞ at 16¾, and National Theaters off ½ at 7.

New Internal Revenue Dept. Probe Sought

Sen. Williams Says Bureau Has 'Stooges'

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del) roused Senate demands for a new shake-up of the Internal Revenue Bureau today with a speech accusing the old Truman administration of packing the bureau with its "pet stooges."

Denouncing former President Truman's re-organization of the once scandal-plagued tax bureau as a "dismal failure," Williams called for new legislation to correct abuses which he said have grown up since Congress approved the Truman plan last year.

Loaded With "Stooges"

The Delaware senator told the Senate that far from taking the tax system out of politics, the Democratic administration loaded the bureau with "political stooges" before leaving office on Jan. 20.

As an alternative to congressional action, Williams suggested that President Eisenhower submit still another re-organization plan to replace the Truman program.

The senator said that instead of a five - man selection board approving candidates for life - time jobs in the bureau, an all-powerful Truman administration "triumvirate" headed by the former Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder actually hand-picked their own favorites for the posts.

Williams' blast prompted immediate calls for a fresh overhauling of the tax service.

Sen. Long (D-La) said the Senate Finance Committee was told at a recent closed - door session that the Truman re-organization plan has cost taxpayers more than 500 million dollars.

Long said the loss resulted from failure to collect taxes due because of the shift of officials and from higher salaries paid to tax collectors.

Violated Their Promise

Williams told the Senate that former Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and other key Democratic officials "violated their promise" to fill the bureau's top posts through competitive civil service examinations.

Instead of carrying out that pledge, he said, the Snyder group ignored test ratings—passing up candidates who got high marks—and gave the jobs to favorites, including some "discredited" officials.

The Delaware senator named Snyder, former Internal Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap and former Chairman Robert B. Ramspeck of the Civil Service Commission as the "administration triumvirate" which he said handpicked its choices for jobs in the bureau.

Rescue Baby From Car

David Lawrence Johnston, 6½ months old, is rescued from an overturned car, apparently unhurt, by workmen who rushed to help after the auto in which the baby and his mother, Mrs. Frances Johnston, Colorado Springs, Colo., were riding collided with another car in Washington and did a complete flopover, landing upside down. The baby was removed through the rear window. The mother suffered only a slight scratch.

New Defense Office Urged By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—An entirely new Office of Defense Mobilization was proposed by President Eisenhower today to take over the functions of the present office of that name plus those of the National Security Resources Board.

In a message to Congress, Eisenhower said the reorganization would "help to achieve the maximum degree of mobilization readiness at the least possible cost."

Moreover, he said it would "correct the present undesirable confusion of responsibilities" in connection with the stockpiling of strategic and critical materials.

Asserting the NSRB is charged with planning for the future while the ODM, a temporary agency, is charged with programs of the present, Eisenhower said:

"The progress of the current mobilization effort has made plain how artificial is the present separation of these functions."

The NSRB would be abolished and the new ODM given permanent status under the plan.

Arthur S. Flemming is acting head of ODM at present, but the White House declined to say whether he would be nominated to direct the new setup. Associates reported he would be agreeable to the assignment.

The reorganization, designed to create a single, central defense mobilization office, will go into effect automatically in 60 days unless either the Senate or House vetoes it, or unless both houses vote to put it into effect earlier.

Ike Talks To Bohlen Before Envoy Departs

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower had a final talk today with Charles E. Bohlen before the departure of the new ambassador to Soviet Russia for his Moscow post.

Secretary of State Dulles joined in the 22-minute conference at the White House. Presumably they talked over Moscow's current "peace offensive."

Accepts Invitation

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower today accepted an invitation to attend the annual spring dinner of the Gridiron Club April 11 at the Statler Hotel.

Makes A Difference!

SILVER SPRING, Md., April 2 (AP)—Secrecy made the difference—women can't join the Silver Spring board of trade.

The board approved admission of women last night by a voice vote.

Then an opponent asked for an official ballot.

Maryland Student Begins 2,200-Mile Voyage In Sloop

LEWES, Del., April 2 (AP)—Paul Anderton, 24-year-old University of Maryland student, left today for a 2,200-mile voyage to the Azore Islands in a 20-foot sloop.

Anderton, captain and crew of the tiny craft, said he expects to make the trip in six weeks. He has food supplies to last six months and 35 gallons of fresh water.

Before leaving port, Anderton, a junior in college, said his only fear is being washed overboard. He'll try to prevent that, he said, with a stout line, one end tied around his waist, the other fastened to the sloop's masthead.

Queen Performs Maundy Rites

LONDON, April 2 (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II performed the annual and traditional royal Maundy ceremony today, in a setting of pomp and circumstance at St. Paul's Cathedral, distributing alms to 54 aged men and women.

Symbolically, she washed their feet and, again symbolically, she dried them with the towel which the lord high almoner, Dr. E. M. Gresford Jones, the bishop of St. Albans, had tied around the waist of his priestly garments.

But there was nothing symbolical about the money she distributed. Each woman of the 27 got a green purse containing one pound 15 shillings ($4.90) and each of the 27 men got two pounds five shillings ($6.30) in a white purse. It was the theory, when the royal almsgiving ceremony started years ago, that men should have more because they eat more and their clothes cost more.

Actually the coins the oldsters received are worth more than their face value, should they care to sell them. The coins are specially minted Maundy pieces, bearing an image of the Queen's head. There were 27 men and 27 women because the number is determined by the sovereign's age in years, counting to the nearest birthday. The Queen will be 27 April 21.

NATO Leaders Warn Against Easing Guard

PARIS, April 2 (AP) — Two top leaders of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization warned the West today against letting down its guard just because Russia is talking sweetly.

The warnings were voiced by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the supreme commander, and Gen. Lord Ismay, the secretary general who was Prime Minister Churchill's chief of staff in World War II.

At a ceremony marking the start of the third year of SHAPE (supreme headquarters, Allied powers in Europe), Ridgway said Russian military strength "has not diminished one iota."

Later, Lord Ismay told reporters that "to alter our policy just because some kites are being flown would be madness."

"Until we see some practical results from peace talks," he added, "it would be absolute folly to relax or alter the policy we have been following."

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Ridgway's chief of staff, was quoted as telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington yesterday that Russia's aim was to drive a wedge between the United States and her Western allies and her recent peace talk needs careful evaluation.

"We may be facing a period now that will make the hardships and sacrifices of the last two years look easy," Gruenther was quoted.

Declaring that Russia's military capacity has "increased and continues to increase," Ridgway made a strong appeal for France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy to ratify the European Army Treaty that West Germany's lower house already has approved. The treaty would bring 500,000 German soldiers into a six-nation army of two million men.

Russians Ease Cold War Tactics In Berlin, Lift Traffic Controls

Ike Would Take Red Peace Plans At Face Value

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today this country should take at its face value every peace offer the Communists may make until such offers prove unworthy of consideration.

That was his comment when he was asked at a news conference what he thought of the Russian-backed Chinese Communist proposals to resume truce talks in the Korean War.

Eisenhower said he is hopeful there will be a quick exchange of sick and wounded war prisoners.

This, he went on, would be a clear indication that deeds rather than words have come into fashion in Russia's dealings with the West.

The United States, Eisenhower said, initiated months ago the truce proposals which the Chinese Communists now are talking of accepting. He added that we must never forget the history of past dealings with the Reds.

But, firmly and earnestly, the President said this country stands prepared to meet every honest advance from the other side of the Iron Curtain.

He declined to say whether he gave Charles E. Bohlen, the new ambassador to Russia, any personal message for Premier Malenkov when Bohlen and Secretary of State Dulles called on him this afternoon. Bohlen is leaving for Moscow immediately.

At another point, Eisenhower said that while he intends to cut waste from the armed forces he holds himself personally responsible for seeing that the United States maintains what George Washington called "a respectable posture" of defense.

Peace prospects shared the spotlight with the recent activities of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) at this first afternoon news conference Eisenhower has held since taking office.

Eisenhower grinned when McCarthy's name was first mentioned by a reporter and he plainly wanted to avoid any appearance of a controversy over the Wisconsin

Chinese Attack Central Front

SEOUL, Friday, April 2 (AP)—The Chinese Communists broke a three-day lull in Korea Thursday with a 750-man onslaught on the Central Front which cost them nearly one-fifth of their attacking force.

The Reds overwhelmed forward positions of the South Korean Capitol Division, but were ripped by artillery and bullets as they swept up to barbed wire entanglements guarding the heavily defended main line.

Repulsed after 40 minutes of combat, the Communists left 53 dead and another 75 were estimated wounded, the U. S. Eighth Army said.

It was the first battle of that size since U. S. Marines recaptured Vegas Hill on the far Western Front last Sunday.

The 155-mile front was quiet elsewhere except for two light enemy probes on the Eastern Front and the usual clash of patrols.

Fifth Air Force warplanes, hampered by bad weather, darted through haze and overcast and pounded Red troops and supply areas.

AWAITS SENTENCE—E. Merl Young, former RFC examiner, awaits sentencing April 30 on conviction on four counts of perjury growing out of the "mink coat" scandal of the last administration. He was convicted of falsely denying he accepted fees from firms doing business with RFC.

Two Are Slain, Three Wounded In Gun Battle

ARNOLD, Pa., April 2 (AP) — A hail of machine-gun bullets killed a beserk millworker today after he shot one policeman to death and wounded three others in a grim gun battle.

The early morning duel pitted policemen armed with riot and machine guns against Virgil Backus. Many citizens of this industrial community 35 miles northeast of Pittsburgh were on their way to work and stopped to watch in a pouring rain.

A state policeman climbed to a third story ledge and fired the fatal shots into Backus, 41-year-old father of six children who was known in the town as a hunter and sportsman.

Backus barricaded himself on the back porch of his home and held police at bay for nearly an hour with a 30-30 rifle. They were called to the Backus home by an unidentified person who said Backus had threatened his wife and children.

The dead policeman was Sgt. Ernest Johnson, 48 father of four children. He was hit while firing his machine gun.

Wounded were Arnold Police Chief Mike Peltz, 39, and Patrolmen Edward Bollinger, 49, and Mike Barto.

Backus died in the hospital after a Catholic priest heard his confession. He told the priest:

"I am really sorry."

Barto was sent to the Backus home after the report of a threat. Barto said he was shoved away from a door and a bullet splintered his arm before he was aware of the danger. Police reinforcements were summoned.

Backus set up a hurried barricade on the back porch and began firing at police as soon as they appeared.

Sues Patrolmen

BALTIMORE, April 2 (AP)—Mrs. Bernice Wilkins, whose arrest precipitated a Police Department investigation last month, sued the two patrolmen who arrested her for $35,000 today.

Defendants in the suit were Sgt. John Thomas Dunn and Patrolman Bernard A. Zilinski, who arrested Mrs. Wilkins on a disorderly conduct charge March 3.

Ask France, U. S. To Join Talks On German Air Safety

BERLIN, April 2 (AP)—The Russians, beaming good will, sharply eased controls on traffic between troubled Berlin and West Germany today and set the stage for Big Four talks on air safety over Germany.

In rapid succession, the Russians:

1. Invited the United States and France to join in air safety talks initiated by Russia and Britain earlier this week, an invitation the Americans and the French accepted promptly.

2. Lifted the harassing customs check on the 100-mile section of the Autobahn linking Berlin and West Germany across Soviet zone territory, permitting cars and trucks to cross the frontier at unprecedented speed.

3. Removed time consuming obstacles in the granting of trade permits for West Berlin goods consigned by rail, road and barge to West Germany.

It looked like an Easter week thaw in the cold war.

Astute Berliners pondered whether Moscow is bent on including the German question in a world-wide package deal to ease tension and enable Prime Minister Malenkov to shore up his young government on the home front.

In Bonn, capital of the West German republic, German leaders said the thaw might mean that the Kremlin will extend its peace campaign to Germany with a proposal for four occupying powers to meet on a peace treaty, all-German elections and creation of a unified government.

The attitude in West Berlin, after years of harassment and Red squeeze tactics, was "wait and see." But Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter's City Hall buzzed with optimism. Allied officials took a bright view also from the evidence of the past 24 hours.

The air safety talks between the Russians and the British were temporarily suspended because Moscow had suggested they be expanded to include the Americans and French. There was little doubt, however, that they will be resumed quickly on the four-power level as soon as the acknowledgments make their technical journeys from Bonn to East Berlin to Moscow and back.

Air safety was the key the Russians used two weeks ago to show a new attitude toward the West. The Soviet commander in Germany, Gen. Vassily Chuikov, expressed regret that Communist jet fighters killed seven British fliers in shooting down a British Lincoln bomber and suggested a parley to avoid such incidents in the future.

The Autobahn traffic development was a surprise. Truckers arriving in West Berlin reported that the frontier guards had dropped all controls except for perfunctory glances at cargo papers.

Six top Russians illustrated early this week that they had new orders from Moscow by attending a private party in West Berlin of Western officers from the Potsdam military mission. This had not happened since before the 1948-49 blockade.

The West Berlin City Senate reported with exultation that applications for trade permits, once the vehicle for Soviet "little blockade" tactics, were moving through the East zone bureucracy and hurtling back to West Berlin with a stamp of approval almost before the ink was dry.

POW Meeting May Result In Truce Plans

Liaison Officers Set Conference Monday

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, April 3 (AP) — Allied and Communist authorities Thursday agreed to a preliminary meeting at Panmunjom Monday which could clear the way for an armistice in Korea.

The meeting of liaison officers will be devoted to arranging a pre-armistice exchange of sick and wounded prisoners. But it shaped up as a prelude to a renewal of truce negotiations broken off by the Allies last October 8.

The Communists agreed Thursday at Panmunjom to Gen. Mark Clark's proposal to discuss the transfer of disabled prisoners as a first order of business. They also proposed that the liaison officers set a date for resuming the armistice talks.

Hopes Are Raised

The Communist officers also officially handed over the new plan for an armistice settlement advanced last Monday on Peiping radio by Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China.

The latest Communist move and its surprisingly conciliatory tone generated an upsurge in hopes here that a settlement could be reached on the over-all exchange of prisoners of war—the only issue blocking a truce.

Allied officers and observers at this advance truce camp agreed "this may be it" but they tempered their optimism with caution. Mindful of the nearly two years of bickering for an armistice, these officers studied the new Communist peace overtures for a "gimmick."

Some thought the "gimmick" might be the well-worn effort by Red China to use Panmunjom negotiations to gain a seat at the United Nations in New York.

Others felt it would be part of another peace offensive by Russian - led communism to wreck NATO, the European army plan, and cut down rearmament in the West.

Whatever the motive, the Moscow-backed proposal by Chou on prisoner exchange appeared on its face nearer to United Nations demands than any previous Red approach.

Proposal In Letter

Chou proposed to settle the prisoner dispute by having each side send back those prisoners who "insist" on returning to their homelands and to turn over to a "neutral state" those prisoners who resist repatriation.

The Allies estimate there are 51,000 prisoners who do not want to return to Red rule. Allied refusal to repatriate such prisoners forcibly stalled the armistice talks.

The Communist reply to Clark was in the form of a letter to the Far East Commander from the two top Communist commanders in Korea, North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-huai, commander of the Chinese forces.

Slayer Is Sentenced

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—John W. Shute, 24, was sentenced today to from three to 15 years in prison for the slaying of his brother, Ralph Shute, 20, after hearing his wife say she had been intimate with Ralph.

Shute insisted that a revolver in his hand was discharged accidentally in a struggle with his brother.

Man Amputates Arm With Knife After Auto Accident

HATTIESBURG, Miss., April 2 (AP)—A 26-year-old New Augusta, Miss., mechanic cut off his left arm with a pocket knife yesterday to free himself from the wreckage of his automobile.

Carl Creel, in good condition today at a hospital here, explained calmly:

"I didn't figure there was anything else I could do."

Creel said his car hit a hole in the road and flipped over on its side. His arm was pinned outside the door between the car and the asphalt highway.

"The blood was jetting out more than a foot," he related. "I was afraid the car would catch on fire, so I got my knife out of my pocket and went to work.

"The skin was not too hard to cut," he said, "but every time I chopped through a tendon, I felt a jerk in the nerves of my neck.

"The cutting I did was made a little easier by the fact the bones in the arm were broken clean through. I just followed the line of the break with the blade of my knife," he said.

"Then I began walking for help, holding my left arm tight above the elbow to stop the bleeding."

The car overturned three miles from New Augusta. Creel walked about one mile after amputating the arm midway between the wrist and the elbow.

He reached the home of the Claud Mixon family where Mrs. Mixon and her daughter, with Creel's help, managed to make a tourniquet and a sheathing with a bath towel.

Creel asked them if they could drive him to New Augusta. Neither of the women knew how to drive, so he drove with the women beside him.

At New Augusta he was transferred to the automobile of his brother-in-law and started for Hattiesburg, about 20 miles away.

Perry County Sheriff Dee Hammett said it was two hours from the time of the accident until Creel finally reached the hospital in Hattiesburg.

Faiths Of Three Continents Hold Maundy Thursday Rites

JERUSALEM, April 2 (AP) — Churches whose spiritual centers lie in three continents today re-enacted Christ's washing of his disciples' feet in Jerusalem's old walled city.

Greek Orthodox church members and Roman Catholics of Europe, the Syrians and Armenians of Asia and the Copts and Ethiopians of Africa represented world Christendom in ceremonies that differed in language but stressed alike Christ's great act of humility the night before his crucifixion.

The languages included the Aramaic of the Syrians, the ancient Egyptian of the Copts and the Latin of the Catholics.

Because of calendar differences, the Eastern and Western churches ordinarily celebrate Holy Week at different times, but this year all Easters fall together.

The Eastern churches still follow the obsolete Julian calendar, now 13 days behind the Western Gregorian calendar. Roughly once in five years the Easters fall on the same day.

Thousands packed the courtyard in front of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, rooftops, balconies and even minarets as the Orthodox church opened Maundy Thursday with an open-air washing service.

A Latin service was held inside a church in front of the holy sepulcher in the afternoon. Others held ceremonies in their own chapels.

Christ's agony in Gethsemane was commemorated in the evening by Catholics and Protestants in the vicinity of the Garden of Gethsemane. Lying on a hillside opposite Jerusalem, the garden contains twisted old olive trees several feet in diameter — old enough to be the trees beneath which Christ prayed. Catholics, Anglicans and Lutherans held services there.

Record State Budget Approved After Hasty Conferences

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP) — The brakes came off Maryland's budget today and once it took flight the Legislature steered its 193 million dollars of appropriations for 1953-54 into law.

A conference among Gov. McKeldin and leaders of both parties sped the record state spending bill on its way after many days of sputtering between the House and Senate.

No sooner had the measure been adopted than the House Ways and Means Committee shoved out the administration's bond program for buildings with more than $400,000 removed from the original $15,200,000.

And a long-range roads program, second only to the budget in administration favor, was ready to be turned loose after weeks of idleness.

The scope of budget cuts effected by the House and accepted almost wholly by the Senate means property owners next year will pay the lowest real estate tax in state history. Budget Director Rennie, after poring over the figures, said it would amount to just about the 5 2-3 cents on each $100 valuation that the House committee had set as its goal.

Precise budget totals had yet to be determined. But Rennie said they would add out to approximately $193,500,000 for the 12 months beginning July 1. Thus it will cost about 17½ millions more to run the state than this year.

Apparently trapped in disagreement between the Senate and House, and snarled worse by contention among senators, the appropriations bill burst out with unexpected speed this afternoon.

Hastily called meetings of the Ways and Means Committee and a rush trip across the Statehouse to bring in Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) preceded rapid adoption by the Senate and equally fast consent to revisions by the House.

The fast pace followed an unannounced gathering in the governor's office. With McKeldin were Della, Senate Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany) and House Majority Leader Logan (D-Caroline). Logan had led the Ways and Means Committee in its cuts that ran close to two million dollars.

McKeldin had been acutely interested in the roads program. He also had been openly cold toward a Senate-passed measure that would do away with the surplus financing which has enabled governors to balance budgets in recent years.

The surplus bill, which would have snatched away excess revenues each year in order to reduce real estate and income taxes the following year, apparently was dead tonight.

McKeldin said he told the conferees the budget wasn't wholly to his satisfaction after its knocks in the Legislature but that he couldn't expect it to be.

"Let's push it through," he said.

Downstairs later, Logan and his top committee aides advised Della restorations proposed by the Senate Finance Committee would be acceptable, but no more. That launched a series of parliamentary maneuvers which suspended rules and made the budget law within two hours.

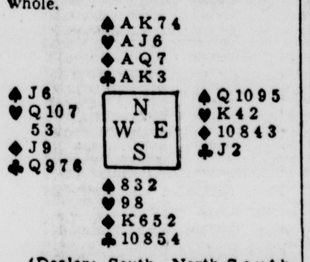
The net reduction in McKeldin's spending plan amounted to $1,161,000, taking into account the $182,000 replaced by the Senate in the measure first adopted by the House.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

WHICH CHANCE IS BEST?

SOUND play for a doubtful contract does not consist merely of proceeding so that you give yourself as many different chances as possible. It also includes the factor of selecting the best chances in preference to those not quite so good. Application of that fundamental principle should begin with the very first trick—or, rather, before playing to the first trick, when you are developing your plan for the hand as a whole.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

When West led the heart 5, South counted eight sure tricks available to him in top cards. To gain the needed one more, he saw four chances, one in each suit, and decided to try three of them. First he put in the heart J, hoping West had both the K and Q. But East won that and returned the 4. South let the 10 win, then won the 3 with the A. The diamond A and Q were scored, next the spade A and K, and the 4 was led hoping for a split to set up the 7. But East scored two spades then and returned the club J to the K. A lead to the diamond K sought a division there which failed, so all South could do was score the club A and give up a club for the setting trick.

South's big mistake was on the first trick. West's fourth-best heart 5 lead marked him as holding three cards from among the K-Q-10-7, but not the K-Q-10, as then he should have led the K. Hence East had one of those three honors. As South played, the J would have won if East held the 10, but lose if he had either the K or Q. So playing low would have assured a later trick for the J if East held either of two cards—twice as good a chance as counting on East for one particular card.

In brief, South had given himself three chances to make his contract. But they were not the best chances. At least the first one was not. The odds were exactly twice as good in favor of the low play from dummy on the first trick as against the J play.

UMW Official Urges Shorter Work Day Rather Than Pay Hike

CALIFORNIA, Pa., April 2 (AP) — A United Mine Workers official said yesterday he believes "every miner would be better off with a shorter workday rather than an increase in wages."

Speaking at a John Mitchell Day rally here, Percy Tetlow, advisor to the UMW International Board in Washington, declared such a move would help solve the unemployment problem caused by the "diminishing demand for coal" which faces the industry.

"It would be better to cut the workday from eight to six hours or even less to maintain the present wage level," Tetlow said, "than to give a miner an increase in wages but only work him two or three days a week."

Tetlow said the UMW "top command" considers this a vital issue and added it will affect future contract negotiations to a large extent.

Trygve Lie Gets Laugh Out Of Soviet Delegate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 2 (AP)—Trygve Lie got a laugh out of Andrei Vishinsky at the U. N. General Assembly today.

In a speech, Lie called upon the delegates to give their full support to the man nominated as his successor for secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden.

Recalling that he had been under violent attack from the Soviet bloc, Lie quipped: "I am really grateful to them for not declaring my resignation illegal and unacceptable."

Vishinsky, who led the attack on Lie, joined in the laughter.

Link Mystery Sub To South Africa Election

DURBAN, South Africa, April 2 (AP)—A mysterious submarine which appeared off the coast three weeks ago and the threat of a general strike by non-Whites against racial laws appeared likely today to become involved in South Africa's April 15 general election.

The submarine was spotted four miles off Natal's shore March 12 by a South African coastal patrol plane, but crashdived before the plane could get a good look.

Defense Minister F. C. Erasmus told an audience at Windhoek last night the submarine "appeared to be Russian."

The Afrikaans language newspaper, Dagbreek en Sondagnuus, reported that police had a theory the submarine may have landed agitators to stir up trouble among non-Whites.

J. G. N. Strauss, leader of the opposition United party, declared Prime Minister Daniel Malan's Nationalist party, may be planning to divert the people's minds from the real issues of the election.

Malan's government favors a policy of apartheid, or strict segregation of races, in order to preserve rule by outnumbered Whites. The United party says Malan's policies are stirring up strife, and proposes to return to a policy of consultation with non-Whites.

Non-White leaders of the country's passive resistance movement said today they intend to call a nation-wide strike after the April 15 elections, regardless of which side wins.

Since June about 9,000 Negroes and Indians in the passive resistance movement have been arrested for deliberately marching into White waiting rooms at railway stations, entering forbidden areas without passes or breaking curfew regulations.

Work stoppages in South Africa have had a bloody tradition.

senator's recent dealings with Greek ship owners. McCarthy recently promoted an agreement among owners of 242 ships to refrain from trade with Red China.

Eisenhower said no such dealings—however misguided—could undermine American foreign policy because no one but the President and the secretary of state has the power to negotiate on behalf of this country. Every senator knows that—without exception, he said.

On other matters:

Eisenhower said Gen. James A. Van Fleet has never told him anything about being forbidden to launch an amphibious attack behind Chinese lines in Korea. Van Fleet told Senate investigators yesterday his plan to hit at the enemy was vetoed by the former Far Eastern commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The President said he favors a one-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act in pretty much its present form to allow time for a detailed study of what should be done in this field in the future.

Eisenhower said, speaking of farm prices, that butter is pricing itself out of the market. By law, he said, the government now must buy some two million pounds of butter a day at the support price of about 67 2-3 cents a pound. That, declared the President, is too much butter. And he said it's a crime against civilization that some of this butter spoils in storage at a time when there are hungry people who could use it.

Julius Caesar's Roman legionnaires received part of their pay in common salt. The Latin word for salt is "salarium," from which comes the English word "salary."

AMPUTATES OWN ARM — Carl Creel, 26-year-old New Augusta, Miss., mechanic rests in a hospital in Hattiesburg, Miss., where he is recovering from a self-amputation of his left arm. Creel said he cut off the arm with a pocket knife after he was pinned under the wreckage of his overturned car. (See story page one..)

Police Unravel Few Threads In Man's Mysterious Death

BALTIMORE, April 2 (AP)—A few threads were unraveled today from the bizarre mystery surrounding the death of Bernard Joseph Hess, who was found badly burned in the unburned wreckage of a stolen automobile.

Hess, 35, died in University Hospital here yesterday of head injuries suffered when the car cracked up on Route 30 near Manchester, Carroll County.

Doctors cleared up the mystery of how he was burned over 30 to 40 per cent of his body, even though there was no evidence of fire about the auto wreckage. They said the burns were caused by chemicals in gasoline which apparently had leaked from the wrecked car and saturated his clothing.

Police sent word of Hess' death to his wife in jail. She has been serving a three-year sentence for the embezzlement of $11,589 from a lumber firm where she was a cashier and accountant.

Hess was a co-defendant in the same case but was found innocent. Two months later, he was convicted of forgery and placed on probation.

Investigators found that Hess' death car was stolen from a Baltimore agency by a man posing as a prospective customer who wanted to take a trial spin. When he did not return after several hours, the salesman notified police.

The auto thief had shown credentials bearing the name of Harry C. Johnson, who lives in suburban Catonsville.

Officers said Johnson told them he had loaned Hess a suit and apparently had forgotten to remove a wallet with his papers.

When found, the smashed automobile had license plates of a Pennsylvania car which had been stolen Tuesday, a short time after the Baltimore theft.

Officers said Hess once worked at the same automobile agency where the convertible was stolen.

Stocks Decline To New Low Following Red Peace Offers

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP) — The Stock Market declined today to another new low for the year.

Most of the credit for the break was laid at the door of the Communist proposals for an exchange of Korean war prisoners and subsequent Red peace moves in various parts of the world.

Talk Of Peace

New speculation about the possibility of a meeting of Big Three or Big Four representatives has been aroused by the peace overtures of Chinese Communist Premier Chou.

General Eisenhower on June 7, 1952, while seeking the Republican nomination for President, said he would meet Stalin any time, any place, if he "had the slightest reason to believe" the meeting would promote peace. But when Stalin wrote James Reston of The New York Times on December 24 that he "regarded favorably" a suggestion of a meeting between himself and Eisenhower, the President-designate withheld comment.

President Eisenhower's press conference statement of February 25 was more conditional than his June 7 statement. He would meet anybody anywhere, he said, if he thought there was the slightest chance of doing any good, as long as it was in keeping with what the American people expect of their chief executive. In other words, he would not want to just say he would go anywhere. He would go to any suitable spot, let's say half-way between, and talk with anybody and with the full knowledge of our allies and friends.

While the President would understandably prefer to meet Premier Malenkov, if at all, on neutral ground, a visit to Russia would not be unprecedented. Yalta, scene of the 1945 meeting of Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, and FDR, is in the Russian Crimea.

Stalin was adamant about staying in Russia on the ground that he was directing the Russian armies personally. Roosevelt was reluctant, for domestic political reasons, to accept a Russian meeting place. The late Harry L. Hopkins said to Robert E. Sherwood: "I told the President . . . that there was not a chance of getting Stalin out of Russia . . . and that we might as well make up our minds first at least to go to some convenient point in Russia."

The Tehran conference of 1943 had been held in Iran, but even there Roosevelt had been housed in a villa in the Russian embassy compound. The Potsdam Big Three meeting of 1945 was on conquered neutral ground.

The first time a President left the soil of North America was in December 1918, when Wilson sailed for the Paris peace conference. There was much opposition at home to Wilson's departure, and some historians believe he would have been more effective at a distance from the diplomatic in-fighting.

When leaders of states can't or don't want to meet in person, they can send special representatives, usually but not always the secretary of state or foreign minister. Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles saw Mussolini, Hitler, Daladier, and Chamberlain in 1940 in a vain effort to avert World War II. Secretary of State Hull was the U. S. representative at the Moscow conference of 1943.

The ill-fated Munich conference of September 1938 was attended by heads of states—Hitler, Mussolini, Daladier, and Chamberlain. But it was a meeting of relatively minor officials that produced favorable results in 1949—the lifting of the blockade of Berlin. The principals were UN delegates from their respective nations—Jessup of the United States and Malik of the USSR—and the scene was New York, where the UN was meeting.

Confusion Confounded

If the sole purpose of the Soviet propaganda machine is to keep the West confused, its efforts during the first few weeks of the new Malenkov regime must be regarded as a whopping success. In rapid succession the Russians have been proclaiming their love of peace and their belief that a settlement can be reached with the West, shooting down Allied planes, returning a soft answer to one protest and a harsh one to the next.

Now, after a few days of wafting propaganda to America that was unexpectedly sweet and mild, Moscow radio has reverted to the old angry lies.

This confuses Washington, but isn't it barely possible that the Russians are a trifle confused themselves about what line to follow in these first months after Stalin's sure hand has been lifted from the keyboard of the propaganda organ? Under the dead dictator, to be sure, the Moscow line occasionally took bewildering twists and turns. But a line once adopted was pounded long and hard and, when it was reversed, Stalin usually had a good reason for the shift.

The present twists and turns have come so rapidly there are only two explanations that make any sense. One is that the new leaders of Russia do not know what line to adopt and the other is that disagreements in the Kremlin are forcing these rapid changes.

Many hundreds of thousands of words have found their way into print recently from writers speculating on the intentions of the new rulers of Russia. But those in the writing trade might as well save their breath and let their typewriters cool off until Malenkov et al provide more evidence that they know what they're after.

The Date Of Easter

Easter, most important "movable feast" of Christendom, can never come earlier than March 22 nor later than April 25. This year it arrives several days before the mid-way point of that 35-day range.

The date of Easter, like the dates of all Jewish holy-days, depends on the moon. This was by decision of the Council of Christian Churches held in Nicea (now Isnik in Asiatic Turkey) in 325 A. D.

By that time pilgrims by the thousands were traveling on foot to the Holy Land or to other shrines to celebrate the Resurrection. The Nicea Council decided to fix Easter at such time as would let the pilgrims be guided by the light of the moon—for one thing, to afford some protection from highwaymen.

So the day was set as the first Sunday following the full moon occurring on or next after the vernal equinox, which in the Gregorian calendar is on March 21. However, if that full moon happens to fall on a Sunday, Easter comes one week later. The time of the full moon is determined by certain traditional calculations, which may not always accord with present-day astronomical ones.

The name itself is derived from "Eostre" or "Eastre," the Anglo-Saxon name for the goddess of spring. For centuries the eating of eggs was forbidden during the Lenten fast, so especial attention was paid to them when Lent ended. Also, the egg was an ancient symbol of the germinating life of the spring-time, as was the rabbit.

How To Keep Well

No Easy Way In Diabetes

Insulin is indispensable in the treatment of diabetes. It controls or prevents dangerous complications and helps to keep the amount of sugar in the blood at a respectable level. We now know that the diet is just as important but it is here that most diabetics err.

In planning treatment for a moderately severe diabetic the physician may suggest 40 units of protamine insulin every morning. The patient measures this dose without difficulty and follows instructions to the letter. But the diet is a different matter, even though it is carefully planned and made as simple as possible. In the first few months the victim adheres just as faithfully to the dietary instructions as he does to his insulin. Within this period, diabetes is controlled perfectly and he may lose weight and feel fine. Then the unpredictable variable, appetite, enters the picture. The diabetic is human and has just as much trouble curbing appetite as does any one else who loves good food. The inability to restrain the urge to eat is the reason why perfect results are not always obtained.

Appetite is influenced by many psychological factors, which is of no help to the diabetic because his disease reeks of psychological factors. Young men and women victims are besieged with emotional stress because of a certain amount of limitation of activities and when they visualize a lifetime of insulin and special diets. It is easy to see their point of view because these persons are too young to realize that in the past the young diabetic always died and that the penalty paid for living is the diet and insulin regimen. The adult diabetic also has his troubles because his habits are well established and it is difficult to change. He thinks, therefore, that the only way to get revenge is to upset the regulations by overeating.

We wish there were easier plans for treating diabetes successfully but to date no alternates have proved of value. Jet injections never materialized. The same can be said of insulin pellets containing enough of the hormone to last several months. The substance is absorbed slowly to avoid reactions and in this respect gives a constant supply. This is quite unlike the natural supply of insulin by the pancreas which manufactures the hormone in accordance with the demand. Many other products have not proved effective, including choline, inositol, and vitamin E.

The laissez faire method of allowing the diabetic to eat everything and anything and "covering with insulin" still is in the experimental stages. There are many objections and several reports condemning the procedure have appeared. The diabetic is likely to gain weight under this plan and has frequent reactions because insulin requirements vary from meal to meal. Moreover, blood tests often reveal elevation of the blood sugar. A recent survey among specialists in the disease revealed that 70 per cent prefer insulin and diet. They no longer require that food be weighed but recommend ordinary household measuring devices such as the teaspoon, tablespoon, and cup. They also suggest that the diabetic learn more about nutrition to make substitutions and add variety to the menus.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

P. M. writes: My mother has had multiple sclerosis for 20 years but it has not progressed rapidly; she still can get around with a cane. Could this be a true case of the disease?

REPLY

Yes, as this course is characteristic of multiple sclerosis. This explains why it is difficult to evaluate a certain type of treatment because, in addition to the slow progress of the disease, the victim has periods when he feels better.

INCREASED EYEBALL PRESSURE

J. H. writes: Is hardening of the eyeball caused by hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

No, there is no connection between these two processes. In glaucoma, pressure within the eyeball is increased because the fluid is trapped within the eye. In this respect, the arteries do not play a role.

TERRAMYCIN FOR ACNE

V. W. writes: I have heard that terramycin is the latest remedy for acne. Do you know if it is effective?

REPLY

This remedy has been reported to be of value in acne, especially when used in small amounts over a long period of time. Other antibiotics also have been tried but as a rule the plan is discouraged because the good effects are temporary and acne returns when the drug is discontinued.

TO VISUALIZE

T. M. writes: Why is a barium enema given before X-rays?

REPLY

Because the intestines are made up of soft tissues that do not show up under X-ray. This is overcome by inserting barium to provide a suitable contrast.

White House Debates Crackdown On McCarthy; President's First Policy Was Appeasement; Ike Reconsidered After Battle Over Bohlen

WASHINGTON—Top question being debated inside the White House, next to peace in Korea, is whether steps should be taken to crack down on the fast-dancing, quick-jabbing senator from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy—or, as he's called inside the White House, "Jumpin' Joe."

One Ike adviser frankly admitted the other day that it was never expected McCarthy would be a problem.

"We didn't anticipate that Jumpin' Joe would precipitate things as fast as he has," admitted C. D. Jackson, former publisher of Fortune magazine, now intimate adviser to the President. "We thought he'd give us a little breathing space. Frankly, he's a problem."

At first the President ducked any move to tangle with McCarthy. He acted as if he wanted to stay just as far away as possible from any showdown, even with his own administration involved.

When McCarthy first began delving into the Voice of America, Carl McCardle, assistant secretary of State in charge of the Voice, phoned the White House and asked Press Secretary Jim Hagerty to get Ike to say something at his press conference to squelch McCarthy.

Ike declined. Furthermore, when a news question was asked at the press conference, he indirectly supported McCarthy by saying it was the right of Congress to investigate.

This, of course, was prior to the bitter battle over Ambassador Bohlen. Since then, White House advisers report that their chief is sore, has stiffened toward McCarthy, and has decided the advice given him by Vice President Nixon and at first by Taft is wrong. Nixon had believed that the administration should try to get along with McCarthy and that McCarthy in turn would play ball.

This was the same advice given Ike during the election campaign just before his speech in McCarthy's home state. Governor Dewey had urged that Ike cold-shoulder McCarthy on this trip. But Arthur Summerfield, together with Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Hickenlooper of Iowa, flew to Ike's private car, finally persuaded him to reverse this.

However, when Ike inserted two paragraphs in his Milwaukee speech praising General Marshall, whom McCarthy had so bitterly castigated, Summerfield arranged for McCarthy to come up the service elevator of the Pere Marquette Hotel in Peoria and confer privately with Ike. At that meeting, McCarthy persuaded Eisenhower to reverse himself again and take out the two paragraphs praising Marshall.

White House advisers say that despite this appeasement, the President can get awfully mad, and it's a well-known fact that when he gets mad, he usually stays mad.

However, a man who has spent all his life away from the hot and hectic arena of politics, usually shies away from political battles with senators. This was true of Herbert Hoover, who like Eisenhower, had spent much of his time abroad. The President feels that he cannot fire a senator in the same way he could demote or transfer an Army officer who gets out of line.

Some advisers recall that over in the Justice Department is the Senate Elections Committee report on McCarthy's weird financial operations, one of the most comprehensive reports ever made about a member of the Senate. Some believe the Justice Department should study this report and let the chips fall where they may. But more conservative leaders on Capitol Hill are very much opposed.

That, in brief, is the present White House quandary.

The American "melting pot" was brought home to President Eisenhower while lunching with Congressman Al Sieminski of New Jersey, son of a Polish immigrant. "My father had many hopes for the future in this land of freedom and opportunity, but he never thought a son would one day sit down to eat with the President," reported the congressman from Jersey City. . . . Congressman Brooks Hays of Arkansas showed the President a short-snorter the President himself had signed some years before. The Arkansan told Ike how he had proudly displayed the signature to his young son. "The only signature he made a fuss about," said Hays, "was that of another signer, Bing Crosby" . . . . Recalling a meeting with Walter Reuther and CIO leaders, Ike told friends he was struck by their "youth and mental alertness," and that he genuinely enjoyed the "fast play of wits among them." Ike said Reuther had urged "genuine collective bargaining," with plenty of freedom between labor and industry. "I told him and the other CIO leaders," added Ike, "that I would be sure to be in their corner if they would just stay with that."

When President Ike practices his golf shots on the White House lawn he uses only his irons—never his driver. The President is afraid one of his long shots might hook or slice right out of the White House grounds. . . . President Eisenhower tells friends that pickets who parade in front of the White House don't bother him, because he never sees them. Ike and Mamie rarely use the front entrance to the White House, preferring the South entrance, which is handier to the President's office and living quarters . . . The President is keeping a close check on his diet, seldom touches bread, mayonnaise, desserts, and other fattening foods. At mealtime he frequently munches on little, low-calory crackers. . . Military advisers now tell the President that they want no part of the universal military training program. Instead they contend that the draft system is sufficient to meet our military manpower needs for the present. However, Eisenhower still firmly believes that some form of UMT may be necessary to provide pre-draft training for American youth in case we are thrown into a sudden, all-out war. He recently indicated to congressional leaders that he would recommend a modified UMT to Congress, but he didn't say when.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON (INS)— If peace actually is in the wind, it won't be an easy one in the opinion of random members of Congress we listened to at the National Press Club's annual party for the inmates of Capitol Hill.

The congressional consensus is that Russia is in earnest this time. No congressman could quite place his finger on why the Reds are being stubbornly believed now despite their deplorable record of broken promises and spurious peace overtures. Nevertheless, the party was literally swimming in optimistic faith.

Here are some of the complications we heard mentioned:

1.—Disposition of healthy prisoners of war.

2.—Syngman Rhee's demand that North Korean as well as Red Chinese armies withdraw from Korea, and that his administration's influence extend from the Yalu to Pusan.

3.—What to do about policing Korea with UN troops when and if total peace breaks out there.

4.—How to pay for the restoration of Korea and her economy.

5.—How to answer what will be a deluge of demands for a reduction of U. S. taxes, if the fighting stops.

Rep. Hugh Scott (R) Pennsylvania, who saw action in Korea with the Marines, believes the reason behind the sudden flapping of doves' wings is the return to the upper reaches of the Kremlin's hierarchy of Marshal Zhukov, wartime friend of Eisenhower and, "like every other professional military man in history, a man who frowns on useless expenditure of arms and men preferably to be conserved for a bigger show later on."

Least-confining work of any government body is that of the Assay Commission which meets in Washington once a year to examine samples of the output of U. S. mints. It is a kind of watch-dog committee to check up on whether the scattered mints are turning out identical coins. Commission members, who serve without pay, have sometimes had to be requested not to bite the money.

The jobs usually rotate among friends of the president in office. One in line for a post next year is Mrs. Ed Pool, petite wife of the New York hotel executive. Mrs. Pool, no bigger than a minute, but twice as pretty, is expected to be placed in charge of not biting dimes.

The State Department has been trying to tell Congress, without success, that the tidelands claims of Texas and the western part of Florida are putting the U. S. in an uncomfortable position.

The states concerned claim ten and a half miles of offshore land and Congress has agreed that this figure—a carry-over from the days of Spanish rule—will be honored in the splitup of off-shore oil.

But the government has long held that only three miles of water constitutes a soverign part of the U. S. Russia claims 12 miles around its land, and has used this claim to rebuff U. S. demands for a settlement of the shooting down of a Navy Privateer cruising over the Baltic. Now, inadvertently, Congress has taken the view that we do not mean what we say when we speak of a 3-mile limit.

United Nations World, generally well-informed about what is going on, asserts that the West's sudden affection for Tito is based on more than his ideological split with the Kremlin. Huge uranium deposits have been discovered in Yugoslavia not far from the Bulgarian border. The stuff has been found close to the surface and the yield promises to be tremendous.

Tito is reported to have rejected secret overtures from this country and Britain to lease the uranium fields and will exploit it himself. With the Red-inspired Mau Mau disorders creeping like a dread disease toward the Belgian Congo and its treasured uranium mines, one of our two chief sources of suppy, Tito's a man to woo. And woo we will, though he's a grade A scoundrel and sworn enemy of democratic processes.

Those Hidden Files

Reference to FBI files have been constant during the past few years with little understanding of what they are. Perhaps it would be advantageous to explain how intelligence services generally gather and evaluate information. This would apply to all agencies, except that some eliminate data at low levels, which is usually regarded as a dangerous process.

Such an organization as the FBI, in its raw files, will contain a vast amount of material, of varying value, which comes from many sources. Some of the data are demonstrably true; some require investigation and substantiation; some may be viciously false and may indicate that the provider should be investigated.

A sound intelligence organization eliminates nothing on a current question. What may seem to be preposterous today may turn out to be absolutely correct a year from now. Data should only be eliminated as useless and incorrect when a file is closed.

If an intelligence agency eliminates data on a low level, its files may prove to be inadequate and practically use less when a situation becomes hot. Evaluation of data is an extremely difficult undertaking involving specialized knowledge and extraordinarily sound judgment.

For instance, in the evaluation of material concerning areas, such as Russia, China, Albania, Egypt, Israel, or any other place, the evaluator must have knowledge, prior to his approach to the data, of the language, the history, geography, traditions, religious conflicts, social institutions, personalities, and about everything else. Without these skills, an evaluator could not understand the material before him.

Therefore no properly organized intelligence organization would permit the elimination of any material from its raw files at any time, lest the judgment of the evaluator of the material might at some time prove to have been fallacious.

If the material deals with crime, sabotage, espionage, subversion, the evaluation is very difficult. The skilled spy, for instance, leaves few traces. He usually works under a "cover," that is, he has a vocation far removed from espionage, one that is extremely usual and respectable.

It takes a competent counter-espionage operator to evaluate adequately a vast quantity of uncorrelated material which he must put together into a mosaic of fact. Careless or prejudiced evaluation may save the spy. Some day the story of the spy, Arthur Adams, may be released officially. It would be a case history of how a spy works and what a counter-espionage organization needs to do to keep up with him. The FBI is not at fault that Arthur Adams left this country unscathed—and the reason for that should be made public.

In dealing with subversives, an intelligence organization in a free country encounters enormous difficulties, because of the constitutional and other legal protectives that the subversive person enjoys. This often involves the question of intent, which cannot be proved. For instance, a Republican or Democrat may favor an end to the Korean War because he dislikes useless bloodshed; a subversive may advocate the same idea with the intent of softening up the American people in favor of Soviet Russia. The intent is different and that is important.

The raw files of the FBI or any other agency should not be shown to untrained eyes. They would reach false conclusions. No man, no matter how skillful, could look at only one raw file and reach a sound conclusion; he would have to correlate what he saw in that file with material in dozens of other files.

On the other hand, the Constitution provides that government officials should be appointed with the advice and consent of the Senate. Any committee of Congress would accept an FBI evaluation as long as that agency remains non-political and objective. Such evaluations should be provided directly to congressional committees upon requisition. Showing such an evaluation to two senators, as in the Bohlen case, is silly. If two can look at it, ten can. If a committee of Congress cannot be trusted, why should a State Department officials be trusted?

If an FBI evaluation were available, much of the investigative work of congressional committees could be eliminated. The obiter dictum of a highly placed official is worthless because he has made no study of the material, and even if he were to make a study, the question arises whether he is sufficiently skilled, in a highly specialized field, to evaluate the material. Few can.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe after reading the testimony of Generals Van Fleet and Almond before the Senate Armed Services Committee, the apologists for the Truman-Acheson regime, who have been trying desperately to squelch all investigations by Congress into what has been happening inside the government in recent years, will find it logical to recommend that West Point and Annapolis be abolished and the whole strategy of war be taught hereafter by the State Department.

For it is difficult to understand the duties a military commander can perform in the future which resemble what soldiers have been taught heretofore when his instructions are coming from diplomats in 12 different countries in a so-called alliance.

Nowadays a commander cannot lay plans to fight the enemy aggressively without asking permission from the so-called "civilian" side of the government, usually the Department of State, which under the last administration considered itself obligated to make no moves in Korea without consulting the foreign offices of our so-called allies.

State Department Running War

The testimony of General Van Fleet, just given, that twice he could have destroyed the Red armies in Korea and was ready to make a seaborne strike to accomplish that mission but was stopped by "higher orders" is a tragic confirmation of what has been said repeatedly in these dispatches ever since General MacArthur was summarily dismissed in April 1951—the State Department has been running the war in Korea.

The fact is that military men have been compelled to bow completely to the diplomats, and the strange thing is that some of the highest military officers in the Pentagon have accepted this as their duty.

The theory that diplomats make foreign policy is well understood, of course, but, once a war breaks out, it is unprecedented for military commanders to be required to consult the Department of State to find out how much intensity should be put into the fighting.

It appears now that the shortage of ammunition in Korea was probably deliberate. Senators on the Armed Services Committee say openly that they suspect that the amount of ammunition sent to Korea was in accord with the "type of war" that the State Department wanted to see carried on. There was always enough ammunition available to carry on a sit-down war, but never enough to attack the enemy. Offensives were not wanted. Victory was tabooed as an objective. General Van Fleet says American lives were sacrificed by that policy.

Hewed To Line

What is surprising is the manner in which military chiefs in the Pentagon in their public speeches have hewed to the State Department "line." At times they seem to have been engaged actually in propagandizing for it. The Senate committee would do well to investigate the extent to which the military chiefs were used to put out the foreign-policy "line" in the last few years, employing their prestige to influence public opinion on political policies. For certainly it is contradictory to hear military chiefs say that the civilian authority must be supreme and that the military shall have nothing to say about foreign policy and then to witness their own public statements extolling the foreign policy already laid down by the previous administration and excusing their speechmaking as a means of educating the public. Why did they have to discuss foreign policy or justify stalemated wars in public?

A lot of nonsense has been uttered about the importance of "civilian control" of the military. Does it mean that "thought control" must be imposed and that military men must forget all they were taught about pressing for a military victory when hostilities break out in UN wars? There is testimony before congressional committees which reflects this kind of defeatism. It is so unusual for military men to talk that way that one wonders if the preceding administration intimidated the officers in question and caused them to make some of the speeches they did and to give some of the testimony they gave at the hearings when the MacArthur case was under investigation.

131,000 Casualties

The sad fact remains that 131,000 casualties have been recorded to date for the American armed forces in Korea and that of these 23,000 are dead. It certainly doesn't make relatives of those who were killed feel that the sacrifices were justified when every proposal to achieve military victory still has to be evaluated in terms of whether someone in the State Department or British Foreign Office thinks it will "enlarge the war." Senator Symington said the other day in a comment to the Senate Armed Services Committee about the use of the atomic bomb in Korea:

"It seems to me in our refusal to use the atomic bomb we may be asking a lot more of our own youth to die in Korea because maybe some of us are afraid of what might happen to us over here."

The question is: How long are American boys going to be sacrificed in so-called UN wars throughout the world while ammunition to fight offensively is denied them intermittently and orders are dispatched preventing our best military officers from doing what they have been taught to do?

WHICH CHANCE IS BEST?

SOUND play for a doubtful contract does not consist merely of proceeding so that you give yourself as many different chances as possible. It also includes the factor of selecting the best chances in preference to those not quite so good. Application of that fundamental principle should begin with the very first trick—or, rather, before playing to the first trick, when you are developing your plan for the hand as a whole.

	♠ A K 7 4 ♥ A J 6 ♦ A Q 7 ♣ A K 3
♠ J 6 ♥ Q 10 7 5 3 ♦ J 9 ♣ Q 9 7 6	N W E S	♠ Q 10 9 5 ♥ K 4 2 ♦ 10 8 4 3 ♣ J 2
	♠ 8 3 2 ♥ 9 8 ♦ K 6 5 2 ♣ 10 8 5 4

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 NT	Pass	3 NT

When West led the heart 5, South counted eight sure tricks available to him in top cards. To gain the needed one more, he saw four chances, one in each suit, and decided to try three of them. First he put in the heart J, hoping West had both the K and Q. But East won that and returned the 4. South let the 10 win, then won the 3 with the A. The diamond A and Q were scored, next the spade A and K, and the 4 was led hoping for a split to set up the 7. But East scored two spades then and returned the club J to the K. A lead to the diamond K sought a division there which failed, so all South could do was score the club A and give up a club for the setting trick.

South's big mistake was on the first trick. West's fourth-best heart 5 lead marked him as holding three cards from among the K-Q-10-7, but not the K-Q-10, as then he should have led the K. Hence East had one of those three honors. As South played, the J would have won if East held the 10, but lose if he had either the K or Q. So playing low would have assured a later trick for the J if East held either of two cards—twice as good a chance as counting on East for one particular card.

In brief, South had given himself three chances to make his contract. But they were not the best chances. At least the first one was not. The odds were exactly twice as good in favor of the low play from dummy on the first trick as against the J play.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ Q 10 9 7 4 3 ♥ A 9 ♦ A 2 ♣ A 10 4
♠ None ♥ K Q J 10 8 5 4 3 2 ♦ K 7 ♣ K 6	N W E S	♠ 8 6 2 ♥ 6 ♦ Q 10 6 4 3 ♣ Q 9 8 3
	♠ A K J 5 ♥ 7 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ J 7 5 2

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

Can you imagine any course of play which could result in South making 6-Spades on this deal?

UMW Official Urges Shorter Work Day Rather Than Pay Hike

CALIFORNIA, Pa., April 2 (AP) — A United Mine Workers official said yesterday he believes "every miner would be better off with a shorter workday rather than an increase in wages."

Speaking at a John Mitchell Day rally here, Percy Tetlow, advisor to the UMW International Board in Washington, declared such a move would help solve the unemployment problem caused by the "diminishing demand for coal" which faces the industry.

"It would be better to cut the workday from eight to six hours or even less to maintain the present wage level," Tetlow said, "than to give a miner an increase in wages but only work him two or three days a week."

Tetlow said the UMW "top command" considers this a vital issue and added it will affect future contract negotiations to a large extent.

Trygve Lie Gets Laugh Out Of Soviet Delegate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 2 (AP)—Trygve Lie got a laugh out of Andrei Vishinsky at the U. N. General Assembly today.

In a speech, Lie called upon the delegates to give their full support to the man nominated as his successor for secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden.

Recalling that he had been under violent attack from the Soviet bloc, Lie quipped: "I am really grateful to them for not declaring my resignation illegal and unacceptable."

Vishinsky, who led the attack on Lie, joined in the laughter.

Legislator Hits Golfing During Working Hours

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Rep. Gross (R-Iowa) got on record today against government officials tuning up their golf games during working hours.

He brought up the subject at a House Civil Service Committee hearing on a bill to prevent top echelon officials from taking accumulated leave pay when they leave the government.

Gross told John McCart, legislative representative of the American Federation of Government Employes, he knew a one-time secretary of the Army who played such a good game of golf he must have practiced during working hours.

He didn't identify the secretary.

"What are you going to do about a case like that?" Gross asked.

McCart replied that he didn't know. But he suggested that perhaps the secretary often worked late at night at the Pentagon.

"I don't know about that," said Gross. "I can see a government official when he is playing golf in front of a television camera. But I can't see when he is working at night. It is a question of proof."

Gross made no mention of President Eisenhower and his practice shots on the White House lawn. About the time Gross was talking the President drove to Burning Tree Club for a round of golf.

Mirrors Of St. Pete

By JOHN WHEELER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — I went down to the dining room at the Vinoy Hotel for breakfast, and, if there is a couple vacationing here who have not enjoyed their Golden Honeymoon, they must have eaten in their rooms. Of course, I except the sports writers and their wives. They get up for their morning meal, for it saves a 50-cent service charge, and so do I. Besides, they're working.

There is no harm, I suppose, in an old cynic like me getting sentimental, for this is a great haven for age, and I will be joining the shuffleboard players, myself, in another two or three years, if they will let me in. It is pretty touching to see an elderly couple strolling along in the sunshine arm in arm on the way to the ball park or to play checkers. It is certainly a big contrast to New York, Palm Beach, East Hampton and other social centers I have visited where husbands change wives nearly every time she gets a new hair-do.

Any doll under 30, who shows up here, looks like Marilyn Monroe. There is practically no competition. The reporters and Big Leaguers are a separate social group. Last night I ate dinner with Grantland Rice, Red Smith, and Frank Graham and the wives of the latter two gentlemen — as nice a bunch as you would want to find.

"I see," remarked Grantland Rice, "they are talking about making Earl Sande a steward at the track. I hope he gets it. He needs the dough."

"Is he broke?" I asked in surprise.

All of them nodded.

"What happened to him? He used to make big money as a race rider."

"Yes, and it goes fast, too, and you soon run out of it. He took on too much weight and age. Then he had some bad horses he was trying to train."

"Once I asked him why he didn't go to England where they mount heavier jocks," said Red Smith.

" 'No one would know me there,' he answered modestly."

"That's like Lindbergh getting a letter of introduction to Ambassador Herrick when he first flew the Atlantic for fear he wouldn't be recognized if he arrived."

"Casey's a funny guy," went on Red, referring to the Yankee manager. "He double talks when you ask him a question."

"Where'd he get that idea?" said Frank Graham.

"Ring Lardner used to be a pal of his. He told him years ago if a newspaperman asked him about something just to keep talking. He certainly learned his lesson well and never has forgotten it."

"When Yogi Berra first came here with the Yankees, I went to the dog track one night. It was cold, and I saw this fellow sitting behind me hunched up with no overcoat on, looking pretty disconsolate," said Grantland Rice.

" 'What's the matter?' I asked him. 'Don't you want to bet?'

" 'Sure, but I haven't any money,' he answered. 'Lost it all.'

"So I bought a couple of tickets and gave him one. The dog won and paid $106. You could hear him hollering as far as Sarasota. He wanted to invest in three or four entries in the next race.

" 'One dog at a time,' I told him.

"He has been a devotee of the sport ever since. You are liable to find him out there most any night."

They have two local ball teams here which play every Saturday. You have to be at least 75 to be eligible. After looking around for a week or so, I am convinced there should be no shortage of talent. In fact, I may begin warming up, myself, in a few years.

As we stood in front of the hotel in the late afternoon, a cool breeze had sprung up. Rice turned up his coat collar.

"Don't do that," warned Frank Graham. "The Chamber of Commerce is liable to run you out of town, if some spy reports you."

Talk Of Peace

New speculation about the possibility of a meeting of Big Three or Big Four representatives has been aroused by the peace overtures of Chinese Communist Premier Chou.

General Eisenhower on June 7, 1952, while seeking the Republican nomination for President, said he would meet Stalin any time, any place, if he "had the slighiest reason to believe" the meeting would promote peace. But when Stalin wrote James Reston of The New York Times on December 24 that he "regarded favorably" a suggestion of a meeting between himself and Eisenhower, the President-designate withheld comment.

President Eisenhower's press conference statement of February 25 was more conditional than his June 7 statement. He would meet anybody anywhere, he said, if he thought there was the slightest chance of doing any good, as long as it was in keeping with what the American people expect of their chief executive. In other words, he would not want to just say he would go anywhere. He would go to any suitable spot, let's say half-way between, and talk with anybody and with the full knowledge of our allies and friends.

While the President would understandably prefer to meet Premier Malenkov, if at all, on neutral ground, a visit to Russia would not be unprecedented. Yalta, scene of the 1945 meeting of Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain, and FDR, is in the Russian Crimea.

Stalin was adamant about staying in Russia on the ground that he was directing the Russian armies personally. Roosevelt was reluctant, for domestic political reasons, to accept a Russian meeting place. The late Harry L. Hopkins said to Robert E. Sherwood: "I told the President . . . that there was not a chance of getting Stalin out of Russia . . . and that we might as well make up our minds first at least to go to some convenient point in Russia."

The Tehran conference of 1943 had been held in Iran, but even there Roosevelt had been housed in a villa in the Russian embassy compound. The Potsdam Big Three meeting of 1945 was on conquered neutral ground.

The first time a President left the soil of North America was in December 1918, when Wilson sailed for the Paris peace conference. There was much opposition at home to Wilson's departure, and some historians believe he would have been more effective at a distance from the diplomatic in-fighting.

When leaders of states can't or don't want to meet in person, they can send special representatives, usually but not always the secretary of state or foreign minister. Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles saw Mussolini, Hitler, Daladier, and Chamberlain in 1940 in a vain effort to avert World War II. Secretary of State Hull was the U. S. representative at the Moscow conference of 1943.

The ill-fated Munich conference of September 1938 was attended by heads of states—Hitler, Mussolini, Daladier, and Chamberlain. But it was a meeting of relatively minor officials that produced favorable results in 1949—the lifting of the blockade of Berlin. The principals were UN delegates from their respective nations—Jessup of the United States and Malik of the USSR—and the scene was New York, where the UN was meeting.

Confusion Confounded

If the sole purpose of the Soviet propaganda machine is to keep the West confused, its efforts during the first few weeks of the new Malenkov regime must be regarded as a whopping success. In rapid succession the Russians have been proclaiming their love of peace and their belief that a settlement can be reached with the West, shooting down Allied planes, returning a soft answer to one protest and a harsh one to the next.

Now, after a few days of wafting propaganda to America that was unexpectedly sweet and mild, Moscow radio has reverted to the old angry lies.

This confuses Washington, but isn't it barely possible that the Russians are a trifle confused themselves about what line to follow in these first months after Stalin's sure hand has been lifted from the keyboard of the propaganda organ? Under the dead dictator, to be sure, the Moscow line occasionally took bewildering twists and turns. But a line once adopted was pounded long and hard and, when it was reversed, Stalin usually had a good reason for the shift.

The present twists and turns have come so rapidly there are only two explanations that make any sense. One is that the new leaders of Russia do not know what line to adopt and the other is that disagreements in the Kremlin are forcing these rapid changes.

Many hundreds of thousands of words have found their way into print recently from writers speculating on the intentions of the new rulers of Russia. But those in the writing trade might as well save their breath and let their typewriters cool off until Malenkov et al provide more evidence that they know what they're after.

The Date Of Easter

Easter, most important "movable feast" of Christendom, can never come earlier than March 22 nor later than April 25. This year it arrives several days before the mid-way point of that 35-day range.

The date of Easter, like the dates of all Jewish holy-days, depends on the moon. This was by decision of the Council of Christian Churches held in Nicea (now Isnik in Asiatic Turkey) in 325 A. D.

By that time pilgrims by the thousands were traveling on foot to the Holy Land or to other shrines to celebrate the Resurrection. The Nicea Council decided to fix Easter at such time as would let the pilgrims be guided by the light of the moon—for one thing, to afford some protection from highwaymen.

So the day was set as the first Sunday following the full moon occurring on or next after the vernal equinox, which in the Gregorian calendar is on March 21. However, if that full moon happens to fall on a Sunday, Easter comes one week later. The time of the full moon is determined by certain traditional calculations, which may not always accord with present-day astronomical ones.

The name itself is derived from "Eostre" or "Eastre," the Anglo-Saxon name for the goddess of spring. For centuries the eating of eggs was forbidden during the Lenten fast, so especial attention was paid to them when Lent ended. Also, the egg was an ancient symbol of the germinating life of the spring-time, as was the rabbit.

How To Keep Well

No Easy Way In Diabetes

Insulin is indispensable in the treatment of diabetes. It controls or prevents dangerous complications and helps to keep the amount of sugar in the blood at a respectable level. We now know that the diet is just as important but it is here that most diabetics err.

In planning treatment for a moderately severe diabetic the physician may suggest 40 units of protamine insulin every morning. The patient measures this dose without difficulty and follows instructions to the letter. But the diet is a different matter, even though it is carefully planned and made as simple as possible. In the first few months the victim adheres just as faithfully to the dietary instructions as he does to his insulin. Within this period, diabetes is controlled perfectly and he may lose weight and feel fine. Then the unpredictable variable, appetite, enters the picture. The diabetic is human and has just as much trouble curbing appetite as does any one else who loves good food. The inability to restrain the urge to eat is the reason why perfect results are not always obtained.

Appetite is influenced by many psychological factors, which is of no help to the diabetic because his disease reeks of psychological factors. Young men and women victims are besieged with emotional stress because of a certain amount of limitation of activities and when they visualize a lifetime of insulin and special diets. It is easy to see their point of view because these persons are too young to realize that in the past the young diabetic always died and that the penalty paid for living is the diet and insulin regimen. The adult diabetic also has his troubles because his habits are well established and it is difficult to change. He thinks, therefore, that the only way to get revenge is to upset the regulations by overeating.

We wish there were easier plans for treating diabetes successfully but to date no alternates have proved of value. Jet injections never materialized. The same can be said of insulin pellets containing enough of the hormone to last several months. The substance is absorbed slowly to avoid reactions and in this respect gives a constant supply. This is quite unlike the natural supply of insulin by the pancreas which manufactures the hormone in accordance with the demand. Many other products have not proved effective, including choline, inositol, and vitamin E.

The laissez faire method of allowing the diabetic to eat everything and anything and "covering with insulin" still is in the experimental stages. There are many objections and several reports condemning the procedure have appeared. The diabetic is likely to gain weight under this plan and has frequent reactions because insulin requirements vary from meal to meal. Moreover, blood tests often reveal elevation of the blood sugar. A recent survey among specialists in the disease revealed that 70 per cent prefer insulin and diet. They no longer require that food be weighed but recommend ordinary household measuring devices such as the teaspoon, tablespoon, and cup. They also suggest that the diabetic learn more about nutrition to make substitutions and add variety to the menus.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

P. M. writes: My mother has had multiple sclerosis for 20 years but it has not progressed rapidly; she still can get around with a cane. Could this be a true case of the disease?

REPLY

Yes, as this course is characteristic of multiple sclerosis. This explains why it is difficult to evaluate a certain type of treatment because, in addition to the slow progress of the disease, the victim has periods when he feels better.

INCREASED EYEBALL PRESSURE

J. H. writes: Is hardening of the eyeball caused by hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

No, there is no connection between these two processes. In glaucoma, pressure within the eyeball is increased because the fluid is trapped within the eye. In this respect, the arteries do not play a role.

TERRAMYCIN FOR ACNE

V. W. writes: I have heard that terramycin is the latest remedy for acne. Do you know if it is effective?

REPLY

This remedy has been reported to be of value in acne, especially when used in small amounts over a long period of time. Other antibiotics also have been tried but as a rule the plan is discouraged because the good effects are temporary and acne returns when the drug is discontinued.

TO VISUALIZE

T. M. writes: Why is a barium enema given before X-rays?

REPLY

Because the intestines are made up of soft tissues that do not show up under X-ray. This is overcome by inserting barium to provide a suitable contrast.

White House Debates Crackdown On McCarthy; President's First Policy Was Appeasement; Ike Reconsidered After Battle Over Bohlen

WASHINGTON—Top question being debated inside the White House, next to peace in Korea, is whether steps should be taken to crack down on the fast-dancing, quick-jabbing senator from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy—or, as he's called inside the White House, "Jumpin' Joe."

One Ike adviser frankly admitted the other day that it was never expected McCarthy would be a problem.

"We didn't anticipate that Jumpin' Joe would precipitate things as fast as he has," admitted C. D. Jackson, former publisher of Fortune magazine, now intimate adviser to the President. "We thought he'd give us a little breathing space. Frankly, he's a problem."

At first the President ducked any move to tangle with McCarthy. He acted as if he wanted to stay just as far away as possible from any showdown, even with his own administration involved.

When McCarthy first began delving into the Voice of America, Carl McCardle, assistant secretary of State in charge of the Voice, phoned the White House and asked Press Secretary Jim Hagerty to get Ike to say something at his press conference to squelch McCarthy.

Ike declined. Furthermore, when a news question was asked at the press conference, he indirectly supported McCarthy by saying it was the right of Congress to investigate.

This, of course, was prior to the bitter battle over Ambassador Bohlen. Since then, White House advisers report that their chief is sore, has stiffened toward McCarthy, and has decided the advice given him by Vice President Nixon and at first by Taft is wrong. Nixon had believed that the administration should try to get along with McCarthy and that McCarthy in turn would play ball.

This was the same advice given Ike during the election campaign just before his speech in McCarthy's home state. Governor Dewey had urged that Ike cold-shoulder McCarthy on this trip. But Arthur Summerfield, together with Senators Ferguson of Michigan and Hickenlooper of Iowa, flew to Ike's private car, finally persuaded him to reverse this.

However, when Ike inserted two paragraphs in his Milwaukee speech praising General Marshall, whom McCarthy had so bitterly castigated, Summerfield arranged for McCarthy to come up the service elevator of the Pere Marquette Hotel in Peoria and confer privately with Ike. At that meeting, McCarthy persuaded Eisenhower to reverse himself again and take out the two paragraphs praising Marshall.

White House advisers say that despite this appeasement, the President can get awfully mad, and it's a well-known fact that when he gets mad, he usually stays mad.

However, a man who has spent all his life away from the hot and hectic arena of politics, usually shies away from political battles with senators. This was true of Herbert Hoover, who like Eisenhower, had spent much of his time abroad. The President feels that he cannot fire a senator in the same way he could demote or transfer an Army officer who gets out of line.

Some advisers recall that over in the Justice Department is the Senate Elections Committee report on McCarthy's weird financial operations, one of the most comprehensive reports ever made about a member of the Senate. Some believe the Justice Department should study this report and let the chips fall where they may. But more conservative leaders on Capitol Hill are very much opposed.

That, in brief, is the present White House quandary.

The American "melting pot" was brought home to President Eisenhower while lunching with Congressman Al Sieminski of New Jersey, son of a Polish immigrant. "My father had many hopes for the future in this land of freedom and opportunity, but he never thought a son would one day sit down to eat with the President," reported the congressman from Jersey City. . . . Congressman Brooks Hays of Arkansas showed the President a short-snorter the President himself had signed some years before. The Arkansan told Ike how he had proudly displayed the signature to his young son. "The only signature he made a fuss about," said Hays, "was that of another signer, Bing Crosby" . . . . Recalling a meeting with Walter Reuther and CIO leaders, Ike told friends he was struck by their "youth and mental alertness," and that he genuinely enjoyed the "fast play of wits among them." Ike said Reuther had urged "genuine collective bargaining," with plenty of freedom between labor and industry. "I told him and the other CIO leaders," added Ike, "that I would be sure to be in their corner if they would just stay with that."

When President Ike practices his golf shots on the White House lawn he uses only his irons—never his driver. The President is afraid one of his long shots might hook or slice right out of the White House grounds. . . . President Eisenhower tells friends that pickets who parade in front of the White House don't bother him, because he never sees them. Ike and Mamie rarely use the front entrance to the White House, preferring the South entrance, which is handier to the President's office and living quarters . . . The President is keeping a close check on his diet, seldom touches bread, mayonnaise, desserts, and other fattening foods. At mealtime he frequently munches on little, low-calory crackers. . . Military advisers now tell the President that they want no part of the universal military training program. Instead they contend that the draft system is sufficient to meet our military manpower needs for the present. However, Eisenhower still firmly believes that some form of UMT may be necessary to provide pre-draft training for American youth in case we are thrown into a sudden, all-out war. He recently indicated to congressional leaders that he would recommend a modified UMT to Congress, but he didn't say when.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

WASHINGTON (INS)— If peace actually is in the wind, it won't be an easy one in the opinion of random members of Congress we listened to at the National Press Club's annual party for the inmates of Capitol Hill.

The congressional consensus is that Russia is in earnest this time. No congressman could quite place his finger on why the Reds are being stubbornly believed now despite their deplorable record of broken promises and spurious peace overtures. Nevertheless, the party was literally swimming in optimistic faith.

Here are some of the complications we heard mentioned:

1.—Disposition of healthy prisoners of war.

2.—Syngman Rhee's demand that North Korean as well as Red Chinese armies withdraw from Korea, and that his administration's influence extend from the Yalu to Pusan.

3.—What to do about policing Korea with UN troops when and if total peace breaks out there.

4.—How to pay for the restoration of Korea and her economy.

5.—How to answer what will be a deluge of demands for a reduction of U. S. taxes, if the fighting stops.

Rep. Hugh Scott (R) Pennsylvania, who saw action in Korea with the Marines, believes the reason behind the sudden flapping of doves' wings is the return to the upper reaches of the Kremlin's hierarchy of Marshal Zhukov, wartime friend of Eisenhower and, "like every other professional military man in history, a man who frowns on useless expenditure of arms and men preferably to be conserved for a bigger show later on."

Least-confining work of any government body is that of the Assay Commission which meets in Washington once a year to examine samples of the output of U. S. mints. It is a kind of watch-dog committee to check up on whether the scattered mints are turning out identical coins. Commission members, who serve without pay, have sometimes had to be requested not to bite the money.

The jobs usually rotate among friends of the president in office. One in line for a post next year is Mrs. Ed Pool, petite wife of the New York hotel executive. Mrs. Pool, no bigger than a minute, but twice as pretty, is expected to be placed in charge of not biting dimes.

The State Department has been trying to tell Congress, without success, that the tidelands claims of Texas and the western part of Florida are putting the U. S. in an uncomfortable position.

The states concerned claim ten and a half miles of offshore land and Congress has agreed that this figure—a carry-over from the days of Spanish rule—will be honored in the splitup of off-shore oil.

But the government has long held that only three miles of water constitutes a soverign part of the U. S. Russia claims 12 miles around its land, and has used this claim to rebuff U. S. demands for a settlement of the shooting down of a Navy Privateer cruising over the Baltic. Now, inadvertently, Congress has taken the view that we do not mean what we say when we speak of a 3-mile limit.

United Nations World, generally well-informed about what is going on, asserts that the West's sudden affection for Tito is based on more than his ideological split with the Kremlin. Huge uranium deposits have been discovered in Yugoslavia not far from the Bulgarian border. The stuff has been found close to the surface and the yield promises to be tremendous.

Tito is reported to have rejected secret overtures from this country and Britain to lease the uranium fields and will exploit it himself. With the Red-inspired Mau Mau disorders creeping like a dread disease toward the Belgian Congo and its treasured uranium mines, one of our two chief sources of suppy, Tito's a man to woo. And woo we will, though he's a grade A scoundrel and sworn enemy of democratic processes.

Those Hidden Files

Reference to FBI files have been constant during the past few years with little understanding of what they are. Perhaps it would be advantageous to explain how intelligence services generally gather and evaluate information. This would apply to all agencies, except that some eliminate data at low levels, which is usually regarded as a dangerous process.

Such an organization as the FBI, in its raw files, will contain a vast amount of material, of varying value, which comes from many sources. Some of the data are demonstrably true; some require investigation and substantiation; some may be viciously false and may indicate that the provider should be investigated.

A sound intelligence organization eliminates nothing on a current question. What may seem to be preposterous today may turn out to be absolutely correct a year from now. Data should only be eliminated as useless and incorrect when a file is closed.

If an intelligence agency eliminates data on a low level, its files may prove to be inadequate and practically use less when a situation becomes hot. Evaluation of data is an extremely difficult undertaking involving specialized knowledge and extraordinarily sound judgment.

For instance, in the evaluation of material concerning areas, such as Russia, China, Albania, Egypt, Israel, or any other place, the evaluator must have knowledge, prior to his approach to the data, of the language, the history, geography, traditions, religious conflicts, social institutions, personalities, and about everything else. Without these skills, an evaluator could not understand the material before him.

Therefore no properly organized intelligence organization would permit the elimination of any material from its raw files at any time, lest the judgment of the evaluator of the material might at some time prove to have been fallacious.

If the material deals with crime, sabotage, espionage, subversion, the evaluation is very difficult. The skilled spy, for instance, leaves few traces. He usually works under a "cover," that is, he has a vocation far removed from espionage, one that is extremely usual and respectable.

It takes a competent counter-espionage operator to evaluate adequately a vast quantity of uncorrelated material which he must put together into a mosaic of fact. Careless or prejudiced evaluation may save the spy. Some day the story of the spy, Arthur Adams, may be released officially. It would be a case history of how a spy works and what a counter-espionage organization needs to do to keep up with him. The FBI is not at fault that Arthur Adams left this country unscathed—and the reason for that should be made public.

In dealing with subversives, an intelligence organization in a free country encounters enormous difficulties, because of the constitutional and other legal protectives that the subversive person enjoys. This often involves the question of intent, which cannot be proved. For instance, a Republican or Democrat may favor an end to the Korean War because he dislikes useless bloodshed; a subversive may advocate the same idea with the intent of softening up the American people in favor of Soviet Russia. The intent is different and that is important.

The raw files of the FBI or any other agency should not be shown to untrained eyes. They would reach false conclusions. No man, no matter how skillful, could look at only one raw file and reach a sound conclusion; he would have to correlate what he saw in that file with material in dozens of other files.

On the other hand, the Constitution provides that government officials should be appointed with the advice and consent of the Senate. Any committee of Congress would accept an FBI evaluation as long as that agency remains non-political and objective. Such evaluations should be provided directly to congressional committees upon requisition. Showing such an evaluation to two senators, as in the Bohlen case, is silly. If two can look at it, ten can. If a committee of Congress cannot be trusted, why should a State Department officials be trusted?

If an FBI evaluation were available, much of the investigative work of congressional committees could be eliminated. The obiter dictum of a highly placed official is worthless because he has made no study of the material, and even if he were to make a study, the question arises whether he is sufficiently skilled, in a highly specialized field, to evaluate the material. Few can.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe after reading the testimony of Generals Van Fleet and Almond before the Senate Armed Services Committee, the apologists for the Truman-Acheson regime, who have been trying desperately to squelch all investigations by Congress into what has been happening inside the government in recent years, will find it logical to recommend that West Point and Annapolis be abolished and the whole strategy of war be taught hereafter by the State Department.

For it is difficult to understand the duties a military commander can perform in the future which resemble what soldiers have been taught heretofore when his instructions are coming from diplomats in 12 different countries in a so-called alliance.

Nowadays a commander cannot lay plans to fight the enemy aggressively without asking permission from the so-called "civilian" side of the government, usually the Department of State, which under the last administration considered itself obligated to make no moves in Korea without consulting the foreign offices of our so-called allies.

State Department Running War

The testimony of General Van Fleet, just given, that twice he could have destroyed the Red armies in Korea and was ready to make a seaborne strike to accomplish that mission but was stopped by "higher orders" is a tragic confirmation of what has been said repeatedly in these dispatches ever since General MacArthur was summarily dismissed in April 1951—the State Department has been running the war in Korea.

The fact is that military men have been compelled to bow completely to the diplomats, and the strange thing is that some of the highest military officers in the Pentagon have accepted this as their duty.

The theory that diplomats make foreign policy is well understood, of course, but, once a war breaks out, it is unprecedented for military commanders to be required to consult the Department of State to find out how much intensity should be put into the fighting.

It appears now that the shortage of ammunition in Korea was probably deliberate. Senators on the Armed Services Committee say openly that they suspect that the amount of ammunition sent to Korea was in accord with the "type of war" that the State Department wanted to see carried on. There was always enough ammunition available to carry on a sit-down war, but never enough to attack the enemy. Offensives were not wanted. Victory was tabooed as an objective. General Van Fleet says American lives were sacrificed by that policy.

Hewed To Line

What is surprising is the manner in which military chiefs in the Pentagon in their public speeches have hewed to the State Department "line." At times they seem to have been engaged actually in propagandizing for it. The Senate committee would do well to investigate the extent to which the military chiefs were used to put out the foreign-policy "line" in the last few years, employing their prestige to influence public opinion on political policies. For certainly it is contradictory to hear military chiefs say that the civilian authority must be supreme and that the military shall have nothing to say about foreign policy and then to witness their own public statements extolling the foreign policy already laid down by the previous administration and excusing their speechmaking as a means of educating the public. Why did they have to discuss foreign policy or justify stalemated wars in public?

A lot of nonsense has been uttered about the importance of "civilian control" of the military. Does it mean that "thought control" must be imposed and that military men must forget all they were taught about pressing for a military victory when hostilities break out in UN wars? There is testimony before congressional committees which reflects this kind of defeatism. It is so unusual for military men to talk that way that one wonders if the preceding administration intimidated the officers in question and caused them to make some of the speeches they did and to give some of the testimony they gave at the hearings when the MacArthur case was under investigation.

131,000 Casualties

The sad fact remains that 131,000 casualties have been recorded to date for the American armed forces in Korea and that of these 23,000 are dead. It certainly doesn't make relatives of those who were killed feel that the sacrifices were justified when every proposal to achieve military victory still has to be evaluated in terms of whether someone in the State Department or British Foreign Office thinks it will "enlarge the war." Senator Symington said the other day in a comment to the Senate Armed Services Committee about the use of the atomic bomb in Korea:

"It seems to me in our refusal to use the atomic bomb we may be asking a lot more of our own youth to die in Korea because maybe some of us are afraid of what might happen to us over here."

The question is: How long are American boys going to be sacrificed in so-called UN wars throughout the world while ammunition to fight offensively is denied them intermittently and orders are dispatched preventing our best military officers from doing what they have been taught to do?

Robert Knipe Is Named Yacht Club Commodore

The Deep Creek Yacht Club, Incorporated, has elected officers and formulated plans for the 1953 season.

Robert Knipe, Pittsburgh, is the new commodore; Dr. Donald B. Grove, Cumberland, vice commodore; John W. Stark, LaVale, rear commodore; Henry K. Duke, LaVale, secretary, and Richard C. Holben, Frostburg, treasurer.

The first race is scheduled for Memorial Day weekend, but members wil begin putting their racing sloops in shape for the contest beginning early in May.

The most elaborate racing program that has been presented for some years, is planned for the club fleet this year.

Mr. Stark reports he is the owner of a new racing sloop with plastic hull and aluminum spars that should be a pace setter in the race.

New this year will be a program of racing activities headed by Stewart Brown, Baltimore, and Dr. Charles S. Mahan, Morgantown, W. Va., which will be arranged especially for the 12 teenage or younger skippers who are the children of club members. The children will have their own club room at the Yacht Club.

Note was made that the club is becoming quite cosmopolitan. At present there are members from Pittsburgh, Morgantown, Frostburg, LaVale, Cumberland, Baltimore and Washington. The sailing experience of various club members extends from the Pacific Ocean, across the United States and the Atlantic to the Mediterranean.

Jr. Extension Plans Supper, Hears Exchange Student

Announcement was made of the Older Youth Camp and plans formulated for a covered dish supper at the meeting of the Junior Extension 4-H Club, Thursday evening at Flintstone School. A talk on his experiences in France, by Stewart Young, 1952 International Farm Youth Exchange student, featured the program.

The covered dish supper is to be held May 6 in conjunction with the next meeting. It will be at the home of Frank Morgan, Frostburg, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Morgan is chairman of the Older Youth Camp committee and camp will be held July 18 and 19.

Mr. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Young, Rt. 5, Westminster and former 4-H'er gave a detailed account of his four months in France. He said he definitely wants to go back and would like to live there, for the French enjoy life, living from day to day and at a slower pace.

Explaining why the first farm where he stayed in the center of France, was divided into small plots, Mr. Young said the old laws require land owners to divide their land among their children when they marry. This farmer's largest plot was four or five acres and some only two and one half acres, all surrounded by neighbors. Much time, he said is consumed going from one plot to the next. The farmer has 15 acres of wheat divided into 11 plots.

The speaker told how he had always taken it for granted he could drive a tractor, but the French were amazed that he could drive the tractor of his host, which was the only one in the village of Perrogney. The horse and cows were kept in the house, which was L shaped, with the kitchen at one end and the living room at the other. He was impressed how very hard the women in the small villages worked from 4:30 a. m., feeding the animals and milking the cows as well as doing all the housework. There were no conveniences such as running water and refrigeration, but the people were far happier there.

For the second two months, Mr. Young said he went to a farm in Southern France, whose owner was well to do, having a car, a pickup truck and several homes. As they had servants, the women in this home did no work. The son, who had been an exchange student to the United States in 1951, was interested in corn and had bought a corn picker. For the 15 days it was in operation people from miles away came to watch. This farmer who had money for equipment was actually putting American farm practices into use. He also had a refrigerator and a beautiful home with wide halls. The walls were decorated with pictures and China.

The speaker explained that the men on both farms had studied farming in the United States. The use of the equipment and methods are being used very slowly in the villages for the French people feel what was good enough for their grandfather is good enough for them. They think from day to day instead of 10 years ahead as in the United States, because of having two World Wars over run their homes, he said, and went on to explain that there is no credit and a farmer must have $3,000 cash for a small tractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Brace L. Hutson, Cresaptown, visited relatives in Glenco, Pa.

Group Hears Prof. Nuzum

A review of "The Velvet Doublet" by James Street, was given by Prof. David Nuzum, head of the English department of Potomac State College, at the meeting of the Literature Group of the Woman's Civic Club, yesterday at the public library. He was introduced by Mrs. William C. Walsh.

Prof. Nuzum is evaluating "The Velvet Doublet", currently on the best seller list, characterized the work as historical fiction, "convincingly believable, with a raucous blend of heroics, villainy and heaving bosoms; a realistic picture of the world Columbus lived in and strode through in Spain."

The speaker pointed out that James Street, primarily a storyteller, writes in "The Velvet Doublet" in a "pretentiously archaic and gaudy style."

He recommended the book as being essentially true to the time of Christopher Columbus.

Legislator Hits Golfing During Working Hours

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Rep. Gross (R-Iowa) got on record today against government officials tuning up their golf games during working hours.

He brought up the subject at a House Civil Service Committee hearing on a bill to prevent top echelon officials from taking accumulated leave pay when they leave the government.

Gross told John McCart, legislative representative of the American Federation of Government Employes, he knew a one-time secretary of the Army who played such a good game of golf he must have practiced during working hours.

He didn't identify the secretary.

"What are you going to do about a case like that?" Gross asked.

McCart replied that he didn't know. But he suggested that perhaps the secretary often worked late at night at the Pentagon.

"I don't know about that," said Gross. "I can see a government official when he is playing golf in front of a television camera. But I can't see when he is working at night. It is a question of proof."

Gross made no mention of President Eisenhower and his practice shots on the White House lawn. About the time Gross was talking the President drove to Burning Tree Club for a round of golf.

The three balls symbol over a pawnbroker's shop was originally on the coat of arms of the Medici family of Florence, Italy. The Medici were leading bankers and moneylenders of the 15th century.

The Old Second Guesser

by John Wheeler

By JOHN WHEELER

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — I went down to the dining room at the Vinoy Hotel for breakfast, and, if there is a couple vacationing here who have not enjoyed their Golden Honeymoon, they must have eaten in their rooms. Of course, I except the sports writers and their wives. They get up for their morning meal, for it saves a 50-cent service charge, and so do I. Besides, they're working.

There is no harm, I suppose, in an old cynic like me getting sentimental, for this is a great haven for age, and I will be joining the shuffleboard players, myself, in another two or three years, if they will let me in. It is pretty touching to see an elderly couple strolling along in the sunshine arm in arm on the way to the ball park or to play checkers. It is certainly a big contrast to New York, Palm Beach, East Hampton and other social centers I have visited where husbands change wives nearly every time she gets a new hair-do.

Any doll under 30, who shows up here, looks like Marilyn Monroe. There is practically no competition. The reporters and Big Leaguers are a separate social group. Last night I ate dinner with Grantland Rice, Red Smith, and Frank Graham and the wives of the latter two gentlemen — as nice a bunch as you would want to find.

"I see," remarked Grantland Rice, "they are talking about making Earl Sande a steward at the track. I hope he gets it. He needs the dough."

"Is he broke?" I asked in surprise.

All of them nodded.

"What happened to him? He used to make big money as a race rider."

"Yes, and it goes fast, too, and you soon run out of it. He took on too much weight and age. Then he had some bad horses he was trying to train."

"Once I asked him why he didn't go to England where they mount heavier jocks," said Red Smith.

" 'No one would know me there,' he answered modestly."

"That's like Lindbergh getting a letter of introduction to Ambassador Herrick when he first flew the Atlantic for fear he wouldn't be recognized if he arrived."

"Casey's a funny guy," went on Red, referring to the Yankee manager. "He double talks when you ask him a question."

"Where'd he get that idea?" said Frank Graham.

"Ring Lardner used to be a pal of his. He told him years ago if a newspaperman asked him about something just to keep talking. He certainly learned his lesson well and never has forgotten it."

"When Yogi Berra first came here with the Yankees, I went to the dog track one night. It was cold, and I saw this fellow sitting behind me hunched up with no overcoat on, looking pretty disconsolate," said Grantland Rice.

" 'What's the matter?' I asked him. 'Don't you want to bet?'

" 'Sure, but I haven't any money,' he answered. 'Lost it all.'

"So I bought a couple of tickets and gave him one. The dog won and paid $106. You could hear him hollering as far as Sarasota. He wanted to invest in three or four entries in the next race.

" 'One dog at a time,' I told him.

"He has been a devotee of the sport ever since. You are liable to find him out there most any night."

They have two local ball teams here which play every Saturday. You have to be at least 75 to be eligible. After looking around for a week or so, I am convinced there should be no shortage of talent. In fact, I may begin warming up, myself, in a few years.

As we stood in front of the hotel in the late afternoon, a cool breeze had sprung up. Rice turned up his coat collar.

"Don't do that," warned Frank Graham. "The Chamber of Commerce is liable to run you out of town, if some spy reports you."

House committee of what's next says our diplomats abroad are living too plushily.

Consul residences in occupied Germany are blueprinted at $130,000. If that's hay you can put me in the barn with the hosses.

The plans and specifications for diplomatic immunity to pain were made during Acheson's tenure. And tenure will always get you twenty.

The committee has its choice of two ways of curbing the luxurious consuls. Either economize or replace 'em with Republicans.

Acheson had a heavy hand on the throttle of the federal adding machines. He stacked up a $19,000,000 slum clearance plan for career diplomats.

The committee is extonished by the discovery of a bath with every bedroom. Four baths a year and the taxpayers take 'em.

Russia May Be Attempting To Lull Europe Into Feeling Of Security

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign Analyst

The Soviet Union is firing round after round in the heaviest of all its peace offensives in the cold war.

With development piling on development in swift succession, Moscow gives the impression it is not only willing but anxious for a truce in Korea and for a letdown in the cold war.

A likely guess as to the reason for this determined offensive is that Moscow is seeking at any cost to lull the West—particularly Western Europe—into a feeling of security which will thwart the aims of the European Defense Community. The chances are that the nearness of ratification of the treaty, plus the forthcoming elections in such key countries as Germany and Italy, have goaded the new Soviet regime into swift action.

In the United Nations, the Soviet Union has suddenly come forward with a new disarmament proposal which at first blush seems to meet some of the Western demands. It remains to be seen—and it is highly doubtful—whether the Soviet Union will consent to inspections of atomic energy installations, for example, to make disarmament foolproof.

What the Soviet Union may be doing, instead, is giving the appearance of agreement on all sides, to maneuver the West into rejecting the proposals and remaining in the ranks of those Moscow calls warmongers.

The support of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov for Chinese truce proposals in Korea carried the strong hint that Moscow actually wants a truce to create a breathing spell for the consolidation of the Malenkov regime and to strike indirectly at U. S. economy, meanwhile driving a wedge between the United States and its European allies.

A note of warning comes from a European statesman. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault in a New York speech Wednesday had this to say of the Soviet moves:

"Are we witnessing a tactical operation or a real change? Let us take care lest we be taken in by our wish to hope. Even if it is a real change, its development could in no way be hampered by the purely defensive organization of Europe and of the free world. What is more, we may reasonably think that the move which is being made today is the first consequence of the peaceful but firm determination of our peoples."

Implicit in Bidault's idea is the thought that what we are witnessing today in some respects resembles the 1939 Soviet-Nazi pact move: a Soviet Union parrying for time, anxious about its own internal affairs and the internal conditions of the empire in its grip, unready for war and hoping to gain victories by standing on the sidelines and not firing a shot.

Robert Knipe Is Named Yacht Club Commodore

The Deep Creek Yacht Club, Incorporated, has elected officers and formulated plans for the 1953 season.

Robert Knipe, Pittsburgh, is the new commodore; Dr. Donald B. Grove, Cumberland, vice commodore; John W. Stark, LaVale, rear commodore; Henry K. Duke, LaVale, secretary, and Richard C. Holben, Frostburg, treasurer.

The first race is scheduled for Memorial Day weekend, but members wil begin putting their racing sloops in shape for the contest beginning early in May.

The most elaborate racing program that has been presented for some years, is planned for the club fleet this year.

Mr. Stark reports he is the owner of a new racing sloop with plastic hull and aluminum spars that should be a pace setter in the race.

New this year will be a program of racing activities headed by Stewart Brown, Baltimore, and Dr. Charles S. Mahan, Morgantown, W. Va., which will be arranged especially for the 12 teenage or younger skippers who are the children of club members. The children will have their own club room at the Yacht Club.

Note was made that the club is becoming quite cosmopolitan. At present there are members from Pittsburgh, Morgantown, Frostburg, LaVale, Cumberland, Baltimore and Washington. The sailing experience of various club members extends from the Pacific Ocean, across the United States and the Atlantic to the Mediterranean.

Jr. Extension Plans Supper, Hears Exchange Student

Announcement was made of the Older Youth Camp and plans formulated for a covered dish supper at the meeting of the Junior Extension 4-H Club, Thursday evening at Flintstone School. A talk on his experiences in France, by Stewart Young, 1952 International Farm Youth Exchange student, featured the program.

The covered dish supper is to be held May 6 in conjunction with the next meeting. It will be at the home of Frank Morgan, Frostburg, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Morgan is chairman of the Older Youth Camp committee and camp will be held July 18 and 19.

Mr. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Young, Rt. 5, Westminster and former 4-H'er gave a detailed account of his four months in France. He said he definitely wants to go back and would like to live there, for the French enjoy life, living from day to day and at a slower pace.

Explaining why the first farm where he stayed in the center of France, was divided into small plots, Mr. Young said the old laws require land owners to divide their land among their children when they marry. This farmer's largest plot was four or five acres and some only two and one half acres, all surrounded by neighbors. Much time, he said is consumed going from one plot to the next. The farmer has 15 acres of wheat divided into 11 plots.

The speaker told how he had always taken it for granted he could drive a tractor, but the French were amazed that he could drive the tractor of his host, which was the only one in the village of Perrogney. The horse and cows were kept in the house, which was L shaped, with the kitchen at one end and the living room at the other. He was impressed how very hard the women in the small villages worked from 4:30 a. m., feeding the animals and milking the cows as well as doing all the housework. There were no conveniences such as running water and refrigeration, but the people were far happier there.

For the second two months, Mr. Young said he went to a farm in Southern France, whose owner was well to do, having a car, a pickup truck and several homes. As they had servants, the women in this home did no work. The son, who had been an exchange student to the United States in 1951, was interested in corn and had bought a corn picker. For the 15 days it was in operation people from miles away came to watch. This farmer who had money for equipment was actually putting American farm practices into use. He also had a refrigerator and a beautiful home with wide halls. The walls were decorated with pictures and China.

The speaker explained that the men on both farms had studied farming in the United States. The use of the equipment and methods are being used very slowly in the villages for the French people feel what was good enough for their grandfather is good enough for them. They think from day to day instead of 10 years ahead as in the United States, because of having two World Wars over run their homes, he said, and went on to explain that there is no credit and a farmer must have $3,000 cash for a small tractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Brace L. Hutson, Cresaptown, visited relatives in Glenco, Pa.

Group Hears Prof. Nuzum

A review of "The Velvet Doublet" by James Street, was given by Prof. David Nuzum, head of the English department of Potomac State College, at the meeting of the Literature Group of the Woman's Civic Club, yesterday at the public library. He was introduced by Mrs. William C. Walsh.

Prof. Nuzum is evaluating "The Velvet Doublet", currently on the best seller list, characterized the work as historical fiction, "convincingly believable, with a raucous blend of heroics, villainy and heaving bosoms; a realistic picture of the world Columbus lived in and strode through in Spain."

The speaker pointed out that James Street, primarily a story-teller, writes in "The Velvet Doublet" in a "pretentiously archaic and gaudy style."

He recommended the book as being essentially true to the time of Christopher Columbus.

To wear the new reedy silhouette with a flair calls for a new point of view on accessories!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

To carry off your new spring clothes with the dramatic flair that every woman dreams of as she makes her careful selection calls for a new point of view on accessories for every fashion silhouette, like every woman, must be "dressed" to type.

The little clutch purse that looked so feminine and right against the sweep of full skirts now looks spotty and inadequate against the background of slimmer, simplified lines. To accent the new lines, far more prodigal touches are called for.

The most complementary handbags are those that have real substance. Generously sized, horizontal-oblong and squared shapes best soften and set off the vertical lengths found in top-flight costume designs.

Suiting Purses To You

This does not mean that you should rush out and get yourself a regular suitcase of a bag in order to accessorize a reedy suit. The outsized bags are only for the willowy figures.

If you are tiny or rounded of figure, you most definitely should exercise some restraint in making your selection. While your purse must be in key with fashion's silhouette, it must also be scaled to your own. A medium-sized bag will look king-sized when carried by a petite!

Other touches that will give your appearance that most envied "inexpressible air" when you wear the season's smartest clothes are long, crushed gloves, draped stoles, showy necklaces and earbobs, bulky printed scarves, contour belts and giant posies. They are all perfectly designed as foils for the new slim line.

And be choosy about your stocking shade! With tight skirts, the old nude effects embarrass most legs. Let your stocking pick up and blend with the tone of your costume.

Take cognizance of these important details and you won't be among the saddened damsels who wonder why their new finery lacks the "oomph" they thought it had. Well and good that tomorrow's a shopping day. While last-minute touches are not always the wisest, you won't go wrong with these suggestions. That we promise, and wish you a happy and beauteous Easter parade!

Russia May Be Attempting To Lull Europe Into Feeling Of Security

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign Analyst

The Soviet Union is firing round after round in the heaviest of all its peace offensives in the cold war.

With development piling on development in swift succession, Moscow gives the impression it is not only willing but anxious for a truce in Korea and for a letdown in the cold war.

A likely guess as to the reason for this determined offensive is that Moscow is seeking at any cost to lull the West—particularly Western Europe—into a feeling of security which will thwart the aims of the European Defense Community. The chances are that the nearness of ratification of the treaty, plus the forthcoming elections in such key countries as Germany and Italy, have goaded the new Soviet regime into swift action.

In the United Nations, the Soviet Union has suddenly come forward with a new disarmament proposal which at first blush seems to meet some of the Western demands. It remains to be seen—and it is highly doubtful—whether the Soviet Union will consent to inspections of atomic energy installations, for example, to make disarmament foolproof.

What the Soviet Union may be doing, instead, is giving the appearance of agreement on all sides, to maneuver the West into rejecting the proposals and remaining in the ranks of those Moscow calls warmongers.

The support of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov for Chinese truce proposals in Korea carried the strong hint that Moscow actually wants a truce to create a breathing spell for the consolidation of the Malenkov regime and to strike indirectly at U. S. economy, meanwhile driving a wedge between the United States and its European allies.

A note of warning comes from a European statesman. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault in a New York speech Wednesday had this to say of the Soviet moves:

"Are we witnessing a tactical operation or a real change? Let us take care lest we be taken in by our wish to hope. Even if it is a real change, its development could in no way be hampered by the purely defensive organization of Europe and of the free world. What is more, we may reasonably think that the move which is being made today is the first consequence of the peaceful but firm determination of our peoples."

Implicit in Bidault's idea is the thought that what we are witnessing today in some respects resembles the 1939 Soviet-Nazi pact move: a Soviet Union parrying for time, anxious about its own internal affairs and the internal conditions of the empire in its grip, unready for war and hoping to gain victories by standing on the sidelines and not firing a shot.

To wear the new reedy silhouette with a flair calls for a new point of view on accessories!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

To carry off your new spring clothes with the dramatic flair that every woman dreams of as she makes her careful selection calls for a new point of view on accessories for every fashion silhouette, like every woman, must be "dressed" to type.

The little clutch purse that looked so feminine and right against the sweep of full skirts now looks spotty and inadequate against the background of slimmer, simplified lines. To accent the new lines, far more prodigal touches are called for.

The most complementary handbags are those that have real substance. Generously sized, horizontal-oblong and squared shapes best soften and set off the vertical lengths found in top-flight costume designs.

Suiting Purses To You

This does not mean that you should rush out and get yourself a regular suitcase of a bag in order to accessorize a reedy suit. The outsized bags are only for the willowy figures.

If you are tiny or rounded of figure, you most definitely should exercise some restraint in making your selection. While your purse must be in key with fashion's silhouette, it must also be scaled to your own. A medium-sized bag will look king-sized when carried by a petite!

Other touches that will give your appearance that most envied "inexpressible air" when you wear the season's smartest clothes are long, crushed gloves, draped stoles, showy necklaces and earbobs, bulky printed scarves, contour belts and giant posies. They are all perfectly designed as foils for the new slim line.

And be choosy about your stocking shade! With tight skirts, the old nude effects embarrass most legs. Let your stocking pick up and blend with the tone of your costume.

Take cognizance of these important details and you won't be among the saddened damsels who wonder why their new finery lacks the "oomph" they thought it had. Well and good that tomorrow's a shopping day. While last-minute touches are not always the wisest, you won't go wrong with these suggestions. That we promise, and wish you a happy and beauteous Easter parade!

Spices Add Flavor To Vegetables

From apples to watermelon and youngberries, from artichokes to turnips, Americans have a fabulous year-round selection of fruits and vegetables. Yet how often the recommended daily servings are skimpy.

Two vegetables . . . other than potatoes . . . and two fruits each day are urged by the nutritionists. (Potatoes are not slighted, it's just assumed they will get into most daily diets.) One of those daily vegetables should be a green or yellow one for vitamin A. One of the fruits should be citrus or tomatoes for vitamin C. All other fruits and vegetables help by contributing various amounts of vitamins and minerals.

As people grow older, senses of taste and smell become less keen. If vegetables seem dull, the senior citizen should give more attention to their flavoring and seasoning. Onion, chives, parsley, mint or chopped celery leaves will pep up the taste of vegetables. Bright colored vegetables like beets stimulate interest by their very eye appeal. Crisp celery or a pickle relish adds texture contrast when served with more bland, cooked vegetables.

Those folks on a low-sodium diet for treatment of heart ailments and high blood pressure need not take vegetables like a medicine. It's true their vegetables must be cooked free of salt, but salt substitutes can make the vegetables more appealing. These substitutes give the taste effect of salt without sodium which the doctor is trying to cut down in the diet.

Pepper, paprika, herbs and spices are also to be cultivated on the low-sodium diet. A recent study of the salt content of 41 spices showed that 39 were o k. for salt-restricted diets. Dried parsley and celery flakes were the two ruled out. Dieters who are on salt-restricted diets will find spices not only taste improvers, but calorie free.

Tabasco, which is a unique blend of selected peppers and high quality vinegar, contributes practically no sodium and can be safely used on salt-restricted diets. Add ½ teaspoon of sugar and ¼ teaspoon of Tabasco to vegetables as they cook. Sugar brings out the flavor, and with the addition of Tabasco the vegetables gain piquancy of taste. If sugar is banned and you are using canned dietetic pack vegetables, Tabasco can be used another way. Drain the liquid from the canned vegetables into a saucepan. Add ¼ teaspoon Tabasco and boil liquid rapidly until reduced to one-half. Add vegetables and heat to serving temperature. Season with unsalted butter.

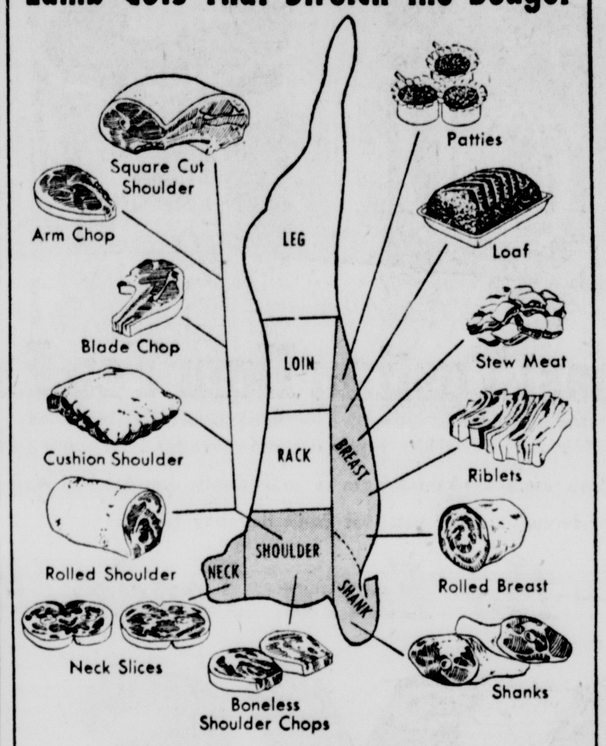
Here is a recipe where cooked vegetables are well-seasoned and served in attractive salad form.

Garden Mix Molded Vegetables

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
¾ cup hot water
½ teaspoon salt (or pinch of salt substitute)
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup mild vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced onion
1½ cups diced cooked vegetables (fresh, frozen, or canned)

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water, salt, Tabasco and sugar; stir until dissolved. Stir in vinegar and lemon juice. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Stir in the onion and mixed vegetables. Pour into large or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and serve on salad greens with French dressing. YIELD: 6 servings.

Lamb Cuts That Stretch the Budget



Stretching the food dollar is easy for the homemaker who knows the cuts of meat in her market. She can purchase those cuts that other women overlook, thus adding variety as well as economy to meals.

As shown by the shaded section of the above chart, lamb breast, shoulder, neck and shank are the less-demanded portions of the carcass. Actually, some 14 retail cuts may be made from these sections.

For example, the shoulder may be boned, then rolled into an attractive roast. Or the boned shoulder may be made into a cushion-style roast, ideal for stuffing. Likewise, chops may be cut from this section.

Lamb breasts may be rolled for roasting, or be cut into riblets for barbecuing. Lamb patties are grand for a grill. Ground lamb alone, or in combination with other meats, makes a moist, flavorful loaf.

Butter Surprise Muffins

½ cup butter
6 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, well-beaten
3 cups all-purpose flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups milk

Cream butter, blend in sugar, and add well-beaten eggs; beat until fluffy. Sift and measure flour; sift with baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture; add milk and stir just enough to mix the ingredients. Drop a tablespoon of batter into buttered muffin tins, and in center of each place a teaspoon of ground baked ham, grated cheese, chopped crisp bacon, jam or preserves, or peanut butter (the crunchy kind is especially good). Cover with another spoonful of batter, filling each pan about ⅔ full. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) for 25 minutes, or until nicely browned. Makes 18 medium-sized muffins.

Roast Leg Of Lamb Good Easter Choice

Easter comes but once a year, so why not make your Easter dinner one worth remembering? You could make no better choice for the festive meal than roast leg of lamb.

In determining the size roast you will need for your family and Easter guests, allow at least ½ pound per person. A half leg of lamb, weighing about 4 pounds, is ideal for the small family. Or buy a whole leg and have your meat man cut off four steaks which you can freeze for use at a later time.

Roast Leg Of Lamb

Rub the leg with salt and pepper; place on a rack, fat side up, in a shallow roasting pan. If you use a meat thermometer, insert it into the thickest muscle of the leg. Make sure it does not rest on bone or fat.

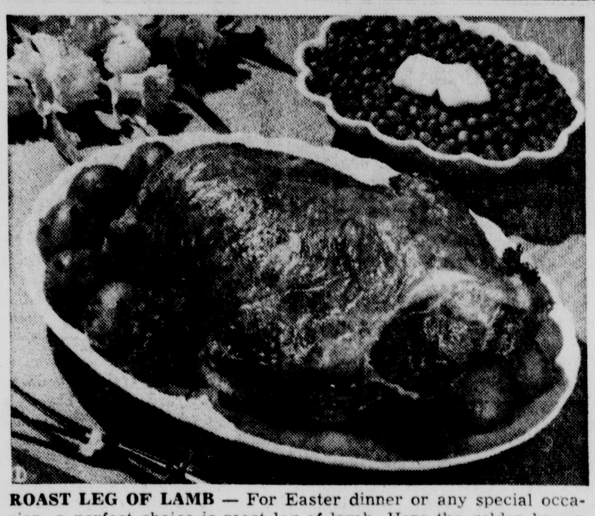
Place the leg in a 325° F. oven and roast to an internal temperature of 175° F. (medium done) or to 180° F. (well done) as registered by a meat thermometer. If you are not using a meat thermometer, allow 30 minutes per pound for a medium done roast, 35 minutes per pound for well done.

Carving The Leg Of Lamb

Mom's work with Easter, dinner is finished when she carries the brown and succulent roast to the table. From there on, Dad takes over (at least until dish-washing time!).

Here are some pointer to help Dad carve the golden brown beauty. 1. Place the shank bone to the right and the thick meaty section to the far side. 2. Carve two or three lengthwise slices from the nearest, or thin, side. 3. Turn the roast so that it rests on this surface just cut. 4. Start at the shank end (smaller end) and slice down to the bone; repeat for the number of slices desired. 5. Then run the knife under the slices along the bone to release them.

After Easter dinner comes the fun of proving to the family that you can give them leftover dishes they'll like. Here is a tested recipe for quick and easy pan-fried croquettes.



ROAST LEG OF LAMB — For Easter dinner or any special occasion, a perfect choice is roast leg of lamb. Here the golden brown roast is served with buttered peas and spiced peaches. Leg of lamb is easy to prepare—simply place, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow pan and roast at 325 degrees F., 30 to 35 minutes per pound.

Lamb And Vegetable Croquettes

- 2 cups ground cooked lamb
- ½ cup condensed mushroom soup
- 1 cup cooked peas (8 oz. can)
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup finely chopped parsley
- 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

In grinding the lamb, use medium blade of food chopper. Combine all ingredients and chill in a shallow pan for several hours. Shape into 8 patties and fry in a little hot fat in a skillet until well browned. If desired, serve with sauce or hot tomato sauce. 4 servings.

Here the leftover lamb turns up in a casserole. It's a delectable combination of lamb, rice, tomatoes and mushrooms. A light touch of curry powder and Parmesan cheese round out the flavor.

Epicurean Lamb Casserole

- 2 cups coarsely ground cooked lamb
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 4 oz. can sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup cooked rice (⅓ cup uncooked)
- 1 No. 2 can tomatoes (2½ cups)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ cup Parmesan cheese

Cook onion in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until soft. Add drained mushrooms and brown lightly. Combine all ingredients except cheese. Pour into a greased 1½ quart casserole; sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 400° F. for 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Tomato Gravy For Liver

Serve braised liver with a tomato-onion gravy. To prepare the gravy, cook 1 No. 2 can of tomatoes, 2 medium onions sliced, 1 teaspoon of salt and a bit of pepper for 20 minutes. At the end of this time add 2 tablespoons of butter and ¼ cup flour. Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until thickened.

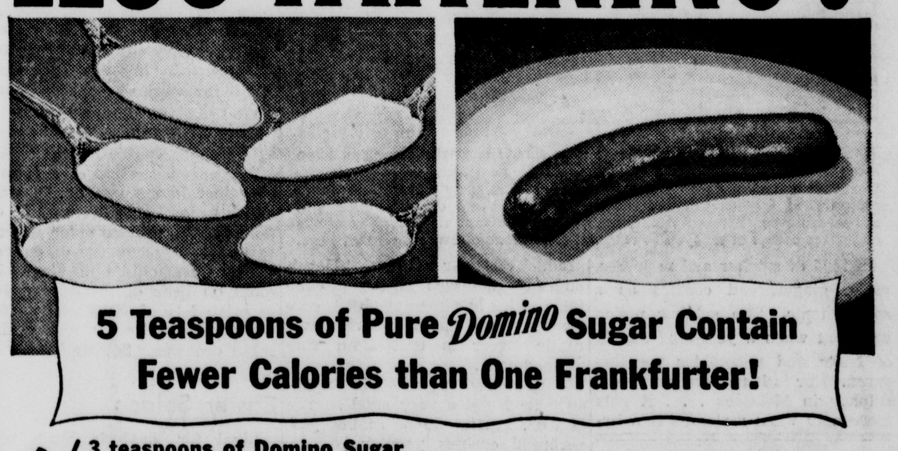
WHICH IS LESS FATTENING?



5 Teaspoons of Pure Domino Sugar Contain Fewer Calories than One Frankfurter!

And 3 teaspoons of Domino Sugar contain fewer calories than 1 compact head of lettuce!

"Counting calories" nowadays? You should know that generous amounts of Domino Granulated Sugar, used in your favorite foods and beverages, contain fewer calories than usual servings of many foods regularly included in reducing diets.

Nutritionists say that no single food is fattening unless you take in more calories than your body uses up. Frankfurters and lettuce are excellent foods . . . but, sugar, too, is nutritionally important in the well-balanced diet you need for good health.

So don't deny yourself the pleasureful extra flavor that Domino Sugar adds to your daily meals. And always insist on Domino Pure Cane Sugar because only one sugar is Domino pure!

Spices Add Flavor To Vegetables

From apples to watermelon and youngberries, from artichokes to turnips, Americans have a fabulous year-round selection of fruits and vegetables. Yet how often the recommended daily servings are skimpy.

Two vegetables . . . other than potatoes . . . and two fruits each day are urged by the nutritionists. (Potatoes are not slighted, it's just assumed they will get into most daily diets.) One of those daily vegetables should be a green or yellow one for vitamin A. One of the fruits should be citrus or tomatoes for vitamin C. All other fruits and vegetables help by contributing various amounts of vitamins and minerals.

As people grow older, senses of taste and smell become less keen. If vegetables seem dull, the senior citizen should give more attention to their flavoring and seasoning. Onion, chives, parsley, mint or chopped celery leaves will pep up the taste of vegetables. Bright colored vegetables like beets stimulate interest by their very eye appeal. Crisp celery or a pickle relish adds texture contrast when served with more bland, cooked vegetables.

Those folks on a low-sodium diet for treatment of heart ailments and high blood pressure need not take vegetables like a medicine. It's true their vegetables must be cooked free of salt, but salt substitutes can make the vegetables more appealing. These substitutes give the taste effect of salt without sodium which the doctor is trying to cut down in the diet.

Pepper, paprika, herbs and spices are also to be cultivated on the low-sodium diet. A recent study of the salt content of 41 spices showed that 39 were o. k. for salt-restricted diets. Dried parsley and celery flakes were the two ruled out. Dieters who are on salt-restricted diets will find spices not only taste improvers, but calorie free.

Tabasco, which is a unique blend of selected peppers and high quality vinegar, contributes practically no sodium and can be safely used on salt-restricted diets. Add ½ teaspoon of sugar and ¼ teaspoon of Tabasco to vegetables as they cook. Sugar brings out the flavor, and with the addition of Tabasco the vegetables gain piquancy of taste. If sugar is banned and you are using canned dietetic pack vegetables, Tabasco can be used another way. Drain the liquid from the canned vegetables into a saucepan. Add ¼ teaspoon Tabasco and boil liquid rapidly until reduced to one-half. Add vegetables and heat to serving temperature. Season with unsalted butter.

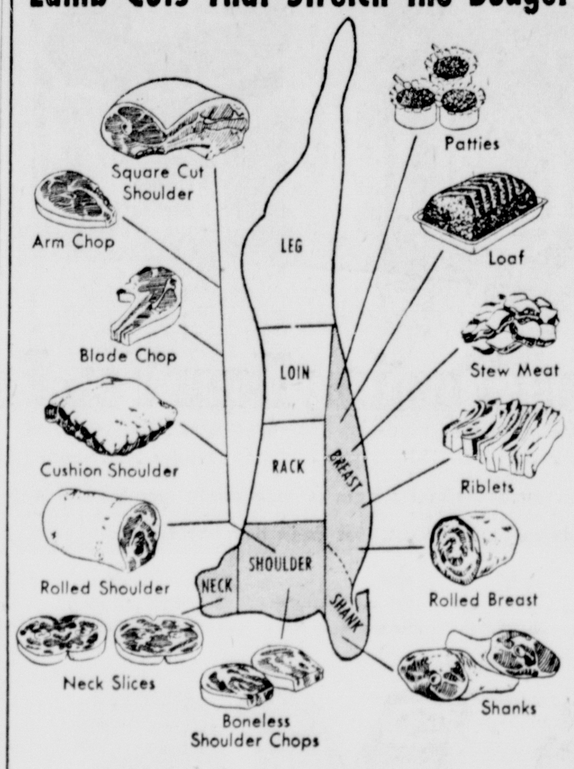
Here is a recipe where cooked vegetables are well-seasoned and served in attractive salad form.

Garden Mix Molded Vegetables

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
¾ cup hot water
½ teaspoon salt (or pinch of salt substitute)
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup mild vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced onion
1½ cups diced cooked vegetables (fresh, frozen, or canned)

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water, salt, Tabasco and sugar; stir until dissolved. Stir in vinegar and lemon juice. Chill until mixture is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Stir in the onion and mixed vegetables. Pour into large or individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold and serve on salad greens with French dressing. YIELD: 6 servings.

Lamb Cuts That Stretch the Budget



Stretching the food dollar is easy for the homemaker who knows the cuts of meat in her market. She can purchase those cuts that other women overlook, thus adding variety as well as economy to meals.

As shown by the shaded section of the above chart, lamb breast, shoulder, neck and shank are the less-demanded portions of the carcass. Actually, some 14 retail cuts may be made from these sections.

For example, the shoulder may be boned, then rolled into an attractive roast. Or the boned shoulder may be made into a cushion-style roast, ideal for stuffing. Likewise, chops may be cut from this section.

Lamb breasts may be rolled for roasting, or be cut into riblets for barbecuing. Lamb patties are grand for a grill. Ground lamb alone, or in combination with other meats, makes a moist, flavorful loaf.

Butter Surprise Muffins

½ cup butter
6 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, well-beaten
3 cups all-purpose flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups milk

Cream butter, blend in sugar, and add well-beaten eggs; beat until fluffy. Sift and measure flour; sift with baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture; add milk and stir just enough to mix the ingredients. Drop a tablespoon of batter into buttered muffin tins, and in center of each place a teaspoon of ground baked ham, grated cheese, chopped crisp bacon, jam or preserves, or peanut butter (the crunchy kind is especially good). Cover with another spoonful of batter, filling each pan about ⅔ full. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) for 25 minutes, or until nicely browned. Makes 18 medium-sized muffins.

Unsulphured Molasses Famous As Energy Food

REMEMBER the story about the gingerbread boy who ran away from the little old woman and the little old man and the cow, horse, threshers and mowers only to be gobbled up finally by a fox? The perky gingerbread fellows pictured here are of the same dashing style and molasses flavor. 'Tis doubtful, though, if they'd escape the young cowboys and space cadets of today. The recipe will be found elsewhere on this page.

Instead of sulphur and molasses, make gingerbread cookies as a spring tonic. The sulphur potion went out when a year-long supply of fruits and vegetables was assured. Nor is it necessary to have sulphur in Molasses . . . it gets there only when molasses is a by-product of sugar making. "Unsulphured" molasses is sugar cane juice which has been clarified, concentrated and aged. It's rich aromatic flavor is that from sun-ripened cane.

Unsulphured molasses is an energy food and a very good source of iron, but its flavor makes gingerbread cookies popular.

GINGERBREAD BOYS

½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg
3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons cloves
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream together shortening, sugar and unsulphured molasses. Add egg, mix well. Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, ginger, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add to molasses mixture; mix well. Chill in refrigerator 1½ hours. Roll out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut with a 6-inch gingerbread man cookie cutter. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. YIELD: Approximately 1½ dozen.

Layered Perfection Salad

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
4 tablespoons cold water
¾ cup boiling water
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup shredded uncooked carrot
½ cup finely shredded or chopped cabbage
1½ cups cottage cheese
1 teaspoon minced green onion
Salt to taste
Salad dressing
Salad greens

Divide gelatin into two equal portions and soften each in two tablespoons of cold water for at least five minutes. Add boiling water to one portion and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and vinegar and set container in cold water or ice chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in seasoned celery, carrot and cabbage and pour into six individual gelatin molds. Chill until firm.

Set second portion of gelatin in container into a pan of hot water and stir until dissolved. Add cottage cheese, minced onion and salt to taste. Pour on top of cabbage mixture and chill until firm. Unmold on beds of salad greens or in crisp lettuce cups and garnish with mayonnaise or any desired salad dressing. Serves 6.

Easter Salads

Ideal for Easter's lamb roast platter are stuffed spiced apricot salads. Simply fill the apricot centers with cream cheese balls rolled in nut meats.

To Feel Fit All Day Eat A Good Breakfast

The greatest boosters of a good breakfast are the "converts" — those who have switched from a skimpy breakfast to one which is hearty and satisfying.

The enthusiasm of this group of breakfasters is due chiefly to one thing—they like the way they feel! No more mid-morning letdowns ". . . unexplained feelings of irritation . . . lassitude which often lasts throughout the day.

Breakfast Studies

Extensive studies made by the Bureau of Human Nutrition, United States Department of Agriculture, have established the fact that breakfasts which are high in protein give a sense of well being, ward off fatigue and keep blood sugar levels at normal during the entire morning. Furthermore, the findings indicate that the beneficial effects of the high protein breakfast on the blood sugar level may even extend into the afternoon.

"Break-Fast"

One reason a good breakfast is so important is that it actually breaks a fast which the body has had for twelve or more hours. After such a lengthy period, a supply of energy is needed for a good start on a new day. From one-fourth to one-third of the daily food requirements should be included in the first meal of the day—and this means part of the daily protein needs (meat, milk and eggs).

Meat For Breakfast

Meat for breakfast not only is important nutritionally, but also it adds zest and interest to the meal which no other food can provide.

Breakfast Variety

Two additional factors which are important in the enjoyment of a good breakfast are:

1. Variety in the menu.
2. Time to enjoy a leisurely meal. (Early to bed, early to rise!)

Breakfast Menu Guide

If there's plenty of variety in the breakfast menu and if it includes meat and eggs, your family easily will acquire the good breakfast habit.

Here's a handy breakfast menu planning guide:

Fruit—Juices, half grapefruit or prunes.

Cereals — Packaged, ready-to-serve cereals or hot cooked cereal. (Serve the latter with brown sugar and cream.)

Eggs — Soft cooked, poached, fried, scrambled, omelet.

Meat—Bacon served with eggs, pancakes, French toast or waffles. Canadian-style bacon. Fried ham, with or without eggs. Sausage links or patties. Creamed dried beef on toast or English muffins. Corned beef hash with poached eggs. Fried sliced luncheon meat.

Bread—White, whole wheat, rye, raisin. Sweet rolls, muffins, English muffins.

Cooking Breakfast Meats

Cook bacon over low heat until of the desired crispness. There's no need to pour off the fat during cooking. Always drain bacon on absorbent paper.

Do not prick sausage links before cooking. Steam for a few minutes in a little water in a covered skillet; then pour off water and cook, uncovered, over low heat until well browned, turning frequently.

When more people learn that it doesn't pay to eat a skimpy breakfast, there'll be some happier, more alert people around.

Blind fish do not travel in schools, says the National Geographic Society.

Roast Leg Of Lamb Good Easter Choice

Easter comes but once a year, so why not make your Easter dinner one worth remembering? You could make no better choice for the festive meal than roast leg of lamb.

In determining the size roast you will need for your family and Easter guests, allow at least ½ pound per person. A half leg of lamb, weighing about 4 pounds, is ideal for the small family. Or buy a whole leg and have your meat man cut off four steaks which you can freeze for use at a later time.

Roast Leg Of Lamb

Rub the leg with salt and pepper; place on a rack, fat side up, in a shallow roasting pan. If you use a meat thermometer, insert it into the thickest muscle of the leg. Make sure it does not rest on bone or fat.

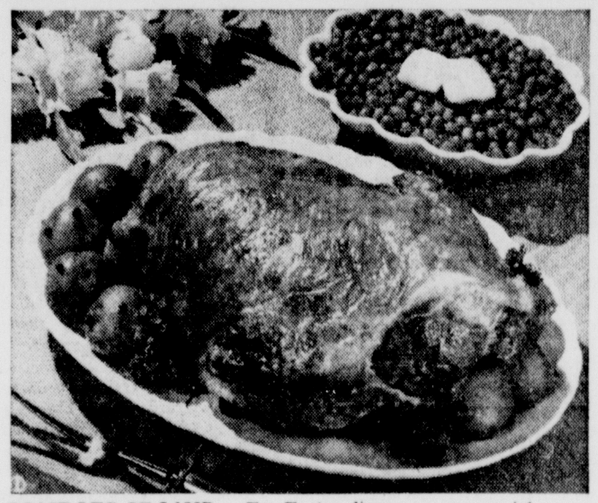
Place the leg in a 325° F. oven and roast to an internal temperature of 175° F. (medium done) or to 180° F. (well done) as registered by a meat thermometer. If you are not using a meat thermometer, allow 30 minutes per pound for a medium done roast, 35 minutes per pound for well done.

Carving The Leg Of Lamb

Mom's work with Easter, dinner is finished when she carries the brown and succulent roast to the table. From there on, Dad takes over (at least until dish-washing time!).

Here are some pointer to help Dad carve the golden brown beauty. 1. Place the shank bone to the right and the thick meaty section to the far side. 2. Carve two or three lengthwise slices from the nearest, or thin, side. 3. Turn the roast so that it rests on this surface just cut. 4. Start at the shank end (smaller end) and slice down to the bone; repeat for the number of slices desired. 5. Then run the knife under the slices along the bone to release them.

After Easter dinner comes the fun of proving to the family that you can give them leftover dishes they'll like. Here is a tested recipe for quick and easy pan-fried croquettes.



ROAST LEG OF LAMB — For Easter dinner or any special occasion, a perfect choice is roast leg of lamb. Here the golden brown roast is served with buttered peas and spiced peaches. Leg of lamb is easy to prepare—simply place, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow pan and roast at 325 degrees F., 30 to 35 minutes per pound.

Lamb And Vegetable Croquettes

- 2 cups ground cooked lamb
- ½ cup condensed mushroom soup
- 1 cup cooked peas (8 oz. can)
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup finely chopped parsley
- 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

In grinding the lamb, use medium blade of food ehopper. Combine all ingredients and chill in a shallow pan for several hours. Shape into 8 patties and fry in a little hot fat in a skillet until well browned. If desired, serve with sauce or hot tomato sauce. 4 servings.

Here the leftover lamb turns up in a casserole. It's a delectable combination of lamb, rice, tomatoes and mushrooms. A light touch of curry powder and Parmesan cheese round out the flavor.

Epicurean Lamb Casserole

- 2 cups coarsely ground cooked lamb
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 4 oz. can sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup cooked rice (⅓ cup uncooked)
- 1 No. 2 can tomatoes (2½ cups)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ cup Parmesan cheese

Cook onion in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine until soft. Add drained mushrooms and brown lightly. Combine all ingredients except cheese. Pour into a greased 1½ quart casserole; sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 400° F. for 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Tomato Gravy For Liver

Serve braised liver with a tomato-onion gravy. To prepare the gravy, cook 1 No. 2 can of tomatoes, 2 medium onions sliced, 1 teaspoon of salt and a bit of pepper for 20 minutes. At the end of this time add 2 tablespoons of butter and ¼ cup flour. Continue cooking, stirring constantly, until thickened.

WHICH IS LESS FATTENING?

5 Teaspoons of Pure Domino Sugar Contain Fewer Calories than One Frankfurter!

And 3 teaspoons of Domino Sugar contain fewer calories than 1 compact head of lettuce!

"Counting calories" nowadays? You should know that generous amounts of Domino Granulated Sugar, used in your favorite foods and beverages, contain fewer calories than usual servings of many foods regularly included in reducing diets.

Nutritionists say that no single food is fattening unless you take in more calories than your body uses up. Frankfurters and lettuce are excellent foods . . . but, sugar, too, is nutritionally important in the well-balanced diet you need for good health.

So don't deny yourself the pleasureful extra flavor that Domino Sugar adds to your daily meals. And always insist on Domino Pure Cane Sugar because only one sugar is Domino pure!

This Fancy Dessert Has Glamor -- Yet It Is Simple

If you serve a glamorous dessert at your next party, your success as your club's best cook is assured! These Polka Dot Party Pies will take you down that road to success.

They have all of the ingredients for glamor — pretty to look at and just full of chocolate and ice cream — and yet they're so easy to make and serve you'll be a doubly-pleased cook.

Polka Dot Party Pies

- 1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 3½ cups corn flakes
- Vanilla or coffee ice cream

Melt chocolate and fat over hot but not boiling water. Do not heat longer than necessary. Stir in corn flakes. Have tart pans lined with parchment paper or aluminum foil. Coat insides with chocolate corn flake mixture, patting in lightly. Leave shells rough of contour and texture; they will be more crisp and easy to eat. Chill in refrigerator until firm. Remove foil, let stand at room temperature a few minutes, fill with ice cream, and serve at once. Yield: 4 tart shells.

Baked Fish Fillets

- 1½ pounds fish fillets, fresh or frozen
- 6 medium-sized carrots, scraped
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups cooked peas
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted.

Cook carrots in salted water until tender. Wrap each carrot with a strip of fish, fastening securely with a toothpick. Brush fish rolls with melted butter, place in large casserole and pour remaining melted butter and lemon juice over the fish. Sprinkle with the salt. Cover casserole and place in a very hot oven, 525°F., for 10 minutes. Add melted butter to cooked peas and season to suit taste. Arrange fish and carrots around edge of platter and pour peas in center. Serve lemon butter sauce in which fish was cooked on the side. Serves 6.

Variations For Farina Pudding

Desserts just full of goodness for youngsters can also be full of flavor and interest for the grown-ups in the family. Here are three ideas for an answer to just such a dessert problem — a basic recipe for a nutritious farina pudding, with variations to please the most finicky eater.

The applesauce variation is well seasoned with red hots, cinnamon, and nutmeg — all of which add a delightful spicy flavor to the dessert. Upside Down Farina Pudding makes use of the plentiful supply of canned fruits. Golden Farina Pudding provides a good way to use those leftover carrots, and at the same time profits from their flavor.

Basic Recipe For Farina Pudding

- 1½ cups milk
- 1½ cups cooked farina
- 3 eggs, beaten
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk. Add cooked farina and mix with rotary beater until smooth. Add eggs, sugar, and vanilla. Combine thoroughly.

Method 1: Pour into individual greased molds. Set in shallow pan of hot water, and bake in moderate oven (350°-375°F) 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream or fruit sauce. Yield: 4 large molds or 6 small molds.

Method 2: Pour into greased 8-inch square baking pan. Set in shallow pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350°-375°F.) for 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes. Cut in squares. Yield: 9 servings.

Golden Farina Pudding: Substitute ½ cup brown sugar for ¼ cup granulated sugar. Add 1 cup mashed, cooked carrots, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg to the farina mixture. Use Method 1 for baking; sprinkle with slivered almonds before serving.

Spicy Applesauce Pudding: Reduce milk to 1 cup. Add 1 cup applesauce, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg to the farina mixture. Dot with 1 tablespoon red hots. Bake by either method.

Upside Down Farina Pudding: Use basic recipe and Method 2. Arrange 6 slices of pineapple or 1 No. 2½ can peach halves in baking pan before adding pudding mixture. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons brown sugar, then pour the farina mixture over the fruit.

Lamb Barbecue

New Dessert—Meringue Filled With Peppermint Rice

Here is a dessert which is just out of this world: a crispy, feather light meringue ring is filled with a delicious peppermint rice. And surprise — this creamy rice filling can be colored either a luscious pink or a tempting green! — as the occasion indicates.

Not only is the eating of this rice and meringue dessert positively delightful, but the hurried hostess will be delighted that such a gala dessert is so very, very easy and simple to make. After the egg whites are beaten the oven takes over the job of creating the meringue. The filling is a quick creation and the result is a dessert which is truly a dazzler and will become a party standby as well as a family dessert favorite.

Ingredients For Meringue

- 4 egg whites
- 1 cup extra fine beet or cane sugar
- Pinch of Salt
- ½ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Ingredients For Pink Filling

- 1 cup finely crushed peppermint candy
- ½ cup milk
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- ½ pint chilled whipping cream
- Shavings of unsweetened chocolate

Ingredients For Alternate Filling (Green in Color)

- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- ½ cup beet or cane sugar
- ½ cup milk
- Green food coloring
- ½ pint chilled whipping cream
- Peppermint flavoring
- Shavings of unsweetened chocolate

Preparing the Fluffy White Rice: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice, put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. After the rice has cooked, remove saucepan from heat — but keep the lid on until the rice is to be served.

Use exact measurements of uncooked rice and water. Time the cooking accurately.

For extra convenience and economy of time and effort, cook twice as much rice, water and salt — keeping the 3 extra cups of leftover, ready-cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. Use it as needed in quick, delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Draw a circle 9 inches in diameter on brown wrapping paper. Place paper on a cookie sheet. Or, sprinkle a cookie sheet with flour and retrace the circle in the flour.

To make the meringue: Beat egg whites until foamy. Add ¼ of the sugar, the salt, cream of tartar and vanilla. Continue beating and gradually add the rest of the sugar. Beat until the egg whites are smooth, shiny and hold their shape. Spoon the meringue around the inside edge of the circle drawn on the paper, building up a fence about 3 inches high. Bake in a 250° F. oven for 1½ hours. The meringue should be dried out rather than baked.

To make the pink rice filling: Crush the candy easily by folding a clean dish towel over the candy and pounding with some unbreakable object, until the candy is crushed. Heat the candy in the milk, over a low heat, until the candy dissolves. Add the rice and mix thoroughly. Cover and chill the rice mixture. A short while before serving, whip the cream. Fold the rice into the whipped cream.

To serve, place the meringue ring on a serving plate and fill the center with the rice mixture. Sprinkle the chocolate shavings over the top of the rice.

This recipe makes 10 servings.

To make the green filling: Add the sugar to the hot cooked rice and mix thoroughly. The rice must be hot in order to dissolve the sugar. Add the milk and mix thoroughly. Add the green food coloring until the desired shade of green is reached. Cover and chill the rice mixture. A short while before serving, add some food coloring to the cream and whip. As the cream is whipped, add additional coloring to tint the cream to match the rice mixture. Add peppermint flavoring to rice mixture and fold rice into the whipped cream, adding more flavoring until the desired flavor is obtained. Serve in the meringue ring and top with the chocolate shavings.

This recipe makes 10 servings.

Rice-Fish Casserole

Oceans of shipshape flavor cruise from the stem to the stern of this quick and easy rice and fish oven dish. Happily, just a fraction of a "bell's time" is needed to ready this perfectly wonderful rice main dish for a voyage in the oven.

Above all, this rice and fish eating treat is sea faring enough to win against any storm of protests from finicky eaters. In fact, the ship's log will record that second servings were the order of the day.

INGREDIENTS

- 1½ pounds fresh or frozen fish fillets (sole, halibut, haddock or others)
- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 1 10½ ounce can condensed cream of celery soup
- 1½ cups grated American cheese
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3½ cups water

METHOD: If fish fillets are frozen, allow about a day in which they can thaw slowly in the refrigerator; or allow about 2 hours at room temperature. In a shallow baking-serving dish, mix the rice, celery soup, ½ cup of the cheese, salt and water. Bake in a 350°F. oven for 20 minutes. Remove from the oven and lay the thawed fish fillets over the top of the rice and liquid mixture. Sprinkle the rest of the cheese over the top of the casserole. Return to the 350°F. oven and bake for 30 minutes or until the rice is tender and the top of the casserole browned and bubbling. Serve immediately.

This recipe makes 8 servings.

Spinach Soup

- 3 cups cooked spinach
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 quart milk
- 4 bouillon cubes (chicken flavor)
- 1½ teaspoons scraped onion
- 2 teaspoons salt
- Dash pepper

Chop spinach. Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Add milk and cook until sauce thickens. Add bouillon cubes, onion, seasonings and spinach puree; stir until bouillon cubes are dissolved. Serve garnished with a sprig of spinach or buttered croutons. Serves 8.

For an eye opener on Easter morning, make a coffee cake crowned with Toasty Cinnamon Almond Topping. To make the topping combine ½ cup sugar, ½ cup finely chopped blanched almonds and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Make a quick coffee cake batter and brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with the topping just before baking. Makes 1 cup, enough for 1 8-inch square coffee cake.

Unsulphured Molasses Famous As Energy Food

REMEMBER the story about the gingerbread boy who ran away from the little old woman and the little old man and the cow, horse, threshers and mowers only to be gobbled up finally by a fox? The perky gingerbread fellows pictured here are of the same dashing style and molasses flavor. 'Tis doubtful, though, if they'd escape the young cowboys and space cadets of today. The recipe will be found elsewhere on this page.

Instead of sulphur and molasses, make gingerbread cookies as a spring tonic. The sulphur potion went out when a year-long supply of fruits and vegetables was assured. Nor is it necessary to have sulphur in Molasses . . . it gets there only when molasses is a by-product of sugar making. "Unsulphured" molasses is sugar cane juice which has been clarified, concentrated and aged. It's rich aromatic flavor is that from sun-ripened cane.

Unsulphured molasses is an energy food and a very good source of iron, but its flavor makes gingerbread cookies popular.

GINGERBREAD BOYS

½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
½ cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg
3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons cloves
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream together shortening, sugar and unsulphured molasses. Add egg, mix well. Sift together flour, soda, baking powder, ginger, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add to molasses mixture; mix well. Chill in refrigerator 1½ hours. Roll out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Cut with a 6-inch gingerbread man cookie cutter. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. YIELD: Approximately 1½ dozen.

Layered Perfection Salad

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
4 tablespoons cold water
¾ cup boiling water
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup shredded uncooked carrot
½ cup finely shredded or chopped cabbage
1½ cups cottage cheese
1 teaspoon minced green onion
Salt to taste
Salad dressing
Salad greens

Divide gelatin into two equal portions and soften each in two tablespoons of cold water for at least five minutes. Add boiling water to one portion and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and vinegar and set container in cold water or ice chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in seasoned celery, carrot and cabbage and pour into six individual gelatin molds. Chill until firm.

Set second portion of gelatin in container into a pan of hot water and stir until dissolved. Add cottage cheese, minced onion and salt to taste. Pour on top of cabbage mixture and chill until firm. Unmold on beds of salad greens or in crisp lettuce cups and garnish with mayonnaise or any desired salad dressing. Serves 6.

Easter Salads

Ideal for Easter's lamb roast platter are stuffed spiced apricot salads. Simply fill the apricot centers with cream cheese balls rolled in nut meats.

To Feel Fit All Day Eat A Good Breakfast

The greatest boosters of a good breakfast are the "converts" — those who have switched from a skimpy breakfast to one which is hearty and satisfying.

The enthusiasm of this group of breakfasters is due chiefly to one thing—they like the way they feel! No more mid-morning letdowns . . . unexplained feelings of irritation . . . lassitude which often lasts throughout the day.

Breakfast Studies

Extensive studies made by the Bureau of Human Nutrition, United States Department of Agriculture, have established the fact that breakfasts which are high in protein give a sense of well being, ward off fatigue and keep blood sugar levels at normal during the entire morning. Furthermore, the findings indicate that the beneficial effects of the high protein breakfast on the blood sugar level may even extend into the afternoon.

"Break-Fast"

One reason a good breakfast is so important is that it actually breaks a fast which the body has had for twelve or more hours. After such a lengthy period, a supply of energy is needed for a good start on a new day. From one-fourth to one-third of the daily food requirements should be included in the first meal of the day—and this means part of the daily protein needs (meat, milk and eggs).

Meat For Breakfast

Meat for breakfast not only is important nutritionally, but also it adds zest and interest to the meal which no other food can provide.

Breakfast Variety

Two additional factors which are important in the enjoyment of a good breakfast are:

1. Variety in the menu.
2. Time to enjoy a leisurely meal. (Early to bed, early to rise!)

Breakfast Menu Guide

If there's plenty of variety in the breakfast menu and if it includes meat and eggs, your family easily will acquire the good breakfast habit.

Here's a handy breakfast menu planning guide:

Fruit—Juices, half grapefruit or prunes.

Cereals — Packaged, ready-to-serve cereals or hot cooked cereal. (Serve the latter with brown sugar and cream.)

Eggs — Soft cooked, poached, fried, scrambled, omelet.

Meat—Bacon served with eggs, pancakes, French toast or waffles. Canadian-style bacon. Fried ham, with or without eggs. Sausage links or patties. Creamed dried beef on toast or English muffins. Corned beef hash with poached eggs. Fried sliced luncheon meat.

Bread—White, whole wheat, rye, raisin. Sweet rolls, muffins, English muffins.

Cooking Breakfast Meats

Cook bacon over low heat until of the desired crispness. There's no need to pour off the fat during cooking. Always drain bacon on absorbent paper.

Do not prick sausage links before cooking. Steam for a few minutes in a little water in a covered skillet; then pour off water and cook, uncovered, over low heat until well browned, turning frequently.

When more people learn that it doesn't pay to eat a skimpy breakfast, there'll be some happier, more alert people around.

Blind fish do not travel in schools, says the National Geographic Society.

See Casts Lone Vote Against Home Rule

House Approves Bill To Boost Power Of Cities

Reverses Action On Radar Speed Device

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—Delegates want more home rule for their municipalities even if some state senators don't.

The House today passed a bill which would take away from the General Assembly most of its powers to enact local legislation and leave it up to the cities.

The Senate recently interred the same bill in committee and recommended the idea be studied more by the Legislative Council, the interim body of the General Assembly. The council did study the bill and recommend it this session.

After the Senate bill expired, the delegates introduced the same one. The only vote against it in the House was by Del. See (R-Allegany).

Voters May Have Say

If the Senate does go along, the voters will have their say at next year's election. If approved, municipalities then would have to incorporate and adopt charters for home rule.

Chartered cities would be divided into four classes according to population. The Legislature could pass laws applying only to every city in one classification.

The Commission on Administrative Organization of the State estimated the "home rule" law would eliminate 20 per cent of the bills introduced at the General Assembly. For instance, now it must decide "whether the mayor of a given town should own $500 or $1,000 worth of property as a qualification for office."

Kill County Plan

The commission also recommended that counties be given similar powers of local legislation. This bill didn't get out of either Senate or House committees. Delegates said they felt the municipal powers should be tried first as an experiment.

Flash!

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP) — The House of Delegates tonight cut down the State Roads Commission program to four years and postponed increased motor vehicle registration fees.

The delegates set up for passage an amended bill to review every four years Maryland's road modernization program.

Del. Logan D-Caroline, who proposed changes in the recommendations of the State Roads Commission for a 568-million-dollar spending program in 12 years, estimated the maximum expenditure during the next four years would be 130 million dollars.

The delegates also voted to reduce the gross receipts tax on railroads from about 2½ to 2 per cent.

The House reversed an earlier action and voted favorably on allowing radar-tracked evidence to be used in court against speeders.

The delegates wrote in a provision that highway sections covered by radar must be marked within four miles of the place the machine is set up.

The Senate sidetracked a bill back to its Judiciary committee that would give civilian residents on military reservations the right to vote—providing the federal government first gave them the franchise.

Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), who opposed it on the floor, contended Maryland should first wait for the federal government to grant voting privileges to residents of the District of Columbia. He successfully had it returned to committee to be held for study by the Legislative Council.

"We've got a lot of government workers in Anne Arundel County," Phipps said. "We have Ft. Meade, the Naval Academy and many other such installations. And frankly, we just don't know how it would work."

"Don't these federal employes pay state taxes?" asked Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th).

"Yes, they do," answered Phipps.

Pass Police Raise

The Senate passed, and sent to the House, a pay raise for state policemen. The bill would hike the range from $2,250-$7,800 to $2,450-$8,000.

But it refused to help Calvert County bail itself out of a $400,000 debt, caused by overspending school funds, by voting down, 11-16, a bill directing the governor to give the county $206,000 out of the 1954 budget.

The county authorities discovered suddenly last January that their school funds were vastly overspent and had to borrow money from the state to keep them going.

Earlier today, the House Ways and Means Committee approved a county sales tax for Calvert, with the stipulation it levied for two years only.

Allegany County

ed the boards of directors of banks in the two counties to vote to stay open on minor holidays.

When the bill came up before the Senate Wednesday, it was so popular, especially from the Baltimore bankers standpoint, it was amended to include the whole state.

The bill has passed the Senate and is in the House of Delegates for action.

Governor Signs Bills

Some of the bills signed into law by Governor McKeldin are:

House Bill 75—To revise the law regarding motor vehicle financial responsibility and to establish a system of compulsory financial responsibility popularly known as "compulsory insurance."

Senate Bill 87—To require the Water Pollution Control Commission to give 30 days notice of hearings on proposed regulations.

Senate Bill 93—To provide that security deposits under the financial responsibility law for motor vehicles shall not be returned if there is evidence of a pending action or the judgment remains unpaid.

Senate Bill 97—To provide for the distribution of money placed in trust with building or homestead associations.

Senate Bill 142—To provide that when a franchise for transit service is transferred the new owner shall maintain the same service to suburban communities.

Senate Bill 207—To continue after the present deadline of June 1, 1953, the maximum motor vehicle weight of 65,000 pounds.

House Bill 107—To remove the state ban against parrots and other psittacine birds but provide for the regulation by the State Board of Health.

House Bill 178—Sponsored by Del. Lester B. Reed of Mt. Savage—To discharge any state officer or employe who refuses to answer questions on the grounds of self incrimination.

House Bill 212—To permit payment without discount of workmen's compensation to any employe or his dependents.

House Bill 303—To extend until 1955 the rights of any person serving in the military service to be rehired.

Cresaptown Man Charged In Theft Of Father's Ducks

Chester Albright, 22-year old Cresaptown man, was lodged in the County Jail yesterday on a charge of stealing five ducks—all laying hens—from his father, who is a neighbor.

Harry Albright, the father, told Constable Roy Van Fleet that when he arose yesterday morning he found all five of his duck hens missing. Only two drakes were left.

The elder Albright went to his son's home and noticed blood and feathers in the back yard and saw some dressed fowl that appeared to be his missing ducks on the kitchen table. He obtained a warrant and Constable Van Fleet who arrested Chester Albright took him to the County Jail.

Chester Albright is scheduled for trial on a larceny charge at 7 p. m. Monday before Magistrate William E. Meagher in Cresaptown.

Child Hit By Car At Potomac Park

A three-year-old Potomac Park child was struck by a car along McMullen Highway yesterday afternoon and admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital complaining of head injuries.

Attaches identified the boy as Denton Cosgrove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cosgrove. X-rays have been taken, attaches added, and his condition is reported as "good." Driver of the auto was Harry E. Patton of Cresaptown who notified police of the mishap. The child was reported to have been playing and apparently tumbled down over an embankment into the path of the Patton car. J. Milton Dick, Trial Magistrate, who resides in Potomac Park, took the child to the hospital.

Proceeds from the offering will be used for the annual Vacation Bible School.

This Fancy Dessert Has Glamor -- Yet It Is Simple

If you serve a glamorous dessert at your next party, your success as your club's best cook is assured! These Polka Dot Party Pies will take you down that road to success.

They have all of the ingredients for glamor — pretty to look at and just full of chocolate and ice cream — and yet they're so easy to make and serve you'll be a doubly-pleased cook.

Polka Dot Party Pies

1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 tablespoons fat
3½ cups corn flakes
Vanilla or coffee ice cream

Melt chocolate and fat over hot but not boiling water. Do not heat longer than necessary. Stir in corn flakes. Have tart pans lined with parchment paper or aluminum foil. Coat insides with chocolate corn flake mixture, patting in lightly. Leave shells rough of contour and texture; they will be more crisp and easy to eat. Chill in refrigerator until firm. Remove foil, let stand at room temperature a few minutes, fill with ice cream, and serve at once. Yield: 4 tart shells.

Baked Fish Fillets

1½ pounds fish fillets, fresh or frozen
6 medium-sized carrots, scraped
6 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups cooked peas
2 tablespoons butter, melted.

Cook carrots in salted water until tender. Wrap each carrot with a strip of fish, fastening securely with a toothpick. Brush fish rolls with melted butter, place in large casserole and pour remaining melted butter and lemon juice over the fish. Sprinkle with the salt. Cover casserole and place in a very hot oven, 525°F., for 10 minutes. Add melted butter to cooked peas and season to suit taste. Arrange fish and carrots around edge of platter and pour peas in center. Serve lemon butter sauce in which fish was cooked on the side. Serves 6.

Variations For Farina Pudding

Desserts just full of goodness for youngsters can also be full of flavor and interest for the grown-ups in the family. Here are three ideas for an answer to just such a dessert problem — a basic recipe for a nutritious farina pudding, with variations to please the most finicky eater.

The applesauce variation is well seasoned with red hots, cinnamon, and nutmeg — all of which add a delightful spicy flavor to the dessert. Upside Down Farina Pudding makes use of the plentiful supply of canned fruits. Golden Farina Pudding provides a good way to use those leftover carrots, and at the same time profits from their flavor.

Basic Recipe For Farina Pudding

1½ cups milk
1½ cups cooked farina
3 eggs, beaten
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk. Add cooked farina and mix with rotary beater until smooth. Add eggs, sugar, and vanilla. Combine thoroughly.

Method 1: Pour into individual greased molds. Set in shallow pan of hot water, and bake in moderate oven (350°-375°F) 45 to 50 minutes. Serve hot or cold with cream or fruit sauce. Yield: 4 large molds or 6 small molds.

Method 2: Pour into greased 8-inch square baking pan. Set in shallow pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350°-375°F.) for 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes. Cut in squares. Yield: 9 servings.

Golden Farina Pudding: Substitute ½ cup brown sugar for ¼ cup granulated sugar. Add 1 cup mashed, cooked carrots, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg to the farina mixture. Use Method 1 for baking; sprinkle with slivered almonds before serving.

Spicy Applesauce Pudding: Reduce milk to 1 cup. Add 1 cup applesauce, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg to the farina mixture. Dot with 1 tablespoon red hots. Bake by either method.

Upside Down Farina Pudding: Use basic recipe and Method 2. Arrange 6 slices of pineapple or 1 No. 2½ can peach halves in baking pan before adding pudding mixture. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons brown sugar, then pour the farina mixture over the fruit.

Lamb Barbecue

New Dessert—Meringue Filled With Peppermint Rice

Here is a dessert which is just out of this world: a crispy, feather light meringue ring is filled with a delicious peppermint rice. And surprise — this creamy rice filling can be colored either a luscious pink or a tempting green! — as the occasion indicates.

Not only is the eating of this rice and meringue dessert positively delightful, but the hurried hostess will be delighted that such a gala dessert is so very, very easy and simple to make. After the egg whites are beaten the oven takes over the job of creating the meringue. The filling is a quick creation and the result is a dessert which is truly a dazzler and will become a party standby as well as a family dessert favorite.

Ingredients For Meringue

4 egg whites
1 cup extra fine beet or cane sugar
Pinch of Salt
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Ingredients For Pink Filling

1 cup finely crushed peppermint candy
½ cup milk
3 cups hot cooked rice
½ pint chilled whipping cream
Shavings of unsweetened chocolate

Ingredients For Alternate Filling

(Green in Color)

3 cups hot cooked rice
½ cup beet or cane sugar
½ cup milk
Green food coloring
½ pint chilled whipping cream
Peppermint flavoring
Shavings of unsweetened chocolate

Preparing the Fluffy White Rice: To make 3 liberal cups of fluffy rice, put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. After the rice has cooked, remove saucepan from heat — but keep the lid on until the rice is to be served.

Use exact measurements of uncooked rice and water. Time the cooking accurately.

For extra convenience and economy of time and effort, cook twice as much rice, water and salt — keeping the 3 extra cups of leftover, ready-cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. Use it as needed in quick, delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Draw a circle 9 inches in diameter on brown wrapping paper. Place paper on a cookie sheet. Or, sprinkle a cookie sheet with flour and retrace the circle in the flour.

To make the meringue: Beat egg whites until foamy. Add ¼ of the sugar, the salt, cream of tartar and vanilla. Continue beating and gradually add the rest of the sugar. Beat until the egg whites are smooth, shiny and hold their shape. Spoon the meringue around the inside edge of the circle drawn on the paper, building up a fence about 3 inches high. Bake in a 250° F. oven for 1½ hours. The meringue should be dried out rather than baked.

To make the pink rice filling: Crush the candy easily by folding a clean dish towel over the candy and pounding with some unbreakable object, until the candy is crushed. Heat the candy in the milk, over a low heat, until the candy dissolves. Add the rice and mix thoroughly. Cover and chill the rice mixture. A short while before serving, whip the cream. Fold the rice into the whipped cream.

To serve, place the meringue ring on a serving plate and fill the center with the rice mixture. Sprinkle the chocolate shavings over the top of the rice.

This recipe makes 10 servings.

To make the green filling: Add the sugar to the hot cooked rice and mix thoroughly. The rice must be hot in order to dissolve the sugar. Add the milk and mix thoroughly. Add the green food coloring until the desired shade of green is reached. Cover and chill the rice mixture. A short while before serving, add some food coloring to the cream and whip. As the cream is whipped, add additional coloring to tint the cream to match the rice mixture. Add peppermint flavoring to rice mixture and fold rice into the whipped cream, adding more flavoring until the desired flavor is obtained. Serve in the meringue ring and top with the chocolate shavings.

This recipe makes 10 servings.

Rice-Fish Casserole

Oceans of shipshape flavor cruise from the stem to the stern of this quick and easy rice and fish oven dish. Happily, just a fraction of a "bell's time" is needed to ready this perfectly wonderful rice main dish for a voyage in the oven.

Above all, this rice and fish eating treat is sea faring enough to win against any storm of protests from finicky eaters. In fact, the ship's log will record that second servings were the order of the day.

INGREDIENTS

1½ pounds fresh or frozen fish fillets (sole, halibut, haddock or others)
1 cup uncooked rice
1 10½ ounce can condensed cream of celery soup
1½ cups grated American cheese
1 teaspoon salt
3½ cups water

METHOD: If fish fillets are frozen, allow about a day in which they can thaw slowly in the refrigerator; or allow about 2 hours at room temperature. In a shallow baking-serving dish, mix the rice, celery soup, ½ cup of the cheese, salt and water. Bake in a 350°F. oven for 20 minutes. Remove from the oven and lay the thawed fish fillets over the top of the rice and liquid mixture. Sprinkle the rest of the cheese over the top of the casserole. Return to the 350°F. oven and bake for 30 minutes or until the rice is tender and the top of the casserole browned and bubbling. Serve immediately.

This recipe makes 8 servings.

Spinach Soup

3 cups cooked spinach
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
4 bouillon cubes (chicken flavor)
1½ teaspoons scraped onion
2 teaspoons salt
Dash pepper

Chop spinach. Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Add milk and cook until sauce thickens. Add bouillon cubes, onion, seasonings and spinach puree; stir until bouillon cubes are dissolved. Serve garnished with a sprig of spinach or buttered croutons. Serves 8.

For an eye opener on Easter morning, make a coffee cake crowned with Toasty Cinnamon Almond Topping. To make the topping combine ½ cup sugar, ½ cup finely chopped blanched almonds and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Make a quick coffee cake batter and brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with the topping just before baking. Makes 1 cup, enough for 1 8-inch square coffee cake.

Budget Revisal Cited By Board

A budget submitted yesterday to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners by Edward P. Kaylor, clerk to the Board of Election Supervisors, will have to be revised.

Kaylor listed total expenses of $17,563.25 for operation of his department during the fiscal year starting July 1 and ending June 30, 1954.

William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Commissioners, inquired if any allowance had been made for a primary election in June of 1954. Kaylor said the Board of Election Supervisors was under the impression the primary for the state election was in September of 1954.

A call to the secretary of state at Annapolis revealed that the date is June 18, 1954.

The budget as submitted by Kaylor included $1,247.25 for various office supplies, $1,640 for office telephone and similar services, $11,200 for the salaries of the three election supervisors, the clerk, two registrars and the attorney. An additional $3,476 is provided for poll workers.

Service Set Today

Rev. Kenneth Shaw, pastor of Davis Memorial Methodist Church, announces that a Good Friday service will be held at the church at 7:30 p. m. today. Following a discourse on "Crucified With Christ," a communion service will be held.

STRIKERS TURN BACK CARS — Striking workers at the Providence, R. I., plant of the U. S. Rubber Company turn back a car at the plant yesterday morning. The Bristol and Woonsocket plants are also out, involving a total of 4,600 workers at the three plants. The strike started shortly after midnight as negotiations in New York broke down.

Thompson Is Elected To Hospital Board

Finley A. Thompson, manager of Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation, has been elected to the Board of Governors of Memorial Hospital, according to William A. Gunter, chairman of the board.

At a meeting held this week, Thompson was named to succeed Leslie L. Helmer, former plant manager here who has been promoted to director of industrial relations of the corporation with headquarters in New York.

Other members of the board are James Weber, secretary; Charles A. Piper, treasurer; Stuart Rosenbaum, Mayor Roy W. Eves and William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Coal Industry In This Area At Record Low

The coal business in the George's Creek field is at an all-time low, Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, pointed out yesterday.

Powers blamed the shutdown of the mines on the lack of a market which has been seriously hurt by the influx of low cost residual oil from the Near East.

Coal industry spokesmen say this oil enters the country at low tariffs and is used in power plants along the East Coast.

Statistics show the demand for 39,000,000 tons of coal went off the market last year as the use of the cheap oil increased.

This has affected the coal fields in Western Maryland to the extent that all of the big workings, including strip mines, are shut down, hoping for the market to change.

The little diggings are continuing on a one-day or two-day a week proposition, keeping up with the local demand, Powers noted.

Western Maryland Railway officials report that traffic on their George's Creek and C&P branches hauling coal is practically nil.

Years ago two trains daily went into the area to haul out coal. Today there is but one train a week serving George's Creek.

The C&P Eckhart Branch has not been used for two years. Joseph Miller, local superintendent for the Western Maryland Railway, said the tunnels between here and Eckhart and Hoffman are falling in.

What coal being mined is hauled by truck from tipples.

Railway Planning New Capitalization Setup

The Western Maryland Railway in cooperation with holders of large blocks of its stock today was scheduled to file with the Interstate Commerce Commission a new recapitalization plan, Eugene S. Williams, chairman of the Board of Directors and former Cumberland attorney, announced.

The plan would eliminate the dividend arrearage of $22,354,920 or $126 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative first preferred stock, as of July 1, 1953.

A previous recapitalization proposal, submitted late in 1950, was subsequently withdrawn because of differences which arose between certain holders of the second preferred and common stock.

The new plan, Williams said, appears to have the overwhelming support of the groups that opposed the previous one.

Truckers Fined For Overloads

Two truckers forfeited a total of $66.90 fines and costs yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court for having overloads on their vehicles March 17 on Route 40 near the Six Mile House.

Harry LeRoy Davis, 1019 Gay Street, paid $37.45 while another Cresaptown, forfeited $29.45. They trucker, Edgar Carlton Nazelrod, were arrested by Richard F. Boyle, of the State Roads Commission weight crew.

DeHarts Assume Duties

Mr. and Mrs. Leon A. DeHart have assumed management of the Cumberland Country Club. They served as managers of the Troy (Ohio) Country Club the past five years and have had approximately 20 years experience in that field.

DeHart, a native of Rushville, Ind., and graduate of Butler University, Indianapolis, served his apprenticeship during six summer vacation periods on U. S. Steamship Lines boats. His wife, a native of Ovid, N. Y. and graduate of Cornell University, has been associated with DeHart in his duties during most of his career.

See Casts Lone Vote Against Home Rule

House Approves Bill To Boost Power Of Cities

Reverses Action On Radar Speed Device

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—Delegates want more home rule for their municipalities even if some state senators don't.

The House today passed a bill which would take away from the General Assembly most of its powers to enact local legislation and leave it up to the cities.

The Senate recently interred the same bill in committee and recommended the idea be studied more by the Legislative Council, the interim body of the General Assembly. The council did study the bill and recommend it this session.

After the Senate bill expired, the delegates introduced the same one. The only vote against it in the House was by Del. See (R-Allegany).

Voters May Have Say

If the Senate does go along, the voters will have their say at next year's election. If approved, municipalities then would have to incorporate and adopt charters for home rule.

Chartered cities would be divided into four classes according to population. The Legislature could pass laws applying only to every city in one classification.

The Commission on Administrative Organization of the State estimated the "home rule" law would eliminate 20 per cent of the bills introduced at the General Assembly. For instance, now it must decide "whether the mayor of a given town should own $500 or $1,000 worth of property as a qualification for office."

Kill County Plan

The commission also recommended that counties be given similar powers of local legislation. This bill didn't get out of either Senate or House committees. Delegates said they felt the municipal powers should be tried first as an experiment.

Flash!

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—The House of Delegates tonight cut down the State Roads Commission program to four years and postponed increased motor vehicle registration fees.

The delegates set up for passage an amended bill to review every four years Maryland's road modernization program.

Del. Logan D-Caroline, who proposed changes in the recommendations of the State Roads Commission for a 568-million-dollar spending program in 12 years, estimated the maximum expenditure during the next four years would be 130 million dollars.

The delegates also voted to reduce the gross receipts tax on railroads from about 2½ to 2 per cent.

The House reversed an earlier action and voted favorably on allowing radar-tracked evidence to be used in court against speeders.

The delegates wrote in a provision that highway sections covered by radar must be marked within four miles of the place the machine is set up.

The Senate sidetracked a bill back to its Judiciary committee that would give civilian residents on military reservations the right to vote—providing the federal government first gave them the franchise.

Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel), who opposed it on the floor, contended Maryland should first wait for the federal government to grant voting privileges to residents of the District of Columbia. He successfully had it returned to committee to be held for study by the Legislative Council.

"We've got a lot of government workers in Anne Arundel County," Phipps said. "We have Ft. Meade, the Naval Academy and many other such installations. And frankly, we just don't know how it would work."

"Don't these federal employes pay state taxes?" asked Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th).

"Yes, they do," answered Phipps.

Pass Police Raise

The Senate passed, and sent to the House, a pay raise for state policemen. The bill would hike the range from $2,250-$7,800 to $2,450-$8,000.

But it refused to help Calvert County bail itself out of a $400,000 debt, caused by overspending school funds, by voting down, 11-16, a bill directing the governor to give the county $206,000 out of the 1954 budget.

The county authorities discovered suddenly last January that their school funds were vastly overspent and had to borrow money from the state to keep them going.

Earlier today, the House Ways and Means Committee approved a county sales tax for Calvert, with the stipulation it levied for two years only.

Allegany County

ed the boards of directors of banks in the two counties to vote to stay open on minor holidays.

When the bill came up before the Senate Wednesday, it was so popular, especially from the Baltimore bankers standpoint, it was amended to include the whole state.

The bill has passed the Senate and is in the House of Delegates for action.

Governor Signs Bills

Some of the bills signed into law by Governor McKeldin are:

House Bill 75—To revise the law regarding motor vehicle financial responsibility and to establish a system of compulsory financial responsibility popularly known as "compulsory insurance."

Senate Bill 87—To require the Water Pollution Control Commission to give 30 days notice of hearings on proposed regulations.

Senate Bill 93—To provide that security deposits under the financial responsibility law for motor vehicles shall not be returned if there is evidence of a pending action or the judgment remains unpaid.

Senate Bill 97—To provide for the distribution of money placed in trust with building or homestead associations.

Senate Bill 142—To provide that when a franchise for transit service is transferred the new owner shall maintain the same service to suburban communities.

Senate Bill 207—To continue after the present deadline of June 1, 1953, the maximum motor vehicle weight of 65,000 pounds.

House Bill 107—To remove the state ban against parrots and other psittacine birds but provide for the regulation by the State Board of Health.

House Bill 178—Sponsored by Del. Lester B. Reed of Mt. Savage—To discharge any state officer or employe who refuses to answer questions on the grounds of self incrimination.

House Bill 212—To permit payment without discount of workmen's compensation to any employe or his dependents.

House Bill 303—To extend until 1955 the rights of any person serving in the military service to be rehired.

House Bill 370—To restore powers originally delegated to the governor under the Civil Defense laws.

Meetings Postponed

Two meetings of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, scheduled this week have been postponed due to the Easter holidays. An Executive Board meeting will be held Thursday, April 9, and a membership meeting Saturday, April 11, at 7:30 p. m.

Cresaptown Man Charged In Theft Of Father's Ducks

Chester Albright, 22-year old Cresaptown man, was lodged in the County Jail yesterday on a charge of stealing five ducks—all laying hens—from his father, who is a neighbor.

Harry Albright, the father, told Constable Roy Van Fleet that when he arose yesterday morning he found all five of his duck hens missing. Only two drakes were left.

The elder Albright went to his son's home and noticed blood and feathers in the back yard and saw some dressed fowl that appeared to be his missing ducks on the kitchen table. He obtained a warrant and Constable Van Fleet who arrested Chester Albright took him to the County Jail.

Chester Albright is scheduled for trial on a larceny charge at 7 p. m. Monday before Magistrate William E. Meagher in Cresaptown.

Plan Easter Play

The Young People of Davis Memorial Methodist Church, Oldtown Road, will present the play, "My Son Lives," Easter Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the church.

Child Hit By Car At Potomac Park

A three-year-old Potomac Park child was struck by a car along McMullen Highway yesterday afternoon and admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital complaining of head injuries.

Attaches identified the boy as Denton Cosgrove, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cosgrove. X-rays have been taken, attaches added, and his condition is reported as "good." Driver of the auto was Harry E. Patton of Cresaptown who notified police of the mishap. The child was reported to have been playing and apparently tumbled down over an embankment into the path of the Patton car. J. Milton Dick, Trial Magistrate, who resides in Potomac Park, took the child to the hospital.

Paw Paw Churches Plan Union Service

The annual Easter sunrise service in Paw Paw, W. Va., will be held in the First Methodist Church at 6:30 a. m. Rev. Harry L. Bennett, pastor, will preach on "The Coming of the Dawn."

Proceeds from the offering will be used for the annual Vacation Bible School.

"Monty" Sees Stars Over England At Naval Academy's Planetarium

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, more than 3,000 miles from home, was taken "back" to England yesterday while visiting the Naval Academy planetarium.

Montgomery sat quietly in the dark during the lecture, but he warmly thanked Beito for his "frightfully interesting" talk on the way out.

"Extraordinary...," the deputy supreme commander of Allied Powers in Europe said. "I never saw anything like it before...I'm not very good with the stars myself."

From the planetarium, Montwent to Worden Field to review the first dress parade of the year for the brigade of about 3,600 midshipmen.

The field marshal seemed to pay his own private honors to the academy by wearing a pair of navy blue socks under his khaki uniform. He also wore his usual black beret and a heavy overcoat to protect against the chilly afternoon air.

Before departing for Washington, Montgomery was presented with a portfolio of pictures commemorating his first visit to the academy by Vice-Adm. C. Turner Joy, academy superintendent. The photographs were taken earlier in the day, at the start of his six-hour stay.

The British officer was given full military honors, including a 17-gun salute when he arrived and "march past" by the brigade of midshipmen at their noon meal formation.

On his way to lunch in the superintendent's quarters, Montgomery stopped at the academy mess hall to make a brief statement to the middies.

Although a soldier all his life, the field marshal said he had learned to appreciate sailors during his fighting days. Military campaigns would not be successful without the Navy, he added.

Contract Is Awarded

The Board of County Commissioners yesterday awarded a contract to paint the sheriff's quarters and offices at the county jail to Clyde Kuhns on his bid of $976. The only other bidder was J. E. Dennison at $992.

Review Is Denied In Murder Trial

The Supreme Court of West Virginia has unanimously refused to review the first degree murder conviction of Oshel C. Gardner Jr., who is scheduled to die in the electric chair April 17.

Gardner, 22-year-old steamboat deckhand from Gallipolis Ferry, conceded in his petition to the Supreme Court that there was "no doubt" he shot and killed Roy C. Jackson, brother of Lonnie Jackson of Cumberland.

But the petition added that Gardner was "too highly intoxicated to have been guilty of murder in the first degree."

Jackson, a Point Pleasant taxi operator and former fire chief there, was killed last October 14.

An old police regulation in Berlin (1936) prohibited passengers from speaking to the drivers of taxicabs.

Budget Revisal Cited By Board

A budget submitted yesterday to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners by Edward P. Kaylor, clerk to the Board of Election Supervisors, will have to be revised.

Kaylor listed total expenses of $17,563.25 for operation of his department during the fiscal year starting July 1 and ending June 30, 1954.

William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Commissioners, inquired if any allowance had been made for a primary election in June of 1954. Kaylor said the Board of Election Supervisors was under the impression the primary for the state election was in September of 1954.

A call to the secretary of state at Annapolis revealed that the date is June 18, 1954.

The budget as submitted by Kaylor included $1,247.25 for various office supplies, $1,640 for office telephone and similar services, $11,200 for the salaries of the three election supervisors, the clerk, two registrars and the attorney. An additional $3,476 is provided for poll workers.

Other members of the board are James Weber, secretary; Charles A. Piper, treasurer; Stuart Rosenbaum, Mayor Roy W. Eves and William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Coal Industry In This Area At Record Low

The coal business in the George's Creek field is at an all-time low, Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, pointed out yesterday.

Powers blamed the shutdown of the mines on the lack of a market which has been seriously hurt by the influx of low cost residual oil from the Near East.

Coal industry spokesmen say this oil enters the country at low tariffs and is used in power plants along the East Coast.

Statistics show the demand for 39,000,000 tons of coal went off the market last year as the use of the cheap oil increased.

This has affected the coal fields in Western Maryland to the extent that all of the big workings, including strip mines, are shut down, hoping for the market to change.

The little diggings are continuing on a one-day or two-day a week proposition, keeping up with the local demand, Powers noted.

Western Maryland Railway officials report that traffic on their George's Creek and C&P branches hauling coal is practically nil.

Years ago two trains daily went into the area to haul out coal. Today there is but one train a week serving George's Creek.

The C&P Eckhart Branch has not been used for two years. Joseph Miller, local superintendent for the Western Maryland Railway, said the tunnels between here and Eckhart and Hoffman are falling in.

What coal being mined is hauled by truck from tipples.

Railway Planning New Capitalization Setup

The Western Maryland Railway in cooperation with holders of large blocks of its stock today was scheduled to file with the Interstate Commerce Commission a new recapitalization plan, Eugene S. Williams, chairman of the Board of Directors and former Cumberland attorney, announced.

The plan would eliminate the dividend arrearage of $22,354,920 or $126 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative first preferred stock, as of July 1, 1953.

A previous recapitalization proposal, submitted late in 1950, was subsequently withdrawn because of differences which arose between certain holders of the second preferred and common stock.

The new plan, Williams said, appears to have the overwhelming support of the groups that opposed the previous one.

Truckers Fined For Overloads

Two truckers forfeited a total of $66.90 fines and costs yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court for having overloads on their vehicles March 17 on Route 40 near the Six Mile House.

Harry LeRoy Davis, 1019 Gay Street, paid $37.45 while another Cresaptown, forfeited $29.45. They trucker, Edgar Carlton Nazelrod, were arrested by Richard F. Boyle, of the State Roads Commission weight crew.

DeHarts Assume Duties

Mr. and Mrs. Leon A. DeHart have assumed management of the Cumberland Country Club. They served as managers of the Troy (Ohio) Country Club the past five years and have had approximately 20 years experience in that field.

DeHart, a native of Rushville, Ind., and graduate of Butler University, Indianapolis, served his apprenticeship during six summer vacation periods on U. S. Steamship Lines boats. His wife, a native of Ovid, N. Y. and graduate of Cornell University, has been associated with DeHart in his duties during most of his career.

Demo Committee To Explore Idea Of '54 Convention

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—An executive committee of the Democratic party decided unanimously last night to "explore fully" the idea of holding a national convention in August or September of 1954.

The proposal was made by Paul M. Butler of South Bend, Ind., a national committeeman and at-large member of the 13-man Executive Committee of the party's National Committee.

Normally a political party holds a convention only every four years, when a president is to be nominated. Butler told reporters his plan would:

1. Focus attention on the Democratic party; . . . . . .

2. Give "a single clear voice to the Democratic party to speak as one in a congressional election year for the first time in history," and;

3. Be a vehicle for party harmony.

Even before the Executive Committee met behind closed doors National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said he was "very sympathetic" to the idea.

It would be subject to approval by Democratic senators and representatives first and then the full National Committee.

Similar proposals have been made in the past, but never got very far. Candidates for the Senate and House in off years seem to prefer to run on their own platforms rather than a set of national party principles. This is true particularly of Southern Democrats who have their troubles with the national platform even in presidential years.

Butler said he is sure candidates won't object to his plan. By holding the convention so late, he said, most of the primaries would be over. In the South, a nomination usually is the equivalent to election.

Sen. Clements of Kentucky, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, said 21 Democratic senators will be up for re-election. He told the committee special efforts should be made to re-elect those from Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

These states were carried by President Eisenhower last year.

Rep. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, made this prediction: The Democrats will win back control of the House next year.

He said congressional mail is coming in from Eisenhower voters who say they already are a "bit disillusioned."

Zane Gray, famous western novelist, was born in Zanesville, O., Jan. 31, 1875.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—This is a city in which the bizarre is the ordinary, in which normality stands out like a sore thumb. Especially is this true with regard to publicity stunts; when a movie actress walks down Fifth Avenue with a fer-de-lance on a leash, New York yawns. The other day, however, one of Manhattan's oldest and most dignified brokerage houses held—you'd never guess—a fashion show. The city came to attention like a private bucking for his first stripe.

The brokerage house was Bache and Company, 74 years old and hoary with respectability, and the unsung genius was presumably some top executive who sat back and scratched his bald head one day and said, "You know — we ought to do something to get more women interested in socking away their dough in investments."

The next thing you know, a thousand fashion editors, feature writers, stylists and plain bewildered newspapermen were flocking into Bache's second-floor rooms in the Chrysler Building to eye a style parade labeled a little coyly "Dividends Are a Girl's Best Friend."

Henrietta, you should have been there. You'd have sworn that Christine Jorgenson had arrived from Denmark all over again. There were more press agents gathered on the spot than I ever had seen before.

Eight fashion models, cast in the conventional mold — their smiles are congealed and they walk as if they're afraid of stepping on snakes —passed before the audience's eyes with those frightening pirouettes of theirs.

Cameramen were everywhere. Dow Jones financial news ticker-tape hung on the walls and behind everything, as a backdrop, was Bache's "big board," with the mysterious symbols, "close." "open," "commodities," etc. imprinted thereon.

There was a kind of genteel but raffish air about the whole thing and when I glimpsed it first I figured automatically that tomorrow's paper would carry the story of how Bache and Company had been dropped from the Stock Exchange for gaudy conduct.

Then it developed that the Exchange's president was present and, evidently, approving. Things, I figured, had certainly changed since grandma's day, when a reliable brokerage house was the nearest thing to a mausoleum you could find.

Conspiring with Bache in this startling enterprise were a Fifth Avenue store, and a chic woman's magazine. The store provided the clothes and the magazine provided an official commentator—in pink beret—who, apparently overlooking the unwritten law that magazines and newspapers are supposed to be calm and detached about news, advised the guests that this new collection of clothes was absolutely priceless.

There was even one dress she described as "one you cannot live without." It cost $39.95 and I know at least one woman who will get tonight's cooking and washing done without pondering suicide because she didn't buy this creation.

Man with an accordion stood in a corner and played stip-tease accompaniment music for the models ("He has got to go," one worried girl hissed to me) and a finance expert, whatever that is, got up an explained—pretty vaguely, I thought—that when you got right down to it, fashions and investments went hand in hand.

If women plan their investments as they plan their wardrobes, they will be smart both ways, he added. I was still a little confused but I didn't press the issue.

According to Bache and Company, which seems bent on dancing a gay rigadoon on the big board, similar style shows will be held in 40 other American cities where it has branch offices.

I suspect that this razzmatazz approach to business may lose Bache a few of its stuffier, more dignified clients, but when you consider that most of the nation's dough is in the hands of dames, as we say at Broadway and 42nd, the project seems sound enough business.

Drama, Program Set

"Monty" Sees Stars Over England At Naval Academy's Planetarium

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, more than 3,000 miles from home, was taken "back" to England yesterday while visiting the Naval Academy planetarium.

Montgomery sat quietly in the dark during the lecture, but he warmly thanked Beito for his "frightfully interesting" talk on the way out.

"Extraordinary...," the deputy supreme commander of Allied Powers in Europe said. "I never saw anything like it before...I'm not very good with the stars myself."

From the planetarium, Montwent to Worden Field to review the first dress parade of the year for the brigade of about 3,600 midshipmen.

The field marshal seemed to pay his own private honors to the academy by wearing a pair of navy blue socks under his khaki uniform. He also wore his usual black beret and a heavy overcoat to protect against the chilly afternoon air.

Before departing for Washington, Montgomery was presented with a portfolio of pictures commemorating his first visit to the academy by Vice-Adm. C. Turner Joy, academy superintendent. The photographs were taken earlier in the day, at the start of his six-hour stay.

The British officer was given full military honors, including a 17-gun salute when he arrived and "march past" by the brigade of midshipmen at their noon meal formation.

On his way to lunch in the superintendent's quarters, Montgomery stopped at the academy mess hall to make a brief statement to the middies.

Although a soldier all his life, the field marshal said he had learned to appreciate sailors during his fighting days. Military campaigns would not be successful without the Navy, he added.

Contract Is Awarded

The Board of County Commissioners yesterday awarded a contract to paint the sheriff's quarters and offices at the county jail to Clyde Kuhns on his bid of $976. The only other bidder was J. E. Dennison at $992.

Review Is Denied In Murder Trial

The Supreme Court of West Virginia has unanimously refused to review the first degree murder conviction of Oshel C. Gardner Jr., who is scheduled to die in the electric chair April 17.

Gardner, 22-year-old steamboat deckhand from Gallipolis Ferry, conceded in his petition to the Supreme Court that there was "no doubt" he shot and killed Roy C. Jackson, brother of Lonnie Jackson of Cumberland.

But the petition added that Gardner was "too highly intoxicated to have been guilty of murder in the first degree."

Jackson, a Point Pleasant taxi operator and former fire chief there, was killed last October 14.

An old police regulation in Berlin (1936) prohibited passengers from speaking to the drivers of taxicabs.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 2—(INS)—I'd say that Bela Darvi is playing in great good luck. She gets Charles Boyer and Richard Widmark in her first American picture, "Hell And High Water." Since "Don Juan In Hell," I've been convinced that Charles Boyer is one of our very finest actors on the screen.

The story of "Hell And High Water" is by David Hempstead, and is scripted by Jesse Lasky Jr. It's a very dramatic yarn about three people on an island who overhear atomic plots against the USA, and do something about it.

Miss Darvi, Polish born, was brought up in France. She's an extremely pretty girl and has been working hard in preparation for her motion picture debut.

Usually I look out the window when a studio mentions a sequel to one of their pictures, thinking it's a not too subtle a form of publicity. But I happen to know that Dore Schary is actually planning a sequel to "The Affairs Of Dobe Gillis," which Arthur Loew Jr., will produce in early summer.

Again Debbie Reynolds and Bobby Van will be starred, and it will be made as soon as Debbie returns from her South American trip.

In Paris Bing Crosby, Lindsay, John Scott Trotter and Bill Morrow traveled to Versailles to see about renting the famous villa of the late Lady Elsie Mendl. Price—$1,000 per month, minus linen and china—and very cheap if you ask me for such a beautiful place.

My spy in gay Paree writes: "About April 20, Bing takes Lindsay to Rome for an audience with the Pope. Never was there a boy as thrilled as Lindsay who is seeing New York, Paris, London, Rome and possibly Madrid for the first time."

Jeff Chandler telephoned me and wants all the rumor hounds to know that it's true he's living in his dressing room on the Universal-International lot while he's making his movie, "Brady's Bunch."

"But," said Jeff, "I'm working nights and my children are so noisy I can't get any sleep at home, so Marjorie suggested I sleep away from the house while I'm doing night scenes.

"You can't keep kids quiet, it isn't fair, and my two are just like all kids their age—noisy!" said Jeff.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

At Ciro's, Gloria Grahame (Cy Howards' girlfriend) a surprising twosome with Richard Coyle. He was once Mitzi Gaynor's boyfriend.

Vittorio Gassman gets here April 27 to meet his new daughter and to see Shelly Winters. He says he won't even stop to take off the grease paint after he steps off th stage in Italy.

Gertrude Niesen and her husband are back together and laughing at the rift rumors that continue to circulate about them.

Peggy Lloyd Ross, who recently parted from her husband, has joined King Kennedy's publicity organization. Peggy was a publicist before her marriage and writes very well.

Ben Blue almost had a stroke when he read in my column that Dorothy Lamour had mumps. She was his guest star last Sunday. Well, Ben, maybe you had them when you were a kid—why don't you check?

At the Gourmet-Beverly, Gwenn O'Connor and Dan Dailey, really happy.

At the Encore for dinner, Olivia De Havilland was with Alan Campbell.

Jimmy McHugh opens at the Copacabana tonight. Lisa Kirk, who has recorded some of his most successful songs, postponed her opening at the Persian Room so she could be at the Copa to give him a hand.

Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran spent last week at Random House in Palm Springs and they're very enthusiastic about the place. Betty opens at the Shubert Theatre in Chicago May 4.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Demo Committee To Explore Idea Of '54 Convention

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—An executive committee of the Democratic party decided unanimously last night to "explore fully" the idea of holding a national convention in August or September of 1954.

The proposal was made by Paul M. Butler of South Bend, Ind., a national committeeman and at-large member of the 13-man Executive Committee of the party's National Committee.

Normally a political party holds a convention only every four years, when a president is to be nominated. Butler told reporters his plan would:

1. Focus attention on the Democratic party; . . . . . .

2. Give "a single clear voice to the Democratic party to speak as one in a congressional election year for the first time in history," and;

3. Be a vehicle for party harmony.

Even before the Executive Committee met behind closed doors National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell said he was "very sympathetic" to the idea.

It would be subject to approval by Democratic senators and representatives first and then the full National Committee.

Similar proposals have been made in the past, but never got very far. Candidates for the Senate and House in off years seem to prefer to run on their own platforms rather than a set of national party principles. This is true particularly of Southern Democrats who have their troubles with the national platform even in presidential years.

Butler said he is sure candidates won't object to his plan. By holding the convention so late, he said, most of the primaries would be over. In the South, a nomination usually is the equivalent to election.

Sen. Clements of Kentucky, chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, said 21 Democratic senators will be up for re-election. He told the committee special efforts should be made to re-elect those from Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico.

These states were carried by President Eisenhower last year.

Rep. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, made this prediction: The Democrats will win back control of the House next year.

He said congressional mail is coming in from Eisenhower voters who say they already are a "bit disillusioned."

Zane Gray, famous western novelist, was born in Zanesville, O., Jan. 31, 1875.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—This is a city in which the bizarre is the ordinary, in which normality stands out like a sore thumb. Especially is this true with regard to publicity stunts; when a movie actress walks down Fifth Avenue with a fer-de-lance on a leash, New York yawns. The other day, however, one of Manhattan's oldest and most dignified brokerage houses held—you'd never guess—a fashion show. The city came to attention like a private bucking for his first stripe.

The brokerage house was Bache and Company, 74 years old and hoary with respectability, and the unsung genius was presumably some top executive who sat back and scratched his bald head one day and said, "You know — we ought to do something to get more women interested in socking away their dough in investments."

The next thing you know, a thousand fashion editors, feature writers, stylists and plain bewildered newspapermen were flocking into Bache's second-floor rooms in the Chrysler Building to eye a style parade labeled a little coyly "Dividends Are a Girl's Best Friend."

Henrietta, you should have been there. You'd have sworn that Christine Jorgenson had arrived from Denmark all over again. There were more press agents gathered on the spot than I ever had seen before.

Eight fashion models, cast in the conventional mold — their smiles are congealed and they walk as if they're afraid of stepping on snakes —passed before the audience's eyes with those frightening pirouettes of theirs.

Cameramen were everywhere. Dow Jones financial news ticker-tape hung on the walls and behind everything, as a backdrop, was Bache's "big board," with the mysterious symbols, "close." "open," "commodities," etc. imprinted thereon.

There was a kind of genteel but raffish air about the whole thing and when I glimpsed it first I figured automatically that tomorrow's paper would carry the story of how Bache and Company had been dropped from the Stock Exchange for gaudy conduct.

Then it developed that the Exchange's president was present and, evidently, approving. Things, I figured, had certainly changed since grandma's day, when a reliable brokerage house was the nearest thing to a mausoleum you could find.

Conspiring with Bache in this startling enterprise were a Fifth Avenue store, and a chic woman's magazine. The store provided the clothes and the magazine provided an official commentator—in pink beret—who, apparently overlooking the unwritten law that magazines and newspapers are supposed to be calm and detached about news, advised the guests that this new collection of clothes was absolutely priceless.

There was even one dress she described as "one you cannot live without." It cost $39.95 and I know at least one woman who will get tonight's cooking and washing done without pondering suicide because she didn't buy this creation.

Man with an accordion stood in a corner and played stip-tease accompaniment music for the models ("He has got to go," one worried girl hissed to me) and a finance expert, whatever that is, got up an explained—pretty vaguely, I thought—that when you got right down to it, fashions and investments went hand in hand.

If women plan their investments as they plan their wardrobes, they will be smart both ways, he added. I was still a little confused but I didn't press the issue.

According to Bache and Company, which seems bent on dancing a gay rigadoon on the big board, similar style shows will be held in 40 other American cities where it has branch offices.

I suspect that this razzmatazz approach to business may lose Bache a few of its stuffier, more dignified clients, but when you consider that most of the nation's dough is in the hands of dames, as we say at Broadway and 42nd, the project seems sound enough business.

County To Get More Mileage In Road System

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was informed by J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, that the State Roads Commission has accepted the county's application for inclusion of additional mileage in the bona fide roads system.

A total of about 25 miles had been requested for addition to the system, but the State Roads Commission has allowed 28.22 miles. This will result in the county receiving about $17,000 in additional gasoline tax money based on mileage. The extra money will be made available starting July 1.

This information was received by Chapman from George W. Cassell, senior assistant highway engineer for the State Roads Commission, at a conference today.

Cassell also discussed with Chapman the survey of the entire county roads system starting May 4. It will determine the roads which will be part of the bona fide roads system as of July 1, 1954.

The survey is expected to take more than two months and will be made by SRC personnel. Chapman will have one of the supervisory employes of his department accompany the SRC men on the survey.

Results of the survey will be included in listings and also on large maps. The maps will show the entire county roads system with a cross index and symbols for bridges, widths of roads, type of surface and other pertinent data. Chapman said the survey and data which results will eliminate any confusion which exists on what roads are part of the bona fide system. This problem has plagued county commissioners for many years when property owners came before the board to request repairs to various roads.

The survey will eliminate some roads, which may be in the system at present, but there is expectation that more roads will be added than dropped. This will be especially true of such suburban additions as LaVale, Cresaptown, Bowman's Addition, and similar areas where many homes have been erected in the past 15 years.

At present the county as a whole has 645.98 miles of roads and of this 485.74 miles are in the bona fide system. The various incorporated communities have 172.009 miles of roads in the bona fide county system.

About 75.25 percent of the total bona fide roads system is in the county. The following percentages are in the incorporated communities. Cumberland, 17.40 per cent (this includes paved alleys); Barton, .39 per cent; Frostburg, 3.63 per cent; Lonaconing, .95 per cent; Luke, .46 per cent; Midland, .43 per cent; and Westernport, 1.41 per cent.

Mileage in the communities is as follows. Cumberland, 116.163; Barton, 3.420; Frostburg, 27.087; Lonaconing, 7.520; Luke, 3.200; Midland, 3.385; and Westernport, 11.234.

Women Named To Bank Posts

Two local women have been appointed to the new charge account department that has been set up at First National Bank, according to A. W. Tindal, president.

They are Mrs. Kathleen (Moore) McSorley, of 309 Dorn Avenue, and Mrs. Lucille McGeady, 216 Decatur Street.

Mrs. McSorley is a native of Frostburg, graduate of Beall High School in 1929 and worked as secretary-clerk in the office of Co-operative Finance Company until 1940. She was employed in the Credit Department of Maurice's Department Store from 1941 through 1943 and continued on until 1945.

Mrs. McGeady was employed in 1918 saleslady and buyer for Gross Brothers Department Store, and in turn by Harrison's, Public Service and Maurice's department stores, all successors to the Gross Brothers. At Maurice's Mrs. McGeady was in the credit department.

From 1944 to 1946 she resided in San Diego, Calif. From September 1946 until now she has been an investigator for the Cumberland Credit Bureau.

Ray Blose of near Butler, Pa., has been named manager of the bank's new department.

Woman Hurt In This Area Secretary To Eisenhower

Secrecy surrounding an auto crash a month ago Wednesday in the Cumberland area was bared yesterday with confirmation that one of the injured, a pretty blonde WAVE, is President Eisenhower's "Girl Friday."

Chief Yeoman Helen Elizabeth Weaver, 28, Hanover, Pa., suffered lacerations and other injuries in the accident March 1 on Route 220 near Centerville, and was hospitalized at Sacred Heart Hospital.

At the time Col. Robert Schultz, U. S. Army, came here from Washington to visit Miss Weaver, but he was reluctant to release information about her and three companions in the mishap. However, hospital records listed her as a secretary at the White House.

Described in an NEA dispatch Tuesday as a "sharpshooter with double-barrelled personality," Miss Weaver is one of two personal secretaries to the President. She took dictation from him when he was a general in charge of SHAPE headquarters in France.

In her present job, Miss Weaver is expected to sit tight on White House secrets and international conferences. However, she has had ample practice in handling top brass secrets since enlisting in the Navy in 1944.

Miss Weaver has held jobs in the offices of Admirals Chester Nimitz, Louis Denfield and Forrest P. Sherman. Before entering service, she did bookkeeping for a York county (Pa.) farming concern.

While hospitalized here, it was reported, Miss Weaver kept her exact duties a secret.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen
Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Advertisement.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 2—(INS)—I'd say that Bela Darvi is playing in great good luck. She gets Charles Boyer and Richard Widmark in her first American picture, "Hell And High Water." Since "Don Juan In Hell," I've been convinced that Charles Boyer is one of our very finest actors on the screen.

The story of "Hell And High Water" is by David Hempstead, and is scripted by Jesse Lasky Jr. It's a very dramatic yarn about three people on an island who overhear atomic plots against the USA, and do something about it.

Miss Darvi, Polish born, was brought up in France. She's an extremely pretty girl and has been working hard in preparation for her motion picture debut.

Usually I look out the window when a studio mentions a sequel to one of their pictures, thinking it's a not too subtle a form of publicity. But I happen to know that Dore Schary is actually planning a sequel to "The Affairs Of Dobe Gillis," which Arthur Loew Jr., will produce in early summer.

Again Debbie Reynolds and Bobby Van will be starred, and it will be made as soon as Debbie returns from her South American trip.

In Paris Bing Crosby, Lindsay, John Scott Trotter and Bill Morrow traveled to Versailles to see about renting the famous villa of the late Lady Elsie Mendl. Price—$1,000 per month, minus linen and china—and very cheap if you ask me for such a beautiful place.

My spy in gay Paree writes: "About April 20, Bing takes Lindsay to Rome for an audience with the Pope. Never was there a boy as thrilled as Lindsay who is seeing New York, Paris, London, Rome and possibly Madrid for the first time."

Jeff Chandler telephoned me and wants all the rumor hounds to know that it's true he's living in his dressing room on the Universal-International lot while he's making his movie, "Brady's Bunch."

"But," said Jeff, "I'm working nights and my children are so noisy I can't get any sleep at home, so Marjorie suggested I sleep away from the house while I'm doing night scenes.

"You can't keep kids quiet, it isn't fair, and my two are just like all kids their age—noisy!" said Jeff.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

At Ciro's, Gloria Grahame (Cy Howards' girlfriend) a surprising twosome with Richard Coyle. He was once Mitzi Gaynor's boyfriend.

Vittorio Gassman gets here April 27 to meet his new daughter and to see Shelly Winters. He says he won't even stop to take off the grease paint after he steps off th stage in Italy.

Gertrude Niesen and her husband are back together and laughing at the rift rumors that continue to circulate about them.

Peggy Lloyd Ross, who recently parted from her husband, has joined King Kennedy's publicity organization. Peggy was a publicist before her marriage and writes very well.

Ben Blue almost had a stroke when he read in my column that Dorothy Lamour had mumps. She was his guest star last Sunday. Well, Ben, maybe you had them when you were a kid—why don't you check?

At the Gourmet-Beverly, Gwenn O'Connor and Dan Dailey, really happy.

At the Encore for dinner, Olivia De Havilland was with Alan Campbell.

Jimmy McHugh opens at the Copacabana tonight. Lisa Kirk, who has recorded some of his most successful songs, postponed her opening at the Persian Room so she could be at the Copa to give him a hand.

Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran spent last week at Random House in Palm Springs and they're very enthusiastic about the place. Betty opens at the Shubert Theatre in Chicago May 4.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Pure gold is known in the ewelry trade as 24-karat gold.

College Singers Schedule Tours Later In Month

Not All Selections Will Be Folk Music

FROSTBURG—Dr. Maurice Matteson, head of the music department of Frostburg State Teachers College, announced that plans are being made for the 1953 tour of the Maryland Singers, which will be confined this year to the Western part of Maryland.

According to Matteson, the organization has a larger number of soloists than in past years. Among the members who will contribute solo work on the forthcoming tours is Betty Ann Hanna who will sing a group of folk songs arranged by Katherine Davis as art songs.

For the first time this year, the Maryland Singers will also present music of composers other than folk writers and in addition to the opening group of music, Miss Anne Dixon of Cumberland, William Neff of Lonaconing and Frederic Eichhorn of Frostburg will contribute numbers from grand opera of the romantic period.

In addition to these definite solo contributions, there are incidental solos by Joanna Grindle, Carolyn Hull, Maureen Manley, Dale Swecker, Edward Wallace, and Warfield Wilson. This solo will contribute much to the effect of the Maryland Singers' tour which starts April 10 through Garrett County, April 17 down George's Creek and April 24, into Washington and Frederick Counties.

COLLEGE SINGERS REHEARSING FOR TOUR — Shown here are the soloists who have been selected to sing the leading parts in the various programs of the Maryland Singers on their 1953 annual tour. County To Get More Mileage In Road System

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday was informed by J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, that the State Roads Commission has accepted the county's application for inclusion of additional mileage in the bona fide roads system.

A total of about 25 miles had been requested for addition to the system, but the State Roads Commission has allowed 28.22 miles. This will result in the county receiving about $17,000 in additional gasoline tax money based on mileage. The extra money will be made available starting July 1.

This information was received by Chapman from George W. Cassell, senior assistant highway engineer for the State Roads Commission, at a conference today.

Cassell also discussed with Chapman the survey of the entire county roads system starting May 4. It will determine the roads which will be part of the bona fide roads system as of July 1, 1954.

The survey is expected to take more than two months and will be made by SRC personnel. Chapman will have one of the supervisory employes of his department accompany the SRC men on the survey.

Results of the survey will be included in listings and also on large maps. The maps will show the entire county roads system with a cross index and symbols for bridges, widths of roads, type of surface and other pertinent data. Chapman said the survey and data which results will eliminate any confusion which exists on what roads are part of the bona fide system. This problem has plagued county commissioners for many years when property owners came before the board to request repairs to various roads.

The survey will eliminate some roads, which may be in the system at present, but there is expectation that more roads will be added than dropped. This will be especially true of such suburban additions as LaVale, Cresaptown, Bowman's Addition, and similar areas where many homes have been erected in the past 15 years.

At present the county as a whole has 645.98 miles of roads and of this 485.74 miles are in the bona fide system. The various incorporated communities have 172.009 miles of roads in the bona fide county system.

About 75.25 percent of the total bona fide roads system is in the county. The following percentages are in the incorporated communities. Cumberland, 17.40 per cent (this includes paved alleys); Barton, .39 per cent; Frostburg, 3.63 per cent; Lonaconing, .95 per cent; Luke, .46 per cent; Midland, .43 per cent; and Westernport, 1.41 per cent.

Mileage in the communities is as follows. Cumberland, 116.163; Barton, 3.420; Frostburg, 27.087; Lonaconing, 7.520; Luke, 3.200; Midland, 3.385; and Westernport, 11.234.

Women Named To Bank Posts

Two local women have been appointed to the new charge account department that has been set up at First National Bank, according to A. W. Tindal, president.

They are Mrs. Kathleen (Moore) McSorley, of 309 Dorn Avenue, and Mrs. Lucille McGeady, 216 Decatur Street.

Mrs. McSorley is a native of Frostburg, graduate of Beall High School in 1929 and worked as secretary-clerk in the office of Cooperative Finance Company until 1940. She was employed in the Credit Department of Maurice's Department Store from 1941 through 1943 and continued on until 1945.

Mrs. McGeady was employed in 1918 saleslady and buyer for Gross Brothers Department Store, and in turn by Harrison's, Public Service and Maurice's department stores, all successors to the Gross Brothers. At Maurice's Mrs. McGeady was in the credit department.

From 1944 to 1946 she resided in San Diego, Calif. From September 1946 until now she has been an investigator for the Cumberland Credit Bureau.

Ray Blose of near Butler, Pa., has been named manager of the bank's new department.

HEADS ELKS — Joseph F. Stakem, above, was installed as exalted ruler of BPO Elks 63 last night succeeding Earl Nonnenmann.

Rotarians Plan Bedford Meeting

A number of members of the Cumberland Rotary Club will attend the conference of District 264, Rotary International, in Bedford Springs Hotel, April 12 through April 14, according to James Weber, president.

Registration will be conducted Sunday, April 12, in the hotel with the host club being Chambersburg, Pa. A. L. Nichols, of the Chambersburg club, will be conference chairman.

Committee reports will be given Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening in Bedford High School Auditorium, Philip Lovejoy, retired secretary of Rotary International, will speak.

Monday morning session at the hotel will be devoted to committee reports and routine business. Monday afternoon Albert J. Nesbitt, Philadelphia industrialist and civic leader, will speak on "Human Rights From the Rotary Standpoint."

Monday evening the convention dinner and governor's ball will be held in the hotel. Tuesday morning will include reports. The conference will adjourn Tuesday following the luncheon.

Woman Hurt In This Area Secretary To Eisenhower

Secrecy surrounding an auto crash a month ago Wednesday in the Cumberland area was bared yesterday with confirmation that one of the injured, a pretty blonde WAVE, is President Eisenhower's "Girl Friday."

Chief Yeoman Helen Elizabeth Weaver, 28, Hanover, Pa., suffered lacerations and other injuries in the accident March 1 on Route 220 near Centerville, and was hospitalized at Sacred Heart Hospital.

At the time Col. Robert Schultz, U. S. Army, came here from Washington to visit Miss Weaver, but he was reluctant to release information about her and three companions in the mishap. However, hospital records listed her as a secretary at the White House.

Described in an NEA dispatch Tuesday as a "sharpshooter with double-barrelled personality," Miss Weaver is one of two personal secretaries to the President. She took dictation from him when he was a general in charge of SHAPE headquarters in France.

In her present job, Miss Weaver is expected to sit tight on White House secrets and international conferences. However, she has had ample practice in handling top brass secrets since enlisting in the Navy in 1944.

Miss Weaver has held jobs in the offices of Admirals Chester Nimitz, Louis Denfield and Forrest P. Sherman. Before entering service, she did bookkeeping for a York county (Pa.) farming concern.

While hospitalized here, it was reported, Miss Weaver kept her exact duties a secret.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.—Advertisement.

Westernport Officials Are Reappointed

FCC Will Be Asked To Check Interference

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Katherine Dailey, city clerk; James Griffith, chief of police, and Horace P. Whitworth Sr., attorney, were reappointed at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners Wednesday evening in a session lasting nearly four hours.

Whitworth's salary was set at $100 per year the same as previously.

The appointments made were for 14 months, from April 1 to June 30, 1954, to conform with the new charter of the town. In July 1954 the appointments will be made for one year and in July, 1955, they will be made for a two year period.

A petition bearing the names of 50 persons requesting that something be done to try to eliminate interference to television and radio reception in the Westernport area, was read.

It was ordered that the city clerk ask the Federal Communication Commission to send a representative here to make an investigation.

It was ordered that no parking signs be placed on the south side of Church Street when funerals are being held in that vicinity.

William Mayles, chief of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, conferred with city officials relative to converting its old fire truck, equipping it with a 750 gallon booster pump so firemen could use foam spray, especially useful in gasoline fires. Mayles stated the cost would be $268.80 for equipment and foam.

The Mayor and council authorized the fire company to proceed with arrangements but not to cost over $275. Mayles said there would be no cost for installation, as the firemen will do that work.

A letter was read from the hourly paid workers of the street department asking a wage increase. It was tabled for two weeks.

The traffic light at the corner of Main and Washington Street will be adjusted to give more time to traffic going up and down Main Street.

The new time for Main Street will be 30 seconds, Washington Street 18 seconds and walk 12 seconds. The walk light will be only every third time.

The State Road Commission is putting up steel railing at the Westernport end of Maryland-West Virginia Inter-State Bridge to replace wooden railing.

JAPANESE WAR BRIDES and their children visit the Tidal Basin to get a preview of Washington's cherry blossoms. The 1953 cherry blossom festival will be held April 8 to 12. (International Soundphoto)

College Singers Schedule Tours Later In Month

Not All Selections Will Be Folk Music

FROSTBURG—Dr. Maurice Matteson, head of the music department of Frostburg State Teachers College, announced that plans are being made for the 1953 tour of the Maryland Singers, which will be confined this year to the Western part of Maryland.

According to Matteson, the organization has a larger number of soloists than in past years. Among the members who will contribute solo work on the forthcoming tours is Betty Ann Hanna who will sing a group of folk songs arranged by Katherine Davis as art songs.

For the first time this year, the Maryland Singers will also present music of composers other than folk writers and in addition to the opening group of music, Miss Anne Dixon of Cumberland, William Neff of Lonaconing and Frederic Eichhorn of Frostburg will contribute numbers from grand opera of the romantic period.

In addition to these definite solo contributions, there are incidental solos by Joanna Grindle, Carolyn Hull, Maureen Manley, Dale Swecker, Edward Wallace, and Warfield Wilson. This solo will contribute much to the effect of the Maryland Singers' tour which starts April 10 through Garrett County, April 17 down George's Creek and April 24, into Washington and Frederick Counties.

COLLEGE SINGERS REHEARSING FOR TOUR — Shown here are the soloists who have been selected to sing the leading parts in the various programs of the Maryland Singers on their 1953 annual tour. Westernport Officials Are Reappointed

FCC Will Be Asked To Check Interference

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Katherine Dailey, city clerk; James Griffith, chief of police, and Horace P. Whitworth Sr., attorney, were reappointed at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners Wednesday evening in a session lasting nearly four hours.

Whitworth's salary was set at $100 per year the same as previously.

The appointments made were for 14 months, from April 1 to June 30, 1954, to conform with the new charter of the town. In July 1954 the appointments will be made for one year and in July, 1955, they will be made for a two year period.

A petition bearing the names of 50 persons requesting that something be done to try to eliminate interference to television and radio reception in the Westernport area, was read.

It was ordered that the city clerk ask the Federal Communication Commission to send a representative here to make an investigation.

It was ordered that no parking signs be placed on the south side of Church Street when funerals are being held in that vicinity.

William Mayles, chief of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, conferred with city officials relative to converting its old fire truck, equipping it with a 750 gallon booster pump so firemen could use foam spray, especially useful in gasoline fires. Mayles stated the cost would be $268.80 for equipment and foam.

The Mayor and council authorized the fire company to proceed with arrangements but not to cost over $275. Mayles said there would be no cost for installation, as the firemen will do that work.

A letter was read from the hourly paid workers of the street department asking a wage increase. It was tabled for two weeks.

The traffic light at the corner of Main and Washington Street will be adjusted to give more time to traffic going up and down Main Street.

The new time for Main Street will be 30 seconds, Washington Street 18 seconds and walk 12 seconds. The walk light will be only every third time.

The State Road Commission is putting up steel railing at the Westernport end of Maryland-West Virginia Inter-State Bridge to replace wooden railing.

Marciano-Walcott Fight Reset For May 15

Rocky Suffers Nose Injury At Training Camp

Illinois Ring Body Oks Postponement Of Contest Five Weeks

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—A nose injury to Champion Rocky Marciano today resulted in a five-week postponement of his title fight with Jersey Joe Walcott from April 10 until May 15 at the Chicago Stadium.

The site, ticket arrangement (calling for 12,600 "ringside" tickets at the $50 top) and national television set-up all remain unchanged. The Illinois State Athletic Commission approved the postponement.

Comes As Surprise

The nose was bleeding profusely from Sunday through Tuesday in Marciano's sparring sessions at his Holland camp.

It was recalled that Al Weill, Marciano's manager, was manager of Marty Servo, who never was able to defend his welterweight title he won from Freddie Cochrane because of a nose injury from a fight with Rocky Graziano.

At Holland, Weill said Marciano would lay off training for two weeks.

The International Boxing Club, which had requested the commission to approve the May 15 date, said that $191,205 worth of tickets had been sold, with $123,250 in mail and season reservations still to be picked up.

$50 Seats Move Sowly

The IBC recently admitted that the $50 seats have been moving slowly. Although there was a $504,645 gate when Marciano dethroned Walcott with a 13th round knockout at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium last Sept. 23, that fight was limited to theater TV only.

It had been expected the second meeting would prove a million dollar gate with a $750,000 gross and another $250,000 or $300,000 from television.

Like April 10, the new date is a Friday and the telecast will be sponsored by a razor company (Gillette).

FROSTBURG, April 2—The dual track and field meet between Beall High School and Fort Hill High School, scheduled here today, was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Coch Edward Finzel's Mountaineers host Flintstone High here in the opener instead of the game being at Flintstone as listed on the league schedule. The second game is set for Flintstone May 11.

Enordo Arnone, classy southpaw, who pitched Beall to three straight conference championships, is among the missing this season. George Miller, catcher, and Jack Burner, outfielder, also were graduated while Joe Glass, first sacker, has transferred to Mt. Savage High School.

The seven letterman returning are Bill Murray, Alan LaPorta, Dale Williams, Tommy Richards, "Buddy" Poland, Paul Thompson and Kenny Johnson. Poland, an outfielder, was the conference batting champion last season. Richards is expected to be the pitching mainstay this year.

Lou Baker Will Manage Demons

Kyle Is Assistant; Six Tossers Signed

FROSTBURG, April 2 — Lou Baker will serve as president and manager of the Frostburg Demons Baseball Club of the Bi-State League during the 1953 season and his assistant will be George "Lefty" Kyle, it was announced tonight.

Baker had accepted the managership of the Grantsville Sluggers of the same circuit but obtained his release to pilot Demons.

Six players have signed contracts with the Demons for the coming campaign. They are "Buddy" Poland, Jimmy Murray and Harold Scott, outfielders; Harry Minnicks, first baseman; Joe Wolfe, second baseman, and Jimmy Byrnes, shortstop.

This lad was regarded as one of the best penalty goal kickers in the long history of the schoolboy league. In 1928 and 1929 he kicked 17 consecutive penalty goals, a performance that never has been approached.

In 1929 he made the W.M.I. League all-star basketball team selected for The Daily News by league officials. This quint included Freddie Hamilton and Wilbert Huffman of Penn Avenue High's champs; Johnny Mullaney of LaSalle and Ray Middleton of Beall.

Nine years later he was a member of the Interstate Basketball League's championship team. Westvaco beat the Cumberland Cloakers, 37-33, to capture the title that season. Other members of the Westvaco Club were Bill Hahn, now Fort Hill grid and track coach; "Moose" Payne, Alvin Pence, Milton Sively, Melvin Moorehead and Donald Compton, who was killed in the Second World War.

The athlete pictured here began his baseball career in 1928 with the Tri-Towns Independents, managed by Pete Carey. He also has played with Barton, Keyser, B. & O., Midland Indians, Cumberland's Colts, independent nine in 1942, and last but not least with Westvaco teams in the Bi-State League, which he also has managed.

In 1937 he belted the pellet at a .424 clip with Westvaco to finish as runner-up to batting champion Joe McGinn of Cumberland who set the pace that season with an average of .429.

Nixon To Toss First Ball In Opening Game

President Eisenhower Won't Be Available For April 13 Tilt

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower will be on a little vacation April 13, so he won't be available to make the first pitch of the 1953 major league baseball season.

But he named a relief pitcher, Vice President Nixon, to start the game between the World Champion New York Yankees and the Washington Senators.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, paid his annual visit to the White House today to ask the President to throw out the first ball.

Griffith has been dropping by the White House on the same mission every year since 1910, when he first asked William Howard Taft to open the season.

Taft, a great baseball fan, enthusiastically accepted.

Griffith said Eisenhower said he was sorry he couldn't make it, and that the President promised to attend a game between the Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics April 23.

As usual, Griffith gave the President a gold-plated season pass. Also as usual, there was a fitted alligator handbag for the President's wife, with a season pass enclosed.

Griffith said Eisenhower didn't tell him where he is going. Possibly there's a reason for that. For the report is he's passing up baseball to get in a little golf that week at Augusta, Ga.

Braves Belt Dodgers

NEW ORLEANS, April 2 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves turned on the Champion Brooklyn Dodgers today and whacked them, 11-3.

Not even Joe Black could stop Charlie Grimm's sluggers. The relief artist started and was drubbed for five runs on four hits in as many innings, including homers by Ed Mathews and Ebba St. Clair. Clem Labine and Ronnie Negray were equally easy for the Boston batters.

National Open Prize Money Is Raised By USGA

Winner Gets $5,000 Of $20,000 Total

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—The biggest cash prize ever offered by the U. S. Golf Association will be posted for the biggest field ever to compete for the U. S. Open championship at Oakmont, Pa. June 9-13.

The USGA said the total prize money has been increased to approximately $20,000 with $5,000 going to the professional winner.

To take care of the larger entry expected as a result of the increased field and increased purse, the USGA today listed sectional qualifying rounds in 34 locations this year with 39 courses being used. The sectional rounds in five of the locations will be played over two courses.

Except at Honolulu, where Hawaii's golfers will qualify May 25, all the sectional events will be held Monday, June 1. A total of 300 exempt players and sectional qualifiers will play in the 36-hole championship qualifying test June 9-10 at the Oakmont Country Club and the nearby Pittsburgh Field Club.

The 149 low scorers and those tied for 149th place, plus Defending Champion Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N. C. will enter the 72-hole championship proper at Oakmont June 11.

Vic Raschi Injured, Yanks Blank A's, 6-0

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2 (AP) — Vic Raschi, veteran right-hander of the New York Yankees, was hit just below the right knee in the seventh inning of today's game with the Philadelphia Athletics by a savage line drive off the bat of Dave Philley.

Raschi, knocked down by the drive, was able to walk from the field and dress. As a precaution, x-rays were ordered.

The x-rays showed negative and Yank officials said Raschi should not miss his turn.

Raschi hurled seven innings of shutout ball, allowing only three hits, before the mishap and the Yankees went on to win the game, 6-0. Johnny Schmitz relieved Raschi and held the A's to one further hit.

The game closed out the Florida exhibition schedule for both clubs. Philadelphia won 14 and lost 10 while the champions' record was 14-12.

Hodges, who left the Brooklyn team in Mobile, Ala., will stay in the hospital for a couple of days.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 2 (INS) — Earl Combs, silver-thatched coach of the Red Sox, has retired from baseball.

And that simple announcement calls up a flood of memories of the Kentucky gentleman whom the late Miller Huggins once called "the ideal ball player."

Huggins once remarked that the Yankees he led were the toughest, most roistering outfit ever inflicted on any manager. With one exception. The exception was Earl Combs.

"Combs," Huggins would say, "is perfect on and off the field." And the records bear him out.

His life-time major league average for his 12 years with the Yanks was .325, and all this, mind you, was compiled as a lead-off man.

He came up to the Yanks in 1924 after hitting .380 and stealing 42 bases. He never stole more than 16 bases in any year with the Yanks although he had more speed than Joe DiMaggio.

Why try to steal when he had fellows like Mark Koenig, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel, Tony Lazzeri and Joe Dugan coming up behind him and every one of them a long ball hitter?

Sometimes Combs had to cover more ground than DiMaggio ever had to patrol because there were days when—let us put it tactfully—Ruth and Meusel were not feeling so good.

Combs was at his best when the pressure was on as is indicated by his four world series in which he went to bat 60 times, score 17 runs and made 21 hits for a tidy .350 average.

It was an accident to Combs just 29 years ago that taught us never to go out on a limb with rash criticism or forecasts.

We were traveling with the Yanks on a western trip that year—1924—and the only man on the club hitting a lick was Whitey Witt, the veteran centerfielder.

But when we reached Cleveland Huggins benched Witt and put the rookie Combs in centerfield. And in that very first game in Cleveland Combs slid home and broke his leg.

We can still see him lying there with his foot turned at right angle to his leg.

So we sat down and wrote a blistering attack on Huggins. Here, we wrote, was a fine promising career ruined by the dumb act of a dumb manager in benching the only guy hitting in favor of a rookie.

Yes, sir, Huggins surely ruined that boy because for the next dozen years he could hit only .325. And Huggins never let us forget it. For years thereafter he'd meet us and chirp, "say, wasn't it too bad that I ruined Combs?"

As Huggins said, Combs had everything. He could hit, run and field and he was smart. And he was a model of deportment on or off the field. But with it all he was a regular guy. We're going to miss him.

Senators Will Not Shorten Left Field

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Griffith Stadium, with one of the largest playing fields in the majors, is going to stay that way.

The Washington Senators announced they have dropped plans to build a bullpen in leftfield—and thereby cut 15 feet off the playing area.

The reason given by the Senators: Other improvements took too long, and there isn't time enough left to construct the bullpen.

There is enough salt in the ocean to cover the entire surface of the United States with a layer a mile and a half thick.

Marciano-Walcott Fight Reset For May 15

Rocky Suffers Nose Injury At Training Camp

Illinois Ring Body Oks Postponement Of Contest Five Weeks

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP)—A nose injury to Champion Rocky Marciano today resulted in a five-week postponement of his title fight with Jersey Joe Walcott from April 10 until May 15 at the Chicago Stadium.

The site, ticket arrangement (calling for 12,600 "ringside" tickets at the $50 top) and national television set-up all remain unchanged. The Illinois State Athletic Commission approved the postponement.

Comes As Surprise

The surprise move came after a doctor of the commission and a Holland, Mich. eye-nose-throat specialist late yesterday treated a bleeding area in Marciano's right nostril and recommended a postponement to permit complete healing.

The nose was bleeding profusely from Sunday through Tuesday in Marciano's sparring sessions at his Holland camp.

It was recalled that Al Weill, Marciano's manager, was manager of Marty Servo, who never was able to defend his welterweight title he won from Freddie Cochrane because of a nose injury from a fight with Rocky Graziano.

Walcott, 39-year-old former champion, who had been hustled to Chicago last Monday to help perk ticket sales, announced he would leave during the day for Atlantic City, N. J. and resume training at Pleasantville, N. J.

At Holland, Weill said Marciano would lay off training for two weeks.

The International Boxing Club, which had requested the commission to approve the May 15 date, said that $191,205 worth of tickets had been sold, with $123,250 in mail and season reservations still to be picked up.

$50 Seats Move Sowly

The IBC recently admitted that the $50 seats have been moving slowly. Although there was a $504,645 gate when Marciano dethroned Walcott with a 13th round knockout at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium last Sept. 23, that fight was limited to theater TV only.

It had been expected the second meeting would prove a million dollar gate with a $750,000 gross and another $250,000 or $300,000 from television.

Like April 10, the new date is a Friday and the telecast will be sponsored by a razor company (Gillette).

Beall-Fort Hill Track, Field Meet Reset Saturday

FROSTBURG, April 2—The dual track and field meet between Beall High School and Fort Hill High School, scheduled here today, was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Coach J. Ray Hull of Beall High announced that the program will consist of one field event—the shot put—and eight track events, namely, 100 and 220 yard dashes, 440 and 880 yard runs, mile run and 440, 880 and mile relays.

The Maryland goalies were credited with four saves.

Beall Tossers Work Outdoors

Bi-State Champs Have Seven Lettermen Back

FROSTBURG, April 2 — Beall High School's baseball squad began outdoor drills on Tuesday in preparation for their 16-game schedule in the Bi-State Conference which gets under way on Monday, April 13.

Coch Edward Finzel's Mountaineers host Flintstone High here in the opener instead of the game being at Flintstone as listed on the league schedule. The second game is set for Flintstone May 11.

Enordo Arnone, classy southpaw, who pitched Beall to three straight conference championships, is among the missing this season. George Miller, catcher, and Jack Burner, outfielder, also were graduated while Joe Glass, first sacker, has transferred to Mt. Savage High School.

The seven letterman returning are Bill Murray, Alan LaPorta, Dale Williams, Tommy Richards, "Buddy" Poland, Paul Thompson and Kenny Johnson. Poland, an outfielder, was the conference batting champion last season. Richards is expected to be the pitching mainstay this year.

CLEVELAND, April 2 (AP) — Cleveland Indian fans will learn this summer what a symphony orchestra can do with that old baseball favorite: "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

Asked about the matter, the New York manager replied merely:

"I just didn't go."

The Giants and Cleveland Indians resumed their spring series play at Wichita this afternoon. Durocher is glum over the fact his team has lost eight straight games.

Lou Baker Will Manage Demons

Kyle Is Assistant; Six Tossers Signed

FROSTBURG, April 2 — Lou Baker will serve as president and manager of the Frostburg Demons Baseball Club of the Bi-State League during the 1953 season and his assistant will be George "Lefty" Kyle, it was announced tonight.

Baker had accepted the managership of the Grantsville Sluggers of the same circuit but obtained his release to pilot Demons.

Six players have signed contracts with the Demons for the coming campaign. They are "Buddy" Poland, Jimmy Murray and Harold Scott, outfielders; Harry Minnicks, first baseman; Joe Wolfe, second baseman, and Jimmy Byrnes, shortstop.

Bolt had three birdies going out and two coming in.

A native of Kitzmiller, Md., this athlete is a recognized star in three sports—soccer, baseball and basketball.

In his high school days he played four seasons in the W.M.I. Soccer League and was a regular on four teams in the basketball circuit.

He topped the scorers in the schoolboy booting loop in his sophomore, junior and senior years and finished third among the point getters as a freshman.

This lad was regarded as one of the best penalty goal kickers in the long history of the schoolboy league. In 1928 and 1929 he kicked 17 consecutive penalty goals, a performance that never has been approached.

In 1929 he made the W.M.I. League all-star basketball team selected for The Daily News by league officials. This quint included Freddie Hamilton and Wilbert Huffman of Penn Avenue High's champs; Johnny Mullaney of LaSalle and Ray Middleton of Beall.

Nine years later he was a member of the Interstate Basketball League's championship team. Westvaco beat the Cumberland Cloakers, 37-33, to capture the title that season. Other members of the Westvaco Club were Bill Hahn, now Fort Hill grid and track coach; "Moose" Payne, Alvin Pence, Milton Sively, Melvin Moorehead and Donald Compton, who was killed in the Second World War.

The athlete pictured here began his baseball career in 1928 with the Tri-Towns Independents, managed by Pete Carey. He also has played with Barton, Keyser, B. & O., Midland Indians, Cumberland's Colts, independent nine in 1942, and last but not least with Westvaco teams in the Bi-State League, which he also has managed.

In 1937 he belted the pellet at a .424 clip with Westvaco to finish as runner-up to batting champion Joe McGinn of Cumberland who set the pace that season with an average of .429.

This fellow is still active in baseball. What's his name?

He is Frank Patrone, of Piedmont, one of Bruce High School's all-time all-around athletes. The photo of Frank was taken in 1929 when he was playing on the Bruce High quint.

Battle To Draw

DETROIT, April 2 (INS) — Wes Bascom of St. Louis and Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont., battled their way to a draw tonight in a nationally televised eight round light-heavyweight bout at Detroit's Motor City arena.

In the split decision Referee Lou Handler gave Bascom a six point edge over the Brantford Blond Bomber. The gain, however, was wiped out by Judge Joe Greenberg's 43-37 decision in favor of Wallace and a 40-40 split by Judge Joe Appleton.

Statesmen As Comedians

I think I smell a trend. Not long ago Robert Hope was the guest of former Vice President Alben Barkley. The two men devoted the better part of 15 minutes assuring one another what splendid citizens they were, how deep was their mutual admiration and one thing and another.

John Crosby

Well, sir, Eddie Cantor was not to be outdone by that. A week or so later on the Colgate Comedy Hour, we find Mr. Cantor exchanging jokes with the statue of Abraham Lincoln in Lincoln's monument.

"Tell me, sir," said Cantor, who was doing his Maxie The Taxi bit, "what do you think of our new President? He's a Republican, you know."

"Nice that one of our boys finally made it," said the Lincoln statue.

Well, I don't know. Lincoln was quite a jokesmith in his own right but I feel strongly that he could have done better than that. A moment later Cantor was asking the Great Emancipator how he thought the Dodgers would do in the World Series this year. "I'm not a betting man," said the statue.

The skit closed with Cantor remarking: "Remember one thing, Mr. Lincoln. You can fool all of the people some of the time and you can fool some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

"Maxie," said the Lincoln statue, "you took the words right out of my mouth."

This was a little too much not only for Americans but even for some Canadians who saw it. Lotta Dempsey, writing in "The Toronto Globe and Mail," declared that Canadians "were wondering how millions of Mr. Cantor's fellow citizens might have felt about his wisecracking small talk with the memory of the Great Emancipator . . . They're feeling that perhaps the reason Canadians take umbrage, although outsiders, is because we have come to think of Lincoln as a humanitarian citizen of the world."

These are not the only recent examples of lese majeste either. In the last Ray Bolger movie, Mr. Bolger was made—against his will, I can only assume—to do a tap dance while portraits of Washington and Lincoln suddenly came to life and jigged away with him. If this sort of thing continues, we'll have to form a society for the preservation of our great public figures from the comedians.

Lincoln liked a joke as well as the next man and maybe a little bit better but I have a feeling he'd not have liked to have played straight man to Eddie Cantor, that he would have demanded a little better billing. Mr. Barkley didn't exactly play straight man to Mr. Hope; in fact, he got roughly as many laughs as Hope did. Still, there is a certain diminishing of authority of public office when an ex-vice president bandies wisecracks with an actor.

I don't know what can be done about this. Ever since Adlai Stevenson turned in such an extraordinary performance as a laughmaker during the campaign, all the other politicos have been aching to get into the act. When CBS opened its shiny new Television City in Hollywood, the roster of entertainers, a long and imposing one, included the presence of Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles and Governor Warren of California. Mayor Bowron participated in a sketch with Jack Benny which ended when he helped Benny push his aged Maxwell off the stage. Governor Warren then exchanged jokes—and some pretty good ones—with Gracie Allen. Of the two, I should say, Governor Warren showed the greater promise as a comedian—though I must admit his material was better.

But how, I keep asking myself, are you going to keep the politicians down in city hall after they've seen CBS? Next thing you know, all the senators are going to pad the payrolls with gagwriters; they'll insist on the choice evening time on the full network and start complaining about their billing. As I say, I don't see how this can be prevented. I do feel though that, if we can't restrain the live statesmen, we ought to protect the memory of the dead ones.

Nixon To Toss First Ball In Opening Game

President Eisenhower Won't Be Available For April 13 Tilt

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower will be on a little vacation April 13, so he won't be available to make the first pitch of the 1953 major league baseball season.

But he named a relief pitcher, Vice President Nixon, to start the game between the World Champpion New York Yankees and the Washington Senators.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, paid his annual visit to the White House today to ask the President to throw out the first ball.

Griffith has been dropping by the White House on the same mission every year since 1910, when he first asked William Howard Taft to open the season.

Taft, a great baseball fan, enthusiastically accepted.

Griffith said Eisenhower said he was sorry he couldn't make it, and that the President promised to attend a game between the Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics April 23.

As usual, Griffith gave the President a gold-plated season pass. Also as usual, there was a fitted alligator handbag for the President's wife, with a season pass enclosed.

Griffith said Eisenhower didn't tell him where he is going. Possibly there's a reason for that. For the report is he's passing up baseball to get in a little golf that week at Augusta, Ga.

Braves Belt Dodgers

NEW ORLEANS, April 2 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves turned on the Champion Brooklyn Dodgers today and whacked them, 11-3.

Not even Joe Black could stop Charlie Grimm's sluggers. The relief artist started and was drubbed for five runs on four hits in as many innings, including homers by Ed Mathews and Ebba St. Clair. Clem Labine and Ronnie Negray were equally easy for the Boston batters.

Max Surkont ptched eight innings for Milwaukee and allowed two runs on eight hits including a 400-foot homer by Roy Campanella.

Bobby Morgan hit for the circuit at the expense of Virgil Jester in the ninth.

Brooklyn	.....	010 001 001—	3 9 2
Milwaukee	....	103 110 50x—11	8 0

Black, Labine (5), Negray (7) and Campanella, Walker (4); Surkont, Jester (9) and St. Claire.

William Ewart Gladstone was British prime minister four times.

TOLEDO, O., April 2 (AP) — The new Toledo entry in the American Baseball Association will be called the Glass Sox.

The name was picked by a five-man committee, headed by Dick Smith, general manager of the club which was moved here from Milwaukee, from 500 names submitted on 7,500 entries in a contest co-sponsored by a local newspaper and the ball club.

Vejar, a student at New York University, may be eligible for a student deferment.

National Open Prize Money Is Raised By USGA

Winner Gets $5,000 Of $20,000 Total

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—The biggest cash prize ever offered by the U. S. Golf Association will be posted for the biggest field ever to compete for the U. S. Open championship at Oakmont, Pa. June 9-13.

The USGA said the total prize money has been increased to approximately $20,000 with $5,000 going to the professional winner.

To take care of the larger entry expected as a result of the increased field and increased purse, the USGA today listed sectional qualifying rounds in 34 locations this year with 39 courses being used. The sectional rounds in five of the locations will be played over two courses.

Except at Honolulu, where Hawaii's golfers will qualify May 25, all the sectional events will be held Monday, June 1. A total of 300 exempt players and sectional qualifiers will play in the 36-hole championship qualifying test June 9-10 at the Oakmont Country Club and the nearby Pittsburgh Field Club.

The 149 low scorers and those tied for 149th place, plus Defending Champion Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N. C. will enter the 72-hole championship proper at Oakmont June 11.

Top prize in last year's open at Dallas was $4,000 and the total prize money approximately $15,000. Second money was increased from $2,000 to $3,000 and every professional who turns in a 72 hole score for the championship proper will receive at least $150, instead of $100.

The scheduled of sectional qualifying rounds includes:

Washington, Charlotte, N. C., Pittsburgh (Allegheny and Shannonpin), Memphis, Tenn., Huntington, W. Va.

Vic Raschi Injured, Yanks Blank A's, 6-0

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 2 (AP) — Vic Raschi, veteran right-hander of the New York Yankees, was hit just below the right knee in the seventh inning of today's game with the Philadelphia Athletics by a savage line drive off the bat of Dave Philley.

Raschi, knocked down by the drive, was able to walk from the field and dress. As a precaution, x-rays were ordered.

The x-rays showed negative and Yank officials said Raschi should not miss his turn.

Raschi hurled seven innings of shutout ball, allowing only three hits, before the mishap and the Yankees went on to win the game, 6-0. Johnny Schmitz relieved Raschi and held the A's to one further hit.

The game closed out the Florida exhibition schedule for both clubs. Philadelphia won 14 and lost 10 while the champions' record was 14-12.

Gil's Swollen Ankles Blamed On Penicillin

NEW YORK, April 2 (INS)—An allergy to penicillin was blamed today as the cause of Gil Hodges' swollen ankles.

Dr. Herbert Fette examined the Dodger first baseman at Long Island College Hospital and attributed the swelling to penicillin injections Hodges received last week.

Hodges, who left the Brooklyn team in Mobile, Ala., will stay in the hospital for a couple of days.

Cards Sock Barons

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 2 (AP) — Stan Musial and Steve Bilko, tied for their club's lead in runs batted in this spring, drove in two tallies apiece today to help the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-3 decision over the Birmingham Barons.

Musial whacked his sixth exhibition home run with a man on in the third inning, and Bilko singled across two runs in the fifth.

Homers by Jim Busby and Jackie Jensen in the eighth, both off King, had knotted the score and set the stage for Yost's game-winning wallop.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 2 (INS) — Earl Combs, silver-thatched coach of the Red Sox, has retired from baseball.

And that simple announcement calls up a flood of memories of the Kentucky gentleman whom the late Miller Huggins once called "the ideal ball player."

Huggins once remarked that the Yankees he led were the toughest, most roistering outfit ever inflicted on any manager. With one exception. The exception was Earl Combs.

"Combs," Huggins would say, "is perfect on and off the field." And the records bear him out.

His life-time major league average for his 12 years with the Yanks was .325, and all this, mind you, was compiled as a lead-off man.

He came up to the Yanks in 1924 after hitting .380 and stealing 42 bases. He never stole more than 16 bases in any year with the Yanks although he had more speed than Joe DiMaggio.

Why try to steal when he had fellows like Mark Koenig, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel, Tony Lazzeri and Joe Dugan coming up behind him and every one of them a long ball hitter?

Sometimes Combs had to cover more ground than DiMaggio ever had to patrol because there were days when—let us put it tactfully—Ruth and Meusel were not feeling so good.

Combs was at his best when the pressure was on as is indicated by his four world series in which he went to bat 60 times, score 17 runs and made 21 hits for a tidy .350 average.

It was an accident to Combs just 29 years ago that taught us never to go out on a limb with rash criticism or forecasts.

We were traveling with the Yanks on a western trip that year—1924—and the only man on the club hitting a lick was Whitey Witt, the veteran centerfielder.

But when we reached Cleveland Huggins benched Witt and put the rookie Combs in centerfield. And in that very first game in Cleveland Combs slid home and broke his leg.

We can still see him lying there with his foot turned at right angle to his leg.

So we sat down and wrote a blistering attack on Huggins. Here, we wrote, was a fine promising career ruined by the dumb act of a dumb manager in benching the only guy hitting in favor of a rookie.

Yes, sir, Huggins surely ruined that boy because for the next dozen years he could hit only .325. And Huggins never let us forget it. For years thereafter he'd meet us and chirp, "say, wasn't it too bad that I ruined Combs?"

As Huggins said, Combs had everything. He could hit, run and field and he was smart. And he was a model of deportment on or off the field. But with it all he was a regular guy. We're going to miss him.

Senators Will Not Shorten Left Field

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—Griffith Stadium, with one of the largest playing fields in the majors, is going to stay that way.

The Washington Senators announced they have dropped plans to build a bullpen in leftfield—and thereby cut 15 feet off the playing area.

The reason given by the Senators: Other improvements took too long, and there isn't time enough left to construct the bullpen.

There is enough salt in the ocean to cover the entire surface of the United States with a layer a mile and a half thick.

Statesmen As Comedians

I think I smell a trend. Not long ago Robert Hope was the guest of former Vice President Alben Barkley. The two men devoted the better part of 15 minutes assuring one another what splendid citizens they were, how deep was their mutual admiration and one thing and another.

John Crosby

Well, sir, Eddie Cantor was not to be outdone by that. A week or so later on the Colgate Comedy Hour, we find Mr. Cantor exchanging jokes with the statue of Abraham Lincoln in Lincoln's monument.

"Tell me, sir," said Cantor, who was doing his Maxie The Taxi bit, "what do you think of our new President? He's a Republican, you know."

"Nice that one of our boys finally made it," said the Lincoln statue.

Well, I don't know. Lincoln was quite a jokesmith in his own right but I feel strongly that he could have done better than that. A moment later Cantor was asking the Great Emancipator how he thought the Dodgers would do in the World Series this year. "I'm not a betting man," said the statue.

The skit closed with Cantor remarking: "Remember one thing, Mr. Lincoln. You can fool all of the people some of the time and you can fool some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

"Maxie," said the Lincoln statue, "you took the words right out of my mouth."

This was a little too much not only for Americans but even for some Canadians who saw it. Lotta Dempsey, writing in "The Toronto Globe and Mail," declared that Canadians "were wondering how millions of Mr. Cantor's fellow citizens might have felt about his wisecracking small talk with the memory of the Great Emancipator . . . They're feeling that perhaps the reason Canadians take umbrage, although outsiders, is because we have come to think of Lincoln as a humanitarian citizen of the world."

These are not the only recent examples of lese majeste either. In the last Ray Bolger movie, Mr. Bolger was made—against his will, I can only assume—to do a tap dance while portraits of Washington and Lincoln suddenly came to life and jigged away with him. If this sort of thing continues, we'll have to form a society for the preservation of our great public figures from the comedians.

Lincoln liked a joke as well as the next man and maybe a little bit better but I have a feeling he'd not have liked to have played straight man to Eddie Cantor, that he would have demanded a little better billing. Mr. Barkley didn't exactly play straight man to Mr. Hope; in fact, he got roughly as many laughs as Hope did. Still, there is a certain diminishing of authority of public office when an ex-vice president bandies wisecracks with an actor.

I don't know what can be done about this. Ever since Adlai Stevenson turned in such an extraordinary performance as a laughmaker during the campaign, all the other politicos have been aching to get into the act. When CBS opened its shiny new Television City in Hollywood, the roster of entertainers, a long and imposing one, included the presence of Mayor Fletcher Bowron of Los Angeles and Governor Warren of California. Mayor Bowron participated in a sketch with Jack Benny which ended when he helped Benny push his aged Maxwell off the stage. Governor Warren then exchanged jokes—and some pretty good ones—with Gracie Allen. Of the two, I should say, Governor Warren showed the greater promise as a comedian—though I must admit his material was better.

But how, I keep asking myself, are you going to keep the politicians down in city hall after they've seen CBS? Next thing you know, all the senators are going to pad the payrolls with gagwriters; they'll insist on the choice evening time on the full network and start complaining about their billing. As I say, I don't see how this can be prevented. I do feel though that, if we can't restrain the live statesmen, we ought to protect the memory of the dead ones.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

NOTICE
Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and Council of Cumberland, did, in regular session on Monday, March 16, 1953, approve the Report of Commissioners on the closing of an Unnamed Alley and Short Avenue which extend northwardly from Isabel Street to Orlando Street and lie parallel to and westward of Ford Avenue. Said commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 1943 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said Unnamed Alley or Street. After meeting on the premises to be affected without hearing any claims for damages, the commissioners present the following:
"It is our opinion, therefore, that no damages are inflicted by the closing of said unnamed alley and Short Avenue and that no material benefit not already enjoyed, will accrue to adjoining property owners. It is therefore recommended that said alley and avenue be closed as indicated and that no damages be assessed or awarded to any adjoining property owner."
Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after March 16, 1953, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

State Senate Rejects Press Gag Rule Bill

Plan To Muzzle Newspapers Is Rejected 16-12

Della Says Present Laws Cover Subject

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—The Maryland Senate today rejected a move to prohibit state's attorneys and law enforcement officers from discussing a criminal case for publication before it came up for trial.

The vote was 12-16.

Supporters of the so-called "gag rule" voiced consolation, however, in making it an issue and thereby discouraging any action by the prosecution which might prejudice a defendant's case before it reached the courtroom.

Earlier this week the bill received tentative approval by the senators when they voted, 14-12, to accept the Judiciary Committee's favorable report.

Cites Grammer Trial

Sen. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd), who sponsored the bill, explained it was introduced as a direct result of actions by the Baltimore City state's attorney's office in the Grammer murder case.

Kimble Favors Free Press

Senator Kimble of Allegany County, voted with the majority of the Senate yesterday in defeating a bill which would prohibit police, state's attorneys, and other enforcement officers from talking to newspapermen and others about criminal cases before trial. Senator Kimble, a Republican, is minority leader in the State Senate.

Senator Fraley, Republican from Garrett County voted for the bill which would gag the freedom of the press.

Dippel, supported by Sen. Melnicove (D-Balto 4th), argued that George Edward Grammer was denied the right of a jury trial because the prosecution has made public statements which, he said, convicted him in the readers' minds before he went on trial.

Grammer was convicted of first degree murder in the death of his wife, Dorothy May Grammer, last fall with Criminal Court Judge Herman Moser sitting as the jury. Last month Grammer was denied a retrial by the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

Enough Laws On Books

Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) argued against the bill from the floor.

"We certainly have enough laws on the books now to take care of the situation," Della said. "The trouble is our judges don't have guts enough — or rather nerve enough—to charge a reporter or photographer who violates those laws with contempt of court."

Della agreed the question might arise of an "eager-beaver" state's attorney or reporter not permitting a defendant a fair trial.

"But the main thing is whether the judge has given him a fair trial.

"I think Grammer got a fair trial. Every man in this Senate Chamber knows he was the man who killed his wife."

Could Set Precedent

Dippel asked Della if he thought Grammer could have had a fair trial by a jury.

Della answered that whether Grammer was tried by the court judge or a jury, the end would have been the same: The man was guilty.

"You didn't answer my question," replied Dippel.

"Yes," Della said, "I think he could have had a fair jury trial."

Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) suggested that if "we start setting an example in this state of Maryland of muzzling the press, other states might do the same thing and we'd be starting the same that happened in Argentina and those other restricted countries."

Melnicove, in explaining his vote, repeated he thought it was introduced for a "very worthy purpose" and congratulated Dippel for having the backbone to sponsor a bill which was sure to arouse the ire of the press.

Muzzles Prosecution

"But this bill does not provide a penalty in case a state's attorney would violate it," Melnicove added. "And since I feel confident the purpose of the bill has somewhat been carried out, I'll vote against it."

Sen. Barton (D-Balto 2nd) said he feared "these defense attorneys are trying to take a great advantage by trying to muzzle the prosecution but not muzzling the defense. The defense attorney could make all the statements he wanted to, but the prosecutor couldn't."

Chairman Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd) of the House Judiciary Committee, as a result of Dippel's bill, sponsored a resolution to ask the governor to name a commission to consider the need for legislation governing the relationship between the press, radio and television with law enforcement agencies and the courts.

McGraw, Council Candidates Form Campaign Slate

Kenneth W. McGraw, Allegany High School senior and a candidate for mayor in the Youth Mayor and Council campaign, last night announced his slate and platform.

McGraw who polled 199 votes in the primary balloting against his opponent David B. Walton's 311, said his ticket includes Chester L. Price and Donald Paye, also of Allegany High. Price polled 497 tallies in the primary and Paye garnered 436 votes. McGraw's opponent, Walton, is also an Allegany senior and thus far he has travelled the political road as an independent.

Following is the platform which McGraw and his ticket are using as the basis for an active campaign:

"(1) It seems that many of the projects of the city are dragged out over a long period of time to a place where they become bothersome and expensive. For instance the flood control project, supposedly a five-year program, is far behind construction schedule causing inconvenience to tourists as well as citizens. If elected mayor, I will use the influence of the Council to bring this project to a speedy completion.

"(2) Another example of inefficiency is the treatment of individuals interested in constructing industry in this area. They are antagonized and perhaps discouraged by the slow action and needless red tape of council action. I believe with conditions existing in Cumberland today, that immediate and positive action on any such proposal, large or small, is the least to be expected.

"(3) Our traffic situation can be remedied by the use of numerous and comprehensive surveys completed and conducted by the State Roads Commission and others in our city. These surveys have been ignored, thereby wasting the money of the taxpayer and leaving Cumberland in a turmoil of traffic jams.

"(4) Establishment under the recreation department of another city park on the West Side of the city, comparable in size and scope to our present Constitution Park. This park would interest and serve the people of North End and West Side.

"(5) I would form a voluntary commission of interested as well as competent citizens to supplement the Recreation Department in a survey of facilities already existing for recreation. Many of these facilities owned by churches, clubs, schools and other organizations are used only once or twice each week. These could be worked into a more complete plan of recreation covering all phases, ages and days of recreation, thereby fulfilling the responsibility assumed by the City of Cumberland when it formed a Recreation Department.

"(6) Continue and increase the efforts to improve our law enforcement agencies followed up with a strict interpretation of the law."

"Greener Pastures" Goal Of Allegany Co. Program

A five point program designed to improve pasture lands is being organized for farmers of Allegany County.

Ralph M. McHenry, county agent, yesterday said his office is now seeking the enrollment of farmers in this "Greener Pastures" program.

It is being planned by the Extension Service of the University of Maryland in cooperation with the U. S. Soil Conservation Commission and Production Marketing Administration offices here.

The five points which will be stressed toward better pasture management will include adequate liming and fertilization, rotation of grazing, control of weeds through clipping, more production of ladion and orchard grasses and the use of supplemental pastures during the hot-dry summer season.

The program, McHenry noted, is for the benefit of dairymen and farmers raising beef cattle, although all farmers are welcomed to enroll in the project. McHenry pointed out that pasture grass is one of the cheapest feeds in raising beef cattle and toward production of milk.

Sometime this fall a check list will be sent to each of the enrolled farmers who will submit a report on the results of their participation in the program.

A few interested farmers in nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania are also being included, McHenry said.

The choir will present two selections; "He Is Risen" by Simper and "As It Began To Dawn" by Whitredge. Organist for the service this year will be Miss Shirley Brinkman, Fort Hill High School senior, who will use as her prelude "Alleluia" by Mozart, "The Holy City" by Adams as the offertory and "Gloria In Excelsios" as the postlude.

Police Boys Club To Begin Baseball, Softball Practice

Members of the Cumberland Police Boys Club will begin "spring training" in softball and baseball on Saturday at 10 a. m. in Constitution Park.

Officer Harry Iser, according to Chief R. Emmett Flynn, has been named recreation leader of the club and will replace Leo E. P. Law of the Police Detective Bureau, whose detective duties take most of his time.

However, Law will assist Officer Iser in the summer months program. The age limit to join the club is 16, Iser said, and all boys of Cumberland and vicinity are welcome to join.

The club has an athletic program throughout the year and meets once a month during the winter. After the pool opens at Constitution Park this year the members will hold meetings twice weekly on Wednesday and Saturday mornings at the park.

Iser urges all members to turn out on Saturday in order that two strong teams may be organized. The club usually enters a team in city competition during the softball and baseball seasons.

Other sports in which members take part include basketball, boxing, volley ball, track, with both Iser and Law as coaches. A highlight of the year is the two-weeks camp program at Camp Royal on Sideling Hill which provided the best of fishing and swimming to the members.

The operation of the camp, Law noted, depends on donations of residents. Future activities will be planned by the club in order to purchase much needed sports equipment.

Any boys interested in joining the club may do so by getting the information at police headquarters or from any officer, Law noted. About 300 now belong.

Traffic Club To Meet Wednesday

The Tri-State Traffic Club will meet Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, according to John Carnochan, secretary.

Entertainment for the event is being planned by a committee headed by Eugene Howell. April is designated by the club as "Perfect Shipping Month," and continued interest in freight claim deduction and prevention will be stressed.

Name Carscaden Artmor Director

William R. Carscaden, local attorney, has been elected a new director of Artmor Plastics Corporation, which operates a plastics business here at 1003 Oldtown Road.

The three other directors, Arthur C. Morgan, S. Russ Minter and J. Henry Holzshu, announced at the annual stockholders meeting March 9 that they intended expanding the number of directors to four. At a meeting Wednesday the three who have served as directors since the formation of the corporation elected Carscaden as the new director.

Officers of the corporation are Morgan, president; Minter, vice-president, and Holzshu, secretary-treasurer. Holzshu formerly served only as secretary but took on the treasurer's duties after Charles H. Hyde had to resign because of other duties.

Artmor Plastics, which acquired its larger facilities on Oldtown Road last May, now makes a number of industrial parts which are used by other manufacturers.

136 Get Jobs During March

There were 136 persons placed in jobs last month by the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security, it was announced yesterday by Francis A. Kenney, manager.

Of this total, 126 persons were placed in local jobs and 10 placements were verified for positions outside the Cumberland area. Last month the local office referred 299 persons to jobs of which 196 were local, and 53 were referred to jobs outside the area.

State Senate Rejects Press Gag Rule Bill

Della Says Present Laws Cover Subject

ANNAPOLIS, April 2 (AP)—The Maryland Senate today rejected a move to prohibit state's attorneys and law enforcement officers from discussing a criminal case for publication before it came up for trial.

The vote was 12-16.

Supporters of the so-called "gag rule" voiced consolation, however, in making it an issue and thereby discouraging any action by the prosecution which might prejudice a defendant's case before it reached the courtroom.

Earlier this week the bill received tentative approval by the senators when they voted, 14-12, to accept the Judiciary Committee's favorable report.

Cites Grammer Trial

Sen. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd), who sponsored the bill, explained it was introduced as a direct result of actions by the Baltimore City state's attorney's office in the Grammer murder case.

Kimble Favors Free Press

Senator Kimble of Allegany County, voted with the majority of the Senate yesterday in defeating a bill which would prohibit police, state's attorneys, and other enforcement officers from talking to newspapermen and others about criminal cases before trial. Senator Kimble, a Republican, is minority leader in the State Senate.

Senator Fraley, Republican from Garrett County voted for the bill which would gag the freedom of the press.

Dippel, supported by Sen. Melnicove (D-Balto 4th), argued that George Edward Grammer was denied the right of a jury trial because the prosecution has made public statements which, he said, convicted him in the readers' minds before he went on trial.

Grammer was convicted of first degree murder in the death of his wife, Dorothy May Grammer, last fall with Criminal Court Judge Herman Moser sitting as the jury. Last month Grammer was denied a retrial by the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

Enough Laws On Books

Senate President Della (D-Balto 6th) argued against the bill from the floor.

"We certainly have enough laws on the books now to take care of the situation," Della said. "The trouble is our judges don't have guts enough — or rather nerve enough—to charge a reporter or photographer who violates those laws with contempt of court."

Della agreed the question might arise of an "eager-beaver" state's attorney or reporter not permitting a defendant a fair trial.

"But the main thing is whether the judge has given him a fair trial.

"I think Grammer got a fair trial. Every man in this Senate Chamber knows he was the man who killed his wife."

Could Set Precedent

Dippel asked Della if he thought Grammer could have had a fair trial by a jury.

Della answered that whether Grammer was tried by the court judge or a jury, the end would have been the same: The man was guilty.

"You didn't answer my question," replied Dippel.

"Yes," Della said, "I think he could have had a fair jury trial."

Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) suggested that if "we start setting an example in this state of Maryland of muzzling the press, other states might do the same thing and we'd be starting the same that happened in Argentina and those other restricted countries."

Melnicove, in explaining his vote, repeated he thought it was introduced for a "very worthy purpose" and congratulated Dippel for having the backbone to sponsor a bill which was sure to arouse the ire of the press.

Muzzles Prosecution

"But this bill does not provide a penalty in case a state's attorney would violate it," Melnicove added. "And since I feel confident the purpose of the bill has somewhat been carried out, I'll vote against it."

Sen. Barton (D-Balto 2nd) said he feared "these defense attorneys are trying to take a great advantage by trying to muzzle the prosecution but not muzzling the defense. The defense attorney could make all the statements he wanted to, but the prosecutor couldn't."

Chairman Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd) of the House Judiciary Committee, as a result of Dippel's bill, sponsored a resolution to ask the governor to name a commission to consider the need for legislation governing the relationship between the press, radio and television with law enforcement agencies and the courts.

McGraw, Council Candidates Form Campaign Slate

Kenneth W. McGraw, Allegany High School senior and a candidate for mayor in the Youth Mayor and Council campaign, last night announced his slate and platform.

McGraw who polled 199 votes in the primary balloting against his opponent David B. Walton's 311, said his ticket includes Chester L. Price and Donald Paye, also of Allegany High. Price polled 497 tallies in the primary and Paye garnered 436 votes. McGraw's opponent, Walton, is also an Allegany senior and thus far he has travelled the political road as an independent.

Following is the platform which McGraw and his ticket are using as the basis for an active campaign:

"(1) It seems that many of the projects of the city are dragged out over a long period of time to a place where they become bothersome and expensive. For instance the flood control project, supposedly a five-year program, is far behind construction schedule causing inconvenience to tourists as well as citizens. If elected mayor, I will use the influence of the Council to bring this project to a speedy completion.

"(2) Another example of inefficiency is the treatment of individuals interested in constructing industry in this area. They are antagonized and perhaps discouraged by the slow action and needless red tape of council action. I believe with conditions existing in Cumberland today, that immediate and positive action on any such proposal, large or small, is the least to be expected.

"(3) Our traffic situation can be remedied by the use of numerous and comprehensive surveys completed and conducted by the State Roads Commission and others in our city. These surveys have been ignored, thereby wasting the money of the taxpayer and leaving Cumberland in a turmoil of traffic jams.

"(4) Establishment under the recreation department of another city park on the West Side of the city, comparable in size and scope to our present Constitution Park. This park would interest and serve the people of North End and West Side.

"(5) I would form a voluntary commission of interested as well as competent citizens to supplement the Recreation Department in a survey of facilities already existing for recreation. Many of these facilities owned by churches, clubs, schools and other organizations are used only once or twice each week. These could be worked into a more complete plan of recreation covering all phases, ages and days of recreation, thereby fulfilling the responsibility assumed by the City of Cumberland when it formed a Recreation Department.

"(6) Continue and increase the efforts to improve our law enforcement agencies followed up with a strict interpretation of the law."

KENNETH W. MCGRAW
For Mayor

Fire School Dates Listed

A series of Regional Schools, sponsored by the Fire Service Extension of the University of Maryland will be held in Allegany County April 19, May 3 and May 10.

Classes will begin at 9 a. m. at fire headquarters at Frostburg on April 19 and May 3 and in Centerville on May 10.

The schools will be centrally located in order that all volunteer companies may attend. During the morning sessions, specialized classes will cover pump operations, use of gas masks, chemistry of fire, rescue operations, hose evolutions and ladder work.

Large scale demonstrations will be held during the afternoon. Director of the Fire Extension Service is Robert C. Byrus, who points out that the schools are being held "on the interest of keeping Maryland tops in firemanship training."

Expected to be in charge of the schools are Byrus, Curtis Larimore and Thomas Owens, senior instructors from the Fire Extension Service.

Tasker Elected Moose Governor

Bernard Tasker was elected governor of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, in the annual election last night at the Moose Home on Beall Street.

Other new officers are Paul Allen, junior governor; Russell Minnicks, prelate; J. R. Vernall, treasurer.

The lodge members also elected two trustees. Joseph McFarland was elected for a three-year term and Robert Snyder for a one-year term.

Bro. Nicholas Presents Scientific Paper

Brother G. Nicholas, FSC, of LaSalle High School, is presenting a scientific paper at the 29th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Academy of Science being held today and tomorrow at Lebanon Valley College, Annville.

His paper deals with recent paleontological discoveries from Cumberland Bone Cave. The three day meeting will end tomorrow.

"Greener Pastures" Goal Of Allegany Co. Program

A five point program designed to improve pasture lands is being organized for farmers of Allegany County.

Ralph M. McHenry, county agent, yesterday said his office is now seeking the enrollment of farmers in this "Greener Pastures" program.

It is being planned by the Extension Service of the University of Maryland in cooperation with the U. S. Soil Conservation Commission and Production Marketing Administration offices here.

The five points which will be stressed toward better pasture management will include adequate liming and fertilization, rotation of grazing, control of weeds through clipping, more production of ladion and orchard grasses and the use of supplemental pastures during the hot-dry summer season.

The program, McHenry noted, is for the benefit of dairymen and farmers raising beef cattle, although all farmers are welcomed to enroll in the project. McHenry pointed out that pasture grass is one of the cheapest feeds in raising beef cattle and toward production of milk.

Sometime this fall a check list will be sent to each of the enrolled farmers who will submit a report on the results of their participation in the program.

A few interested farmers in nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania are also being included, McHenry said.

Bishop Powell To Make Three Visits To City

Will Lead Service At Emmanuel Today

When Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Episcopal bishop of Maryland, leads the three-hour Good Friday service from noon until 3 p. m. today at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, it will be the first of three appearances he will make in Cumberland during the sesquicentennial celebration of the parish here.

Bishop Powell will return to Emmanuel Church Sunday, April 12, for the Founder's Day Festival Service at 11 a. m. This service will include confirmation of new members, dedication of memorials and installation of new vestrymen.

Members of the Cumberland Police Boys Club will begin "spring training" in softball and baseball on Saturday at 10 a. m. in Constitution Park.

Officer Harry Iser, according to Chief R. Emmett Flynn, has been named recreation leader of the club and will replace Leo E. P. Law of the Police Detective Bureau, whose detective duties take most of his time.

The club has an athletic program throughout the year and meets once a month during the winter. After the pool opens at Constitution Park this year the members will hold meetings twice weekly on Wednesday and Saturday mornings at the park.

Iser urges all members to turn out on Saturday in order that two strong teams may be organized. The club usually enters a team in city competition during the softball and baseball seasons.

Other sports in which members take part include basketball, boxing, volley ball, track, with both Iser and Law as coaches. A highlight of the year is the two-weeks camp program at Camp Royal on Sideling Hill which provided the best of fishing and swimming to the members.

The operation of the camp, Law noted, depends on donations of residents. Future activities will be planned by the club in order to purchase much needed sports equipment.

Any boys interested in joining the club may do so by getting the information at police headquarters or from any officer, Law noted. About 300 now belong.
